TV shows worth binge watching

- Whether you like comedies, dramas, suspense, sci-fi thrillers, TV series can entertain families during self-isolation

By Sharon Stone

With so many people in Michigan adhering to the state’s stay-at-home order due to the coronavirus pandemic, an entertaining way to pass the time is binge watching movies and TV series, on Netflix, HBO, Showtime, Amazon Prime, Disney and more.

So what are adults watching?

This writer is watching two series right now, “Ozark” and “Schitt’s Creek.” The comedy and warm-hearted nature in Schitt’s Creek is a nice contrast to the suspense and drama in Ozark.

Digitaltrends.com has compiled a list of the most watched Netflix shows.

One of the shows on their list is, “The Haunting of Hill House,” starring Henry Thomas (you’ll remember him as Elliot in the movie, E.T.). One dark and ominous night, Hugh Crain (Thomas) gathers his children and flees their vast, gothic mansion, leaving his wife, Olivia (Carla Gugino), behind.

Olivia dies that night, her death ruled a suicide, and the tabloids run wild with stories of the haunted Hill House.

Next is “Alias Grace.” Based on a novel by Margaret Atwood (itself based on a true story), Alias Grace begins with a mystery. Grace Marks (Sarah Gadon) is serving a sentence for murder, for which her male accomplice was hanged.

According to digitaltrends.com, the show is no mere whodunit. As a member of the lower class, and a woman, Grace navigates social hierarchies that

Gov. Gretchen Whitmer’s order closes many businesses, leaves others open to maintain safety, protect life.

Many Michiganders are wondering which jobs are considered essential, leaving many employees to either work from home or cease working altogether.

Executive Order 2020-21 is essential and temporary, according to Gov. Gretchen Whitmer, “must be construed broadly to prohibit in-person work that is not necessary to sustain or protect life.”

The following is a list of jobs/activities that are or are not essential. A more detailed story is at myfenton.com. For the order in its entirety, go to Michigan.gov/coronavirus.

The Easter Bunny is coming!

Compiled By Vera Hogan

Area children have no reason to fear — the Easter Bunny will still be making his scheduled rounds Sunday, April 12. Think about it, he’s a rabbit and rabbits are animals, not affected by the coronavirus. Also, he lives in a hole (or the woods) and can hop faster than an Olympic runner. No, no diseases are getting to this guy. Your baskets may or may not have the same kind of goodies as in previous years, but the Easter Bunny is coming! Here are some fun facts about the Easter Bunny and other famous rabbits:

Easter Bunny

The Easter Bunny (a.k.a. Peter Cottontail) is a symbol of Easter, bringing colored eggs, candy and toys in a basket to the homes of children on the night or early morning hours before Easter. He originally played the role of a judge, evaluating whether children were good or disobedient in behavior at the start of the season. The Easter Bunny sometimes wears clothes.

Energizer Bunny

The Energizer Bunny is the marketing icon and mascot of Energizer batteries in the United States and Canada. It is a pink mechanical toy rabbit wearing sunglasses and blue and black striped flip-flops that beats a bass drum bearing the Energizer logo. The Energizer Bunny is promoted as being able to continue operating indefinitely, or at least much longer than similar toys (or other products) using other battery brands.

White Rabbit

The White Rabbit is a character in Lewis Carroll’s 1865 book Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland. He appears at the very beginning of the book, in chapter one, wearing a waistcoat, and muttering “Oh dear! Oh dear! I shall be too late!” Alice follows him down the rabbit hole into Wonderland.

Thumper

Thumper is a rabbit character from Disney’s animated films Bambi and Bambi II. He is known and named for his habit of thumping his left hind foot. The young adult version of Thumper also appears at the Walt Disney Parks and Resorts as a meetable character.

Bugs Bunny

Bugs is a gray and white rabbit or hare who is famous for his flippant, indifferent personality. He is also characterized by a Brooklyn accent, his portrayal as a trickster, and his catch phrase “Eh...What’s up, doc?” Due to Bugs’ popularity during the golden age of American animation, he became not only an American cultural icon and the official mascot of Warner Bros. Entertainment, but also one of the most recognizable characters in the world.

Br’er Rabbit

Br’er Rabbit is a central figure as Uncle Remus, who tells stories of the Southern United States. He is a trickster who succeeds by his wits rather than by brawn, provoking authority figures and bending what is socially acceptable as he sees fit.

FOOD AND HEALTH
Dr. Michael Greger, a leading promoter of nutritional health states, “Most deaths in the United States are preventable, and they are related to what we eat. Our diet is the number-one cause of premature death and the number-one cause of disability.” Dr. Joel Fuhrman states that “death in America is a food borne disease.” The Standard American Diet is meat based with an over abundance of sugar and is highly processed. Most Americans are lacking in the recommended daily allowance of nutrients and fiber because most of their dietary habits are lacking in fruits, vegetables and whole grains. As a result, the numbers for heart disease, stroke, cancer and diabetes are increasing every year in this country. For the most part early death and disability in our country is self inflicted. And the more plants you eat the healthier you are going to be. Following is information from an app I have downloaded onto my smart phone that helps me track the food I eat so that I know I am on the right road toward ideal nutrition and health.

Dr. Greger’s Daily Dozen
- Beans - 3 servings per day includes hummus, bean dip, cooked beans, split peas, lentil, tofu, fresh peas
- Berries - 1 serving per day includes strawberries, blueberries, black berries, raspberries, Acai berries
- Other Fruit - 3 servings per day
- Cruciferous Vegetables - 1 serving per day includes broccoli, cabbage, Brussels sprouts
- Greens - 2 servings per day includes lettuce, spinach, kale, Swiss chard, beet greens and arugula
- Other Vegetables - 2 servings a day
- Flaxseeds - 1 tablespoon ground per day
- Nuts - 1 ½ cup serving per day
- Seeds - 1 teaspoon serving per day
- Whole grains - 3 servings per day
- Beverages - 5 servings per day. Green tea is my favorite
- Exercise - 1 serving per day. Move it or lose it.

Our health is one of God’s greatest gifts: something to be cherished and nurtured. Proper eating and nutrition is key. Like most other things in life, if we ignore and abuse our health, we will lose it. Once lost, our health is very difficult, if not impossible to regain.

MHSAA - decision about sports seasons came April 3

By David Troppens

Gov. Gretchen Whitmer signed Executive Order 2020-35 Thursday morning ending the 2019-20 school year unless gathering restrictions are lifted before the end of the school year. It could mean the end of the 2019-20 prep athletic season as well. The Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) released a press release at 12:09 p.m. stating that no official decision has been made as of yet, but will be made no later than Friday afternoon. The decision was not made as of presstime. “We’re reviewing the governor’s announcement, asking questions and will make a statement as we continue to digest this order,” MHSAA Executive Director Mark Uyl wrote in the release.

Expectations were high before 1984 season even started

By David Troppens

Editor’s note: The Major League Baseball season was supposed to start a little more than a week ago. Obviously, due to COVID-19 the entire season is in jeopardy, which means one of the greatest rites of spring was missed for baseball fans. Fear not, the sports staff wants to fill that void this spring, summer and fall (as long as needed) by reliving the last Detroit Tigers’ World Championship season, 1984. This is the first story of our expected season-long installment. Enjoy.

Expectations for the 1984 Detroit Tigers’ season were super high when the season started on April 3.

When Detroit Tigers manager Sparky Anderson took the job in the middle of the 1979 season, he quickly promised the Tigers would eventually win an American League pennant in five years. Tiger fans seemingly took that to heart, and why not? He guided the Cincinnati Reds’ “Big Red Machine” to three World Series titles before coming to Detroit, so he came to the Tigers with great credentials.

Aikens’ victory sparks Bronchos to greatest year ever

Holly wrestling qualifies for team state meet for first time in 2005

By David Troppens

There have been some outstanding wrestling matches in Holly High School’s history.

There’s Steve Yobuck’s state championship match, the first in Holly High School history during the 1987 state finals. Trailing late, he came back in the final seconds to earn a pinfall win to capture his individual state championship. Since then the Bronchos have had 10 other state championship matches, including Josh Houldsworth and Anthony Gonzales each winning two during their careers.

However, when it comes to a match impacting the entire team, the greatest bout of Holly history arguably happened on Feb. 23, 2005 at Chippewa Valley High School involving a senior named John Aikens.

The Bronchos had been a solid wrestling program ever since coach Don Pluta took over the helm in 1983, but Holly had never qualified for the team state wrestling meet, and on this date it looked like the Bronchos had a chance to do just that. However, the Bronchos’ path wasn’t an easy one. In the
HOLLY

The match against Anchor Bay ended up being a thriller from the start. Entering the final bout of the night, Holly led just 27-25 entering Aikens’ 171-pound match against fellow individual state qualifier Dan Stevenson. Aikens was tied 3-3 late in the third period with only a tiny grip on Stevenson’s foot, desperately hoping to keep Stevenson from escaping and winning the match. For a half-second, Stevenson did just that with only 10 seconds remaining in the bout. However, like a linebacker, Aikens pounced on Stevenson again before the ref could give any sort of escape points. Instead, with his tackle, Aikens earned two near-fall points, earning the 5-3 decision win and clinching the Bronchos the 30-25 victory. Holly went on to beat Utica Eisenhower in the regional title match 45-24, earning their first-ever team trip to the state finals.

“Losing never crossed my mind,” Aikens said after the match. “I knew I had to keep going at it. Our coaches always taught us if we are tired just think about how tired everyone else is. I knew if I was tired, if I kept going at it, he’d be tired. (When he broke my grip on his leg) I just knew I had to get back on him and take him down again. … That had to be the best match that I ever had.”

About 15 years later, the memory still remains.

“I remember when the match started the weight class right after mine (was picked to start the match),” Aikens said. “Where we started was the perfect storm to set up the finish. I beat him in overtime the week before and coming in I knew it was going to be a close match.

“It’s been like 15 years and sometimes I wonder if I remember the match correctly and am blowing it out of proportion, but I guess I’m not.”

“We knew it was going to be a close match, but we knew what type of kid John Aikens was,” Pluta said. “(Holly assistant coach) Mark Mattingly told me we have John going on the mat so we are going to be good.

“When I saw the kid break away from John, my heart sank for a split second, and then the kid was on his back. John hung on to him jumping in the air. I remember that vividly to this day. John pounced on him like a cat and turned him down on his back for the victory.”

The 2004-05 Bronchos finished the season in the state quarterfinals, posting a school-record 31-4 record while also winning the team’s first Metro League title since 1992. But what the final 10 seconds of Aikens’ match may have done was change the dynamics of Holly wrestling. Already a solid program, the win elevated the Bronchos to where they were now considered one of the elite in the state for years after that day, quite frequently ranked in the top 10 in their division in the state.

“We were always pretty good. We won a few district championships and the league once, but when we broke down that wall and made the team state tournament it changed Holly wrestling,” Pluta said. “Once we accomplished it, the kids coming up said, ‘Yes, this is possible.’”

But while Aikens’ match symbolized the final step needed to get to that level, the building blocks started many years before the Bronchos faced Anchor Bay in that regional semifinal bout.

The beginnings of Holly’s first-ever team state qualifier

The beginnings of Holly wrestling greatness started with some friendships.

Pluta’s son, Danny, grew up with some of the athletes that eventually became some of the team’s top wrestlers.

“We grew up together and outside of wrestling we played football and baseball and established a tight bond among each other,” Aikens said. “The tight relationships made us closer and helped push us through everything. We had competition among each other on the mat but even when there were issues we were still best friends. We didn’t take anything to heart.”

Don Pluta and the parents were among those tight relationships. In fact, Pluta coached many of the wrestlers during travel baseball seasons.

Holly’s 2004-05 varsity wrestling team (left photo) became the first to qualify for the team state meet in school history. They are pictured here during the march of champions before their state quarterfinal meet at Battle Creek’s Kellogg Arena. (Below photo) Justin Hyde (top) was one of the Bronchos' top wrestlers.

It took time. The Tigers finished above .500 each of Anderson’s first four seasons, but usually were stuck around fourth or fifth place in the American League standings.

Things started to change in 1983. The Tigers threatened the Baltimore Orioles for the East title, actually leading the Orioles by a game as late as Aug. 13. However, the young Tigers were unable to keep pace with Baltimore, finishing in second, behind by six games in the final standings. When the season ended, most of Detroit thought 1984 would be their year.

The hype was immense. Detroit sports broadcaster Al Ackerman changed his sarcastic “Bless You Boys” chant for the Tigers (he also loved to call Sparky Anderson “Fifth-place Sparky”) into “Bless You Boys, this is the year.” Quickly, a song was made up of the catch-phrase.

The Tigers were a young team led by a strong core of players developed through the farm system — catcher Lance Parrish, second baseman Lou Whitaker, shortstop Alan Trammell, outfielder Kirk Gibson and pitchers Jack Morris and Stadium’s right field upper-deck bleachers. He was the new player of note when the season began, but two other players also came via trades and didn’t get the same notoriety. One was a lefty screwball pitcher named Willie Hernandez. He played for the Cubs and Phillies in 1983 and had a decent season out of the pen, but no one was seriously expecting the MVP and Cy Young Award season Hernandez produced in 1984. The other was a utility player named Dave Bergman who was the other player the Tigers got in the Hernandez transaction for Glenn Wilson and long-time Tiger favorite John Wockenfuss. Before the season ended, Bergman would provide Tiger fans with the plate appearance of the decade during the season. He became an indispensable bat and glove off the bench. The season was just about to begin in Minnesota, and it seemed half of Detroit was already whispering World Series title.

April 5: Tigers 7, Twins 5 (at Minnesota)

The Tigers trailed early, but home runs by Gibson (a three-run shot) and Trammell helped the Tigers eventually pull out the victory and earn the two-game sweep against the Twins.

Petry struggled early on, but he calmed down and pitched the first seven innings. Hernandez’s screwball was on display in the eighth and ninth as he pitched two more innings of shutout relief en route to the save.

The Tigers were 2-0 and headed to Chicago for a three-game weekend series with the White Sox. The Tigers were going to have their first nationally broadcasted game during the Saturday contest with Morris scheduled to start. The Tigers’ first great moment would come during that game.

At the start of the 1984 season, no one could’ve expected the outstanding year relief pitcher Willie Hernandez ended up having. He ended up being the American League MVP and Cy Young Award Winner.

Dan Petry were just a few of those players, and seemingly they were all about to reach their peak of their careers at about the same time.

The Tigers made some changes to their roster as well. They added a strong lefty power hitter named Darrell Evans, who was supposed to provide the Tigers with another bat that could reach Tiger

BRONCHOS

“His intensity for training and holding us accountable were his strengths,” Aikens said. “If we struck out watching a pitch he had the whole team do gassers. At the time, I hated those moments, but looking back I laugh at it and understand where coach Pluta was coming from. Conditioning isn’t as important in baseball as wrestling, but he held us accountable.”

“We had great ties when they were growing up, but it went beyond the kids,” Pluta said. “All of the parents knew each other and we were all good friends. When we were travelling for baseball all of the brothers, sisters, parents, aunts and uncles were there. We spent so much time together; we had that personal emotional attachment.”

And when the athletes got to the high school level, it paid off. Tight relationships evolve into families instead of teams. It also creates an accountability that can’t be matched on a squad of individuals.

Team state meet

The Bronchos drew Utica Ford in the D1 state quarterfinals and led throughout a large chunk of the match. Adam Barber (140) opened the match with a pinfall in just 16 seconds, and pinfall wins by Justin Hyde (152) and Aikens (171) and a void victory by Chris Turner (189) had Holly leading 23-9. Aaron Shelton’s (215) decision win had the Bronchos leading 26-9 with seven matches left. However, Ford won all but one of the final seven matches (Brian Sears won at 103 pounds by a 2-1 overtime decision) and eventually lost the bout 39-29. The Bronchos had some injuries prior to the match that hurt their chances of victory.

“It was another defining moment of the season,” Aikens said. “You realize you are there, you are on the stage as one of the best teams in the state — it was one of the finest moments for the team. I remember doing the march and realizing where we were and taking in all of the surroundings. It was a moment to remember.”

There were many great moments to remember.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF FENTON
CANCELLATION OF MAY 5, 2020 ELECTION

Under an emergency executive order from the Governor, the May 5, 2020 election is being held under different rules than other elections. The election is being conducted primarily by mail to limit in-person interaction and help prevent spread of COVID-19, caused by the novel coronavirus.

Because of that, school districts and other bodies that had placed questions on the May 5 ballot were given the opportunity to remove questions from the ballot and have them voted on in a future election.

Linden Community Schools decided to remove their bond proposal question from the May 5 ballot. For that reason, there will not be an election on May 5 in Fenton Township. Linden Community Schools may decide to place their proposal on the ballot on August 4 or another future election. Eligible voters will have the opportunity to vote when it is placed back on the ballot.

If the Linden Community Schools bond proposal question is placed on the August 4 ballot and you applied for an absent voter ballot for May 5, you will be sent a ballot for the August 4 election.

Please direct any questions you may have to the Fenton Township Clerk’s Office at 810-629-1537 x6 or by email at info@fentontownship.org.
