Local counselors give tips to stay mentally healthy

■ Get exercise, eat healthy, especially now during this pandemic

By Hannah Ball

Local counselors are offering tips to help people cope with the mental stress of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Gov. Gretchen Whitmer signed the stay-at-home order Monday, March 23, though many Michiganders have been working from home for longer. Residents are told not to leave the house unless they're an essential employee, going for groceries or for a medical reason, or if they're going to the park.

The minimal social contact can take a toll on people.

Mark Carpenter, MA, LPC owner of VAE Life Coaching in Fenton, has a few tips.

"More than anything, exercise. I'm at Clover Beach every day and people are out there. Get out and walk," he said.

He also recommends keeping a healthy diet and avoiding sugars.

"It (sugar) has an effect on our mood and in these days, there's more anxiety than anything. Sugar is horrible for an anxious mind," he said.

Mark Carpenter, MA, LPC owner of VAE Life Coaching in Fenton advises people to maintain a healthy diet, exercise and proper hygiene, especially during this pandemic. Times file photo

Make sure to keep a routine and practice good hygiene.

"Keep showering. People often neglect that when they feel there isn't a reason to even get up when we're all stuck at home. Make your bed every day. It really helps," he said. "Keep your house clean. Keep things in order. When we feel like the environment around us is controlled and contained, we feel better mentally."

Carpenter also recommends limiting the time spent watching news shows.

"You want to gather the information you need, but you don't want to be glued there. You can get the information you need without focusing on the 'the sky is falling' crap," he said. "Don't dwell on this stuff."

Try to stay connected with friends and family as much as possible with the internet and phone calls. Don't completely isolate yourself, he said.

"I tell people to get into something. Something that's more challenging mentally that keeps their mind off the sheer boredom of it all," he said. "Get into a book. Learn something. At least you're getting something out of this ordeal."

Carpenter can be reached at (810) 282-4093.

Fenton resident Laura Freeman, marriage and family therapist intern with B. Craig & Associates in East Lansing set to graduate in June, said it's easier said than done to make sure you're in a good mindset.

"What I share with my clients is make sure they try to get on some type of routine. Reach out to others during this time via Facetime or phone. That person on the other end may be feeling the same way and you can help one another."

National 'MOM & POP' Business Owners Day

Compiled By Vera Hogan

Sunday, March 29 was "National Mom and Pop Business Owners Day." A Mom and Pop business is a small, independent, usually family owned, controlled and operated business that has a minimum number of employees, has only a small amount of business volume, and is typically not franchised, therefore open for business only in a single location.

We are fortunate in the tri-county area to have hundreds of Mom and Pop businesses, too many to name all of them here. They are, however, the lifeblood of our communities and the following are just a few reasons we should support them:

Cheaper is not always better.

In many cases, when the big box retailers come to town, consumers find it less appealing to buy from the local small business because they can now get a cheaper alternative. But, even though a product may be cheaper, there could be many underlying issues with the product that explain how it came to be so cheap. It is likely that the small business offers a product that is of higher quality because the ingredients or components are most likely local, and the product itself has received more attention than it would in a large factory.

Fenton 'Mom and Pop' businesses were packed with shoppers for Ladies Night Out in November 2019.

Cheaper is not always cheaper.

Many small businesses focus on providing deals and discounts to stay competitive with their larger, corporate counterpart. Furthermore, small business owners are more likely to know their customers and offer them friendly discounts, loyal customer programs, or other perks that one would never receive when purchasing from a large corporation.

Mom and Pop shops care about you.

It is a great feeling to be known and remembered by the person from whom you have to make frequent purchases. Your local Mom and Pop small business owner will be more likely to be there for you when you need help from the business in any way. Your community's local businesses serve the community because they custom built by and for the people who actually live there.

It's an economically, morally smart move.

If the economy requires that small businesses outsource services or production to other countries because it's cheaper, or if big banks won't loan to small businesses, they can't function and the very American idea of the "self-made man" starts to become more of an idea than a reality. Supporting small businesses encourages individuals to be entrepreneurial and to allow their own skills to serve the community. And once the small businesses operate efficiently and bring in good revenue, this builds the groundwork for an interconnected, thriving national economy.

They give your community character.

If all cities were overrun by the same few large corporations, what would distinguish one city from the next? What would the people in each city be able to tell visitors about what their city has to offer? Mom and Pop small businesses give cities their own flavor. They give the community members a local space in which to connect with each other and share a unique experience. They give children specific memories about growing up in their hometown. They make each community and city unique, which is not only culturally rich, but also helps to diversify and drive the economy at large.

Giving should be a two-way street.

Mom and Pop businesses are always giving to the community through charitable efforts and a variety of much-needed fundraisers. When our students go into a small local business and ask for financial support for their athletic, music or other educational endeavors, they are likely to get the support of those small business owners. In turn, families need to support those local businesses with their hard-earned dollars.

Impatience derailed

My first home in Michigan was a little cottage on Lake Chemung just outside of Howell. That was nearly 35 years ago and since that time, I have been forced to learn that the only person hurt by being impatient was me. I've always had some trouble with patience, but I am far better with that than I was all those years ago — I think.

For example, on the very first time to my new Michigan grocery store, I was in line behind one woman. When she got to the cashier, the two obviously knew each other and started chatting about random stuff. Then, the customer yanks out a stack of photos from her purse and proceeds to show them to the cashier. More laughing and chatting ensued. By this time, my big city mentality started to show. I was huffing and puffing, and rolling my eyes. I was livid and felt like the top of my head was going to come off.

"What nerve, c'mon c'mon c'mon!" But I didn't say that, I didn't say anything. By the time it was finally my turn, that cashier knew by the look on my face that I was not happy.

When I got home and thought about it, I had to ask myself why I was so upset. Why was I in such a hurry. I wasn't and that revelation was really concerning.

The longer I lived in Michigan, the more I came to realize that I was the one with the problem, not my new friends and neighbors who obviously did not feel the need to pick up the pace even though they were holding up someone else, and knew it.

This has been one of those "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em" situations. I decided to learn from them and it has worked. Since those early days in Michigan, I have learned to slow down considerably and not be as impatient as I once was. Having children a few years later also derailed many of my impatient ways. I still get impatient but for different reasons, one of which is extreme stupidity. But that's another story.

Today, while we are all stuck in our homes and social distancing, I realize that I was right about at least one thing, and that is that everything happens for a reason. Had it not been for the circumstances that led me from Chicago to Michigan, I likely would not have run into the many people who taught me that slowing down, mentally and physically, is not a bad thing. And for that I am truly grateful.

for every 1,000 square feet of customer floor space; small stores must limit capacity to 25 percent of the total occupancy limits (including employees) under the fire codes. To regulate entry, stores must establish lines with markings for patrons to enable them to stand at least 6 feet apart from one another while waiting. Large stores must also close areas of the store that are dedicated to carpeting, flooring, furniture, garden centers, plant nurseries, or paint.

State Rep. Mike Mueller (R-Fenton Township), said, "There are hundreds of jobs across our communities and throughout our state that can be done without the risk of contact with others.

"Landscapers, construction workers, and mechanics are just some of the many jobs that could continue while spaced far apart from others. The governor is quick to slash jobs but has been very slow to address issues within the unemployment filing agency. Now she's adding on to the pile with no foreseeable plan to help displaced workers pay their bills and put food on their tables."

“Staying away from others may be the most difficult thing about this stay safe at home directive. We connect to others through conversation, nods, hugs and handshakes, normally. Now things are different. There is a new normal. Staying indoors can make for a lack of natural sunlight which is known to contribute to depression. For this I recommend going outside, just maintain distance from others,” she said.

“It’s important to find a new workout routine also,” she said. “Working out is also a healthy way to cope with stress.”

- Aloe vera gel
 - Essential oil, such as tea tree oil or lavender oil, or you can use lemon juice instead
- Stick to a 2:1 proportion of alcohol to aloe vera. This keeps the alcohol content around 60 percent, which is the minimum amount needed to kill most germs. Use a few drops of the oil.

Pour the ingredients in a bowl, mix with a spoon and beat the mixture with a whisk to turn it into a gel. Pour the sanitizer mix into a bottle for easy use and label it properly.

Precautions to take for making it at home:

Make it in a clean space. Wipe down countertops with a diluted bleach solution beforehand. Wash your hands before making it, and wash your supplies.

Make sure the alcohol used for the mixture isn’t diluted. Do not touch the mixture with your hands until it is ready for use.

Homemade hand sanitizer can cause skin irritation and injury if used incorrectly. It’s only recommended in extreme situations when you’re unable to wash your hands for the foreseeable future. It’s not recommended for use with children.

How to use it:

Spray it or apply it to one palm. Thoroughly rub your hands together and make sure you cover the entire surface of your hands, fingers included. Rub them for 30 to 60 seconds or until they are dry. It can take 60 seconds, or longer, for hand sanitizer to kill germs.

MHSAA: Rest of 2019-20 prep season canceled

By David Troppens

Gov. Gretchen Whitmer signed Executive Order 2020-35 April 2, ending the 2019-20 school year.

That action has resulted in the cancellation of the remainder of the 2019-20 winter and spring sports seasons.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) released a press release at 1 p.m. Friday, April 3, stating the seasons were canceled "in compliance with the Thursday 'state of disaster' directive by Gov. Gretchen Whitmer closing school buildings and moving education online for the remainder of the school year to help decrease the spread of the COVID-19 coronavirus."

The last time the MHSAA did not see the complete some of a sports season was during the 1942-43 school year.

Linden's Miller headed to Concordia to play football

By David Troppens

Brenden Miller always thought he'd end up playing basketball when he went to college.

That's not going to happen, but the Linden senior does have a great second option.

Miller will be continuing his football career at Concordia College next fall.

"I always thought I'd play basketball at the next level. I never thought about playing football at the next level until I started playing well," Miller said. "After I played my last football game, I realized I didn't want it to be done. I made my decision after the last game of the season. I'm addicted to the sport that much."

The Eagles struggled a year ago, finishing the season with a 4-5 record overall. The Eagles lost four of those games by eight or fewer points.

Offensively, the Eagles scored 64 more points than in 2018 and Miller was one of the team's top offensive threats. He caught 60 passes for 857 yards and eight touchdowns. Miller was a strong player in many other spots on the football field. He returned 21 kickoffs for 372 yards and a TD while also returning seven punts for 88 yards. On defense, he had five interceptions, returning them 103 yards. He also had 17 solo tackles and 16 assisted stops.

Miller expects he'll play wide receiver, probably on the inside slot.

"That's the plan, but I'll play whatever position is

Some thoughts about sports and others not dealing with sports at all

FENTON SPRING SPORTS USING VIDEOS TO HONOR THEIR TEAMS

I am not much of a Twitter fan. I have an account but rarely post on it. I have only checked it once in the last week, but while there, the Fenton athletics page came up and I saw some 'Meet the Team' links. Prior to spring break many of Fenton's varsity athletic teams decided to make a team video giving fans a chance to meet who would've been on the varsity squad if the seasons weren't canceled.

Day one was of the Fenton varsity baseball team. Using individual video clips, players were playing 'catch' from one clip at one destination to another.

Day two was the Fenton/Linden varsity girls lacrosse team. It used the theme song from the sitcom 'Full House' with each athlete doing something silly with their lacrosse equipment from clip to clip. I found this one really entertaining.

So for those wanting to see who would've been on some of Fenton's varsity spring sports teams, check them out.

beneficial to the team," Miller said.

The Cardinals are a member of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference (WHAC) and the program is a relatively young one, playing its first season in 2011. The squad had an 8-3 overall record, winning all four home games.

Miller was looking at many of the state's Division 3 schools but decided on Concordia College.

"It feels like home. It's only 40 minutes from home so I can come back and visit," Miller said. "They showed that they cared and showed a lot of interest. That's the number one reason I selected (Concordia)."

when the athletes included Randy Savage, Hulk Hogan and Mr. Perfect. In short, it's been about 25 years.

But my inner soul has craved finding anything live to watch, and it seems professional wrestling is the only live show on these days.

It's funny seeing how overly produced the story lines are. It's pretty crazy to see matches without a single person in the crowd. But, it seems every Monday and Friday for the last few weeks, the WWE is on the television.

What happened to one-on-one matches? We've seen ladder matches, a strap match (Greg Valentine and Roddy Piper had an awesome one in the 1980s), a boneyard match a symphony of destruction match and a last man standing bout. It's harder to keep up with the types of matches than it is the wrestlers. One more thing — Ric Flair's daughter is a wrestler. Who would've guessed?

Kaline passes away

Al Kaline retired in 1974 when I was just 5 so I don't remember ever seeing him play. However, I do collect radio broadcasts of old Tiger games, and within my collection probably have listened to 50 games he played within the contests I owned. Through his play in these games and just the number of compliments you hear from the announcers (most aren't Detroit broadcasts) it's obvious how much people around baseball respected Kaline.

During the last season at Tiger Stadium, we were lucky enough to meet Mr. Tiger. He walked down our aisle and the entire section mobbed him. He was very cordial despite everyone's exuberance. I was able to shake his hand, creating the only personal memory I had with Kaline. Even if it lasted just a minute, it was a pretty cool memory.

Winter awards

We annually have player of the year stories for boys and girls basketball and a story for the top wrestler. We also list our top teams of the winter. Now that the winter season is officially canceled, we'll be getting to those postseason awards soon.

Morris no-hitter gem highlights first week of 1984 Tigers' season

By David Troppens

Editor's note: The Major League Baseball season was supposed to start a little more than a week ago. To make up for the loss of the season, we'll be reliving the last Detroit Tigers' World Championship season, 1984 with occasional stories about the season. Enjoy.

Jack Morris was outstanding during opening day for the 1984 Detroit Tigers.

During his second start, in front of a national audience, he was even better.

After defeating the Chicago White Sox 3-2 on April 6 to begin the weekend series, the two teams were going to play at Comiskey Park as part of NBC's Game of the Week.

The Tigers were 4-0 and had their ace starter on the mound just four days after allowing just one run over seven innings in an 8-1 road victory against the Minnesota Twins. Could he possibly pitch better than that in his second outing?

The answer was yes.

Morris didn't start the game particularly sharp in terms of his control. He did get the White Sox out in order during the first three innings, but ended up walking the bases loaded with no out in the bottom of the fourth. No problem. All Morris did was get Greg Luzinski to ground into a double play (cutting out the runner at home) and then struck out Ron Kittle to end the threat. The Tigers held on to their 2-0 lead at the time.

In the White Sox's fifth, Vance Law earned the team's fourth walk with only one out. However, he ended up stranded on first base. After getting the White Sox out in order in the sixth, thoughts of the no-hitter were in Morris's head.

"I wasn't aware of having a no-hitter until I looked up at the scoreboard after the fifth," Morris said. "As it is, I didn't have my best stuff."

FUNERAL ETIQUETTE

When you arrive at the funeral home, go to the family, and express your sympathy with an embrace or by offering your hands. Don't feel as though you must avoid talking about the person who has died. Talking can help the grieving process begin. If you were an acquaintance of the deceased but not well-known to the family, immediately introduce yourself. Do not feel uncomfortable if you or the family member becomes emotional or begins to cry. Allowing the family to grieve is a natural healing process. However, if you find yourself becoming extremely upset, it would be kinder to excuse yourself so as not to increase the strain on the family.
