Governor prohibits motorized boats

Executive Order 2020-42 in effect until April 30 at 11:59 p.m.

By Sharon Stone

On March 23, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer issued Executive Order 2020-21, ordering all people in Michigan to stay home and stay safe. The order limited gatherings and travel, and required workers who are not necessary to sustain or protect life to stay home.

On April 9, Whitmer reaffirmed the executive order and extended the duration until April 30, prompting Executive Order 2020-42 to go into effect, with stricter rules, including boating.

Non-motorized boating, such as canoeing, kayaking and sailing, falls within the outdoor activities permitted, however, the use of a motorboat, jet ski or similar watercraft (includes gas and electric motors) is not permitted for the duration of the Executive Order, which is currently set to expire at 11:59 p.m. April 30.

Local departments see changing patterns in crime but few quarantine violations

By Tim Jagielo

The COVID-19 pandemic has changed many aspects of most people’s lives in Michigan and the tri-county area, and police work is no exception.

Lt. Jeff Cross with the Fenton Police Department said that all crimes are lower than average except for domestic assaults and retail fraud. Domestic assaults are slightly above average while retail frauds are holding steady.

Pandemic affecting Adopt-A-Pet operations, adoptions

Director worried about future of animal shelter

By Hannah Ball

The COVID-19 pandemic has caused significant changes at Adopt-A-Pet in Fenton Township.

Director Jody Maddock said, “Everything has 100 percent changed. We’ve had to completely discontinue our volunteer program. It’s been overwhelming how many people have contacted us saying how volunteering at Adopt-A-Pet was a big part of their lives and how Adopt-A-Pet has become a part of their family. Our staff feels the same way.”

They stopped the program for the safety of volunteers, staff and animals. The shelter put out a request for foster families, and received approximately 50 responses from people who offered to foster.

“Sometimes, times of crisis can open your eyes to how good things are and how wonderful people are,” Maddock said. “We don’t have enough animals for them.”

They currently have a few dogs who require medical attention and are being seen by staff. The shelter is doing limited intakes, Maddock said, and she’s asking people relinquishing animals if it’s an emergency or if they can wait.

Adopt-A-Pet is providing animal food to people if they can’t afford food for their pet during the pandemic. They’re also partnering with Genesee County Animal Control and taking animals from them when they can.

“Adoptions have really slowed down,” Maddock said. “We’re looking at which cases are most critical to get into homes. Our process has changed.”

For safety, they don’t do anything face-to-face. All communication and payments are handled through technology.

“There are so many people wanting animals right now because they’re at home and it’s a great time,” she said.

However, they’re also telling people the pandemic is going to end at some point.

To begin with, I would like to thank everyone. We are going through an unprecedented situation, and the support for our students and staff has been unwavering. To our frontline and health care workers, thank you for keeping us safe!

Since March 12, 2020, the world of education has been turned upside down. Students, teachers, and families have been scrambling to figure out how the learning process will look for the remainder of the 2019-20 school year, as well as what it may look like beyond that. With the uncertainty of what the future of education may look like, I think we all agree that education will continue.

The COVID-19 situation has made us all take a step back and rethink how we live our lives and educate our students. Overnight, the educational institution was challenged to create an alternate plan to continue the learning process for our students. Whether this becomes the new norm of education or not, educators are now prepared to offer learning strategies that break the traditional mold.

Moving forward, it is important that we continue to support our students in the continuation of the learning process. It may take some time to get used to the “new” norm of learning, but at the end of the day, it is the students who will benefit, and the students who will be better prepared to handle adverse situations.

I encourage everyone to stay true to the values of education, regardless of how the learning process is done. Whether in a school building, at home, or through virtual means, learning will continue. Our students are our future, and our future is bright!

Community mourns death of FHS grad, social justice advocate

Calvin Rapson, a 2012 inductee of FHSAA Hall of Fame, former UAW vice president died April 14

By Sharon Stone

Calvin (Cal) Rapson, 75, of Swartz Creek, formerly of Fenton, died Tuesday, April 14. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, a private family service will be held at a later date. Sharp Funeral Homes will handle funeral arrangements. There is no indication his death was due to coronavirus.

Rapson worked for the United Autos Workers (UAW) as the vice president with more than 40 years of service.

Rapson was a 1963 graduate of Fenton High School.

As previously reported in the Times, the Fenton High School Alumni Association (FHSAA) Operating Board inducted Rapson to the FHSAA Hall of Fame in 2012.

He was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree from Michigan State University in 2008 and was widely recognized as a forceful advocate for social justice. He was instrumental in effectively building coalitions that advanced communities.

When interviewed in 2012, Rapson was quoted as saying, “As I look back, I’m proud I had the honor of representing all of these autoworkers. There’s nothing I would rather have done.”

The FHSAA Operating Board highlighted some of Rapson’s accomplishments at the time of his induction into the hall of fame. Highlights included:

- In 2008, Rapson was elected to the supervisory board of Adam Opel AG.
- Rapson was instrumental in implementing a two-year certificate program offered by the MSU School of Labor and Industrial Relations.
- He steadfastly worked with the administrations of MSU, Lansing Community College and Mott Community College in promoting better relationships between labor and academia.

Jersey Mike’s Subs supports Fenton community

By Sharon Stone

What a year it’s been for Michael Balen and his family. Nearing their first anniversary of opening Jersey Mike’s Subs on Owen Road in Fenton, the family’s business is making a difference in the Fenton community.

Balen is partners with his father, Alan Balen. His wife, Anna, his younger brother, Matt, and his mother, Tracy Balen, all work at the sub shop on a regular basis. To top things off, Balen and his wife celebrated their first wedding anniversary this past week.

They will be opening a second Jersey Mike’s Subs in May in Grand Blanc and then a third in Saginaw.

Balen, who commutes from Freeland, where he grew up, is looking forward to making Fenton his home. He went to Montana State University where he played football. After college, he worked in marketing in Florida. When his dad, who was already in the restaurant business for 30 years, approached him about being partners in a Jersey Mike’s, everything fell into place.

Fenton was an available location for Jersey Mike’s. “I love Fenton,” Balen said. “It’s a great area. It’s big enough, and it’s small enough to be a hometown. We appreciate Fenton for welcoming us with open arms and always supporting us.”

Construction on their Grand Blanc shop has been delayed due to the “stay home” order, however, they had been conducting interviews for hiring and hope to open with not too much interruption.

Restaurants are considered essential during this COVID-19 pandemic and owners have scrambled to keep their businesses going, while keeping their employees and customers safe from the coronavirus, which is extremely contagious and deadly.

Balen is grateful that they have not laid off a single employee during this pandemic. They have given employees and their families free or discounted meals, as well as extra bonuses for continuing to work.

Concerned for children and teens who rely on free and reduced meals from their school, they decided to offer $2.99 Student Meals to help area families. They also offer discounts on orders online and via their app. Balen said 90 percent of their orders currently come in online or by app.

Everyone is concerned about slowing the spread of the coronavirus and protecting themselves and others.

To keep their employees and customers safe, Jersey Mike’s is following all of the COVID-19 procedures for cleaning and social distancing. “As a group, we have checkpoints. We sanitize, clean, use gloves and have Plexiglass separators for paying for orders.”

Balen appreciates how important their team members have been, and how vital they have been to the success of their business.

For the safety of their customers, they offer different ordering options, including online, in-store, carry out, call in, downloadable app, and third-party delivery with DoorDash.

Different pickup options include in-store, “no contact” at the door, and curbside.

Balen said their fresh, quality sliced meats are antibiotic-, hormone- and preservative-free. They also offer 95-percent fat-free ham products, 99-percent fat-free turkey, and grilled fresh cheesesteaks. Their fresh produce, which they prep in house, includes lettuce, tomatoes, onions, and more. Their tuna is made onsite, and their roast beef is cooked fresh in-house and bread is baked fresh daily.

Jersey Mike’s Subs of Fenton recently raised more than $1,600 for the Beaumont Student Heart Check during their Month of Giving (March) and they donated $500 to Fenton Center of Hope this past week.

Overall, Jersey Mike’s of Fenton has raised and donated more than $10,000 in the past year to local Fenton charities, schools and organizations.

An ideal of Jersey Mike’s is the “Give to Give.” Balen said that fit with the mindset of his family. “We’re glad to run a business we’re proud of,” he said.

point, and they have to think about if they’ll be able to take care of a pet once they don’t have to stay at home.

The pandemic is taking a toll on the shelter’s ability to raise money, which they normally do through events in the summer. Maddock said they’ve had to cancel or postpone events, and they’re “at a halt” with income coming in. They’ve applied for four different grants and for the small business loans for nonprofits.

“It’s to make sure our employees are taken care of and the animals as well,” she said. “It’s kind of nerve-wracking on our end. We don’t want to ask people to give money during this time, but if this goes on for a couple more months, then we’re going to be in trouble.”

They posted on their Facebook that they’re accepting donated bottles and cans.

“We don’t want anyone taking a trip specific for us, but if you’re out and about already, we’re taking bottles and cans. When everything opens back up, we’ll return them,” she said.

The shelter is now running out of space to store donated items.

“We had such an overwhelming, wonderful response,” she said.

The shelter does not use plastic bags anymore, but they do take blankets.

Every year, Adopt-A-Pet hosts a “kitten shower” in the spring to find homes for kittens. The event was planned for next Saturday, April 25, and instead, it will be held online at Adopt-A-Pet’s Facebook page. They will post photos of all the available kittens and requests for needed supplies. This includes kitten food, toys and litter boxes, which Maddock said they’re running low on.

“You can’t snuggle them, but you can see how cute they are and how many we have. We’re hoping people will donate some kitten food and litter boxes,” she said. “People can drop supplies off at the building, but they can’t come into the building.”

Maddock said people are ordering supplies for Adopt-A-Pet from the shelter’s smile wishlist on Amazon. However, Amazon shipments are taking a few weeks to arrive, and it’s faster to drop the supplies off at the shelter.

First ‘Arts Are The Heart’ event canceled
Fenton mayor pro tem gives COVID-19 update on summer events

By Hannah Ball

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Fenton Arts Council canceled the first 2020 “Arts Are The Heart” event originally scheduled for May 16.

The organization sent out a press release Tuesday, April 14 with the news.

The Summer Fun Community Resource Fair was going to be held at the Ellen Street Campus-World of Wonder. The statement reads, “At this time, we are continuing to plan and hope that the future ‘Arts Are The Heart’ events this year will occur as scheduled.”

The next event is the Fenton Arts Council Fine Art Member Exhibit, set for July 10 to Aug. 8, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Cause & Affect Gallery at 126 N. LeRoy St. There will be a reception on July 10 from 6 to 9 p.m.

The Back to School Community Resource Fair is still planned for Aug. 15 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Ellen Street Campus-World of Wonder. The Mini Maker Faire is set for Nov. 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Ellen Street Campus-World of Wonder. All these events are free.

Other Fenton events

Pat Lockwood, Fenton City mayor pro tem, said events scheduled in May are a tough call and will most likely be canceled, but they’re hoping and planning to go forward with events this summer.

“Especially with the Fourth of July. The Freedom Festival Committee has been together for 20 years. We believe strongly that there will be new ways of doing things when we come out of this. Whatever the rules are, we’ll certainly follow them,” she said.

Lockwood is hopeful that the Fourth of July festivities could be a healing event for the community where people come together.

But all of this depends on Gov. Gretchen Whitmer’s orders and the state of the pandemic in the coming months.

“Everyone’s in the same boat. We’ll just have to wait and see,” Lockwood said. “I think people will be hesitant at first, but we want to give people the opportunity to come see a parade and fireworks and start healing again.”

She has a similar sentiment for other summer events, including the Concerts in the Park series that starts in June.

Lockwood has been involved in numerous conference calls with county and state officials for updates on the pandemic.

“Things change every day. I think people depend on us and I want to be there for them,” she said.

SLPR adapts to shutdown, hopes to have summer events

Interim executive director encourages ‘proactive actions and faith’

By Hannah Ball

Southern Lakes Parks and Recreation (SLPR) holds many classes each year, from exercise classes to martial arts and book club.

The COVID-19 pandemic has forced the organization to alter operations, but Nancy Muffley, interim executive director, is hopeful they’ll be able to hold summer events.

According to slpr.net, scheduled rentals of the Fenton school facilities and all rentals at the Fenton Community & Cultural Center are currently canceled through April 30, per the Governor’s orders. There are a few virtual exceptions.

SLPR has been approved by the state to continue virtual drivers training classes. SLPR drivers training courses are proceeding online at this time and will meet in person at the Fenton Community & Cultural Center as soon as possible, according to slpr.net. Drivers training registration is open for April and May sessions. These classes do have a limited number of participants allowed.

SLPR employees are still planning for programs and events in the warmest months.

“If it is allowed that these events can be held, we are ready. If it is deemed necessary that these events cannot take place, we will look forward to next year,” she said. They’re currently working on the summer brochure. They will not print it, but it will be available on the website at slpr.net starting May 11.

“We have many of our favorite programs returning as well as exciting new programs we hope to offer,” she said. The offices have been closed since the shutdown.

“Our staff has the ability to work remotely in the safety of our own homes. We still conduct regular staff meetings via virtual meeting venues, we are in constant communication with one another to make sure we are handling our daily responsibilities as well as communicating with our community,” Muffley said.

Employees and families are handling it “as good as can be expected.”

“We have a very resilient staff at SLPR and we have an incredibly resilient community. Although we have all made drastic adjustments to our everyday lives, we support one another and are looking forward to returning to something that resembles normality,” she said.

The pandemic has been difficult and tragic to many families in the community and country, she said, as well as an incredible hit to our economy.

“This is out of any one person’s ability to control, but it is the responsibility of everyone to do their part. Worry doesn’t normally help a situation, but proactive actions and faith that things will improve is a hope we can hold on to,” Muffley said.
Heath care workers greeted by applause, flashing lights and cheers Wednesday morning

By Sharon Stone

In a show of emotional support for each other, numerous police, firefighters and emergency first responders lined up their vehicles in front of Ascension Genesys Hospital in Grand Blanc Township and applauded the health care workers.

Personnel from the Fenton Police Department, as well as Grand Blanc Township police and fire departments, Flint Police Department, Michigan State Police, Genesee County Sheriff’s Office, the University of Michigan-Flint police and several local EMS first responders.

The gathering took place at 6:15 a.m., Wednesday, April 15. A DJ provided motivational music for employees arriving for their day shifts or leaving their night shifts.

A large sign on the grounds of the hospital read, “Heroes Work Here.”

Lt. Jeff Cross and officer Jennifer Garrison of the Fenton Police Department attended the gathering ahead of their day shifts in Fenton.

Cross said, “It was actually really nice. The nurses, staff and doctors that we saw were really emotional about it.”

The lieutenant was not sure who organized the event, however, word spread and those who could make it showed up to show their support for the hospital workers.

Cross said lights and sirens on the vehicles were activated and a DJ played music, such as the “Rocky” theme song, to motivate everyone. “It was pretty cool,” Cross said.

At one point, Cross said, “Doctors and nurses came out and applauded us. We were like, wait, no, we’re here for you.”

Cross said working at the police department is comparable to being with your family. “It’s almost like a family. We’re around each other all day long.”

I WOULD RATHER die from the Wuhan virus than live in a country like Venezuela. If we let Gov. Whitmer have total power over us how is that any different than a dictatorship? We all need to stand up and stop this power grab.

THE REASON why the governor doesn’t want people to buy paint, seeds, mulch, etc., is because people will not follow the 6-foot rule at big box hardware stores. Be patient. Paint is less important than your fellow human being’s health.

THANK YOU, GOVERNOR Whitmer for keeping us safe.

YEP, YOU BOUGHT the property up north and are angered by the stay-at-home order for a few weeks. Take the virus up north to less affected communities. Better yet, bring it back to your community. Better yet into your family household. How selfish, not a true Michigander or American.

ARE MICHIGAN TEACHERS laid off or are they still on the payroll? Someone please tell me.

BOATS

Consistent with MCL 10.33 and MCL 30.405(3), a willful violation of this order is a misdemeanor.

According to the executive order, any outdoor activity, including boating, must be done in a manner consistent with social distancing, and individuals should use only their own equipment to prevent the transmission of the virus through the touching of shared surfaces. In addition, persons not part of a single household may not boat together.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and all state agencies are working closely with the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC).

There are approximately 798,544 boats registered in the State of Michigan. This accounts for 6.7 percent of all nationwide registrations, according to marinettile.com.

The Michigan Boating Industries Association (MBIA), which serves as the voice of recreational boating in Michigan is monitoring the situation.

“In her first executive order, the Governor recognized boating as a great opportunity for families to safely enjoy the outdoors. To ban motor boating entirely due to a few reports of overcrowding is an over-reaction,” wrote MBIA Executive Director, Nicki Polan on the association’s website. “Alternatively, those specific boat launches could have been closed and the individuals violating social distancing ticketed.

“Additionally, to ban registered boaters who pay registration fees, which support the state’s launch ramps and not ban kayakers who pay nothing into the Michigan State Waterways Fund is salt on the wound,” Polan wrote. “Kayakers fuel their cars on their way to the launch ramp no different than trailer boaters.”

Genesee County Sheriff Christopher Swanson said that the sheriff’s seasonal marine patrols will not start patrolling the lakes regularly until Memorial Day weekend.

“As law enforcement, we are required to enforce laws. However, enforcement can be done by teaching, talking and understanding” he said. “This restriction has created some concern as to non-motorized versus motorized, which I get.”

Swanson said he’s heard the complaints about no boat motors, but that everyone just needs to follow the governor’s order until it expires. “We’re all in this together,” he said. “Follow the orders of the state of Michigan as a good citizen whether we agree. We are close to the end.”

When asked if they would pull over boats, Swanson said, “We’re not actively pulling over any boats.” He looks at this as short-term inconvenience for long-term public health gain.

“This thing is no joke,” Swanson said. “I’ve seen nurses at McLaren sobbing for the deaths they’ve seen overnight.

“I’ve experienced the pain of the virus personally. Genesee County has the fourth highest death rate in the state. COVID-19 is unforgiving.”

WITH SO MANY Michiganders prohibited from working and confined to their homes, it’s a perfect time to catch up on home and yard chores. Ordering those supplies could be ordered safely online, yet our foolish governor banned their sale, making confinement more difficult. Vote her out.

ARE YOU THAT selfish that you don’t want to stay home during the COVID-19 crisis? Please think of others. Be kind.

NOW THEY ARE reporting that the coronavirus was accidentally leaked from a bio lab in Wuhan, China. An investigation by the U.S. is necessary. We must find out the truth so that this never happens again.

I LIVE ACROSS from Petts Lake and I can see every vehicle that goes up and down that road. The speeds are way too high now. We need more sheriff’s deputies on the road. People, slow down.
CRIME
Traffic infractions are far lower, with fewer cars on the road.

Fenton Police Chief Jason Slater agrees that calls overall are down, but they’ve seen an increase in serious calls concerning the mental health of residents. “I think that these unsettling times have added to their stress and their anxiety,” he said, adding that the lack of the normal routine may be exacerbating the problem.

Family members are calling on behalf of loved ones who may be unstable or have made threatening statements or someone witnessed someone else acting strangely. He knows that economic stress also makes things worse and he hopes the federal stimulus money helps.

A surprising side effect of the current executive order is the number of requests from family members asking that a loved one’s workplace be shut down. Fenton police often investigate and they find it’s actually an essential business. If not, he said the business information is forwarded to the correct authorities.

The Genesee County Sheriff’s Office patrols Fenton Township. Sheriff Chris Swanson said calls are consistent for March 2019 and March 2020. There has been no increase in violent crimes due to the stay home order.

Holly is experiencing fewer retail fraud calls, due to less commerce taking place. “In addition, since bars and other social engagements are all canceled, there is less drunk driving,” said Holly Police Chief Jerry Narsh.

Holly police have not registered a marked increase in assaults since the stay-at-home order has been issued. He said they’ve had a few cases of larceny from auto at the onset of the executive order, but those have trickled off.

Officer safety
To keep officers safe, calls that may have been made in person are being done by phone. This includes Fenton police and the Genesee County Sheriff’s Office. Officers are being asked to adhere to social distancing rules.

A small department like Fenton’s would be severely hampered by a case of COVID-19. Slater said there are aid agreements in place with other departments in case this should happen. So far, he said officers and their families have been safe.

Narsh said his department is taking precautions to keep officers safe, like anti-viral fogging of police facilities and vehicles among others.

Swanson said there are three Genesee County Jail employees who tested positive for COVID-19.

Enforcing the executive order
Recently, more stringent rules have been placed on Michigan residents and businesses in an attempt to slow the spread of the COVID-19 virus. Cross said they have responded to a few calls about social distancing violations. They’ve given several warnings but have not issued any citations. “The people we have had contact with have been very understanding and willing to move along, and we appreciate that,” Cross said.

Slater said his officers will not be pulling anyone over on suspicions that they’re violating the stay-at-home order. He said if someone is pulled over, it will be due to a moving violation or suspicion that they’d committed a different crime.

Narsh has also experienced an increase in calls about businesses not following safety rules. They’ve had few social distancing violation calls.

In responding to such calls and educating residents, Narsh said, “We have not had push back or disagreement, just the mutual and collective frustration with people attempting to live their lives as normally as possible in this ‘new normal’ temporary environment.”

Swanson said his deputies also have not had to issue citations over violating the stay-at-home order, though they’ve had many conversations with people about what is allowed. He suggests they read the order.

Create dedicated space with correct lighting and comfortable environment

Many people have found themselves working from home due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Whether setting up shop at the kitchen table or creating a complete home office, here are simple hacks to make your new work environment comfortable and productive.

“No matter which room becomes your workspace, proper lighting plays a key role in avoiding fatigue, eye strain and other discomforts,” said Jennifer Kis, director of marketing communications, Progress Lighting.

Begin by defining your workspace. Setting up on the kitchen or dining table can work — temporarily. The upside is that it’s quick and easy. But these rooms are typically high-traffic areas, leading to distractions. Plus, you might have to pack up work at mealtimes. Instead, re-purpose a small table and chair and place it in an out-of-the-way spot, such as a stairwell or bedroom corner.

Next, think about lighting. Layering light is a basic technique that should be used in every room, but especially home offices.

Balancing the light for different times of day is recommended.

Select a location with a good source of ambient light. Natural light is ideal — it diffuses throughout the space, bouncing off walls and ceilings to cut down on glare that can reflect on the computer monitor and the shiny desk surface.

Creating a dedicated office space in your home, with layered lighting, comfortable seating and an efficient layout, will allow you to be more productive.
From professional to residential needs, there’s a tractor style and size to fit all

By Sharon Stone

Just like the automobile, tractors have come a long way since they came into existence. Technology upgrades over the years most likely require professional expertise if repairs are necessary.

Flint New Holland, Inc., with locations in Burton and Richmond, are pros at taking care of garden and farm tractor needs.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, they also are ensuring safety measures to keep everyone healthy. To accomplish this, they are offering curb-side pickup of materials for customers doing their own tractor repairs, as well as servicing garden and farm tractors.

Flint New Holland has long been providing industry leading sales, and service of industrial and agricultural tractors and equipment. Their goal from the beginning has been to provide quality and innovative products while being sensitive and responsible to service needs.

Their dedicated staff understands the importance of choosing reliable equipment with quality service. From weekend improvement jobs and garden growers to large farming operations and construction contracts they can meet your equipment needs.

A look back at tractors in the U.S.

Tractors first emerged in the early 19th century when steam engines on wheels were used to help drive mechanical farm machinery using a flexible belt. The first portable steam engine used for agricultural purposes was invented by Richard Trevithick in 1812 and it was known as the Barn Engine, according to pioneerautoeshow.com. The Barn Engine was mainly used to drive a corn threshing machine.

Advances continued and improvements to engines began to develop as the history of tractors continued.

By 1903, Charles W. Hart and Charles H. Parr had successfully built the first American tractor using a two-cylinder gasoline engine. Their firm went on to build 15 farm tractors. Their 14,000-pound tractor is now on display at the Smithsonian National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C. as the oldest surviving internal combustion engine tractor in the United States.

LIGHTING

“When selecting ambient light sources, the goal is to illuminate the entire space without creating undue glare and contrast, which can lead to headaches and eye strain,” Kis said. “If possible, avoid using overhead ceiling fixtures as the primary source of lighting. If that’s the only option, use a dimmer switch to vary light levels as needed.”

Positioning your workspace correctly also helps. For rooms with natural light, place your desk perpendicular to the window, ideally facing north or south so that sunlight doesn’t cast shadows at certain times of the day. If an overhead fixture is the only light source, situate your workstation so that the light shines from behind it.

CHECK OUT THESE HELPFUL TIPS

- Don’t set your monitor in front of the window; the bright background light shining behind the screen causes eyestrain.
- Place your chair at least arm’s length from the screen so that it can be seen without reading glasses or squinting.
- Add LED tape lighting behind your monitor or under a desk for diffused light.
- Use solar shades to soften lighting and lessen heat.

After setting up a glare-free workstation, add task lighting. Use dedicated light sources such as desk lamps for tasks like paperwork and filing. Place direct task lights on the opposite side of the hand you write with to avoid casting shadows onto your work.

Finally, add accent lighting for visual appeal. Frame your workspace with desk lamps or install a permanent fixture on a dimmer switch, such as a pendant hung directly over the desk. Wall sconces can throw light on decorative objects in the room.

Lighting can make or break a home office. Be sure to set yourself up for maximum productivity and comfort.

Finding the right financial advisor

Know what to discuss when interviewing potential planners

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Prospective investors can calm their nerves by discussing certain topics with planners before deciding to work with them.

Investors put a lot of faith in their financial advisors. Many professionals work hard to save enough money to invest so they can secure their financial futures.

Handing that hard-earned money to a financial advisor can be nerve-wracking, but prospective investors can calm their nerves by discussing certain topics with planners before deciding to work with them.

FIDUCIARY STATUS

People new to investing will no doubt find some financial jargon confusing. Fiduciary is one term that novice investors may be unfamiliar with. A fiduciary is a financial professional who must place clients’ interests ahead of his or her own. Fiduciaries also must disclose any existing or potential conflicts of interest that might affect clients’ willingness to work with them. That includes how they earn their money. Non-fiduciaries have no such responsibility, so they can sell clients a particular investment without having to tell clients how their own compensation is affected by that sale.

The Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards’ “Rules of Conduct” can be found at cfp.net.

FEES

Fees should be discussed before signing an agreement with a financial advisor. Ask each advisor you interview how they earn their money. Some might charge clients a percentage of the assets they’re managing while others may earn money by selling you specific products.

Investors have a right, and an obligation to themselves, to understand how financial advisors they work with will earn

Adding style to your home

Consider pastel colors, subtle wallpaper for texture, accent pieces and more

Spring is a season of rejuvenation, and that spirit of renewal can take hold inside a home.

Warm weather and longer hours of daylight make spring a perfect time to imagine a home’s interior design in a new light. The following are a handful of decor ideas that may inspire home owners to give their homes an entirely new look this spring.

Wallpaper: Wallpaper fell out of favor years ago, but new styles that aren’t so heavily patterned can make for wonderful additions to any room. Large-scale prints can give a room a whole new feel without giving homeowners or their guests the impression that they have stepped back in time. A simple, mural-style floral wallpaper on the walls surrounding a table in a breakfast nook can bring nature inside.

Pastel colors: Nothing embodies the spring quite like pastel colors. If colorful, bright flowers dot the garden in the backyard, homeowners can bring those uplifting pastels inside by painting an accent wall or even adding some brightly colored accent furniture to rooms that could use a lift.

Declutter: Clutter is often conquered during spring cleaning sessions, but homeowners who want to create more free-flowing interior spaces can downsize their furniture and/or look for multipurpose features that make it hard for clutter to take over a room. Create more open space in entertaining areas by mounting the television and getting rid of a bulky entertainment center. Create even more space by replacing rarely used end tables with a storage ottoman where books and magazines can be stored to give a room a fresh, clean look.

Accent features: Sometimes the smallest changes to an interior space make the biggest impression. Replace dated accents like vases and table lamps with newer items that reflect the latest styles and trends. Such adjustments won’t break the bank, and they can give rooms a whole new feel.

Spring is a great time to reconsider home interiors. This spring homeowners can embrace various strategies, both big and small, to give their homes a whole new feel.
Impact could run through mid-July; pruning now is discouraged

Compiled by Sharon Stone

If you have oak trees, especially red oaks, now is the time to be wary of oak wilt spores carried by flying beetles. According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), from April 15 to July 15, oak trees are at high risk for oak wilt, a serious fungal disease that can weaken white oaks and kill red oak trees within a few weeks of infection.

“The guidelines against pruning oak trees during this period are a way to help prevent the spread of the disease,” said James Wieferich, forest health specialist in the DNR’s Forest Resources Division. “Unfortunately, many people learn not to prune or otherwise wound trees from mid-April to mid-July only after they lose their oaks to oak wilt.”

Fungus travels by insects, through root grafts

Once a tree is infected, the fungus also can move to neighboring red oaks through root grafts. Oaks within about 100 feet of each other, depending on the size of the trees, have connected, or grafted, root systems. Left untreated, oak wilt will continue to move from tree to tree, killing more red oaks over an increasingly larger area. As more trees die from oak wilt, more fungal spores are produced, which allows the beetle to carry infection to new locations.

Oak wilt was first identified in the 1940s and is now widespread across Michigan. Red oaks are most susceptible to the disease. These trees have leaves with pointed tips and include black oaks, northern red oaks and northern pin oaks. Trees in the white oak group have rounded leaf edges and include white oaks and swamp white oaks. They are less susceptible.

Symptoms most often appear from late June until September. Affected trees will suddenly begin to wilt from the top down, rapidly dropping leaves, which can be green, brown or a combination of both colors.

Take steps to reduce risks to your trees

The high-risk period of infection occurs from April 15 to July 15, so it’s important to avoid pruning or injuring oak trees during this time. If you have a tree that gets damaged during the risk period, immediately cover all wounds with tree-wound paint or latex-based paint.

Don’t move firewood, especially if it comes from oaks that may have died from oak wilt, as firewood can harbor the fungus. If you suspect your firewood is infected by oak wilt, you can help slow the spread by burning it, chipping it or debarking it before April. Once the firewood has been dried over a year and/or all the bark loosens, the firewood can no longer spread oak wilt.

Five ways to upgrade your home with new tech

Research ideas now while adhering to stay home order, do project later

Upgrading your lifestyle doesn’t have to mean undergoing a major home renovation. By simply introducing a few technologies around the home, you can boost the style, efficiency and comfort of your living spaces.

Consider these five ideas for five areas of your home.

- The Hallway: Why display just one photo when you can rotate several images that include all your favorite people and moments? A digital picture frame allows you to do just that, with many models connecting to apps that allow you to directly share photos to the wall-mounted device, which means you don’t actually have to be at home to do some light redecorating.

- The Home Theater: Still rocking a mercury bulb projector in your home theater? Unfortunately, the cooling fans, filters and toxic mercury bulbs associated with them are inefficient and high-maintenance.

  While a laser-only light source sounds good on paper, these models tend to be large and costly. Instead, consider upgrading to a laser and LED hybrid light source. Offering a life-span of approximately 20,000 hours, power-saving designs can cut energy consumption by as much as 40-50 percent, making this an addition to your home theater you can feel good about.

- The Kitchen: Slow cookers have always offered a convenient way to create an amazing meal without too much hands-on attention, but some of today’s options are taking this concept a step further by connecting to smart technology. Now you can monitor and adjust cooking settings from afar, so that if something unexpected occurs and you get home later than planned, dinner doesn’t suffer for it.

- The Family Room: Whether you’re an aspiring musician or an accomplished pianist, your home can benefit from a digital piano that evokes the luxury of an acoustic grand. One such model is the PX-S3000. Its bright backlit LCD display and touch sensor controls are revealed only when the power button is pressed, leaving only a sleek, clean top panel when powered off. Its integrated Bluetooth audio lets you connect your device wirelessly and you can play your music through its powerful stereo amplification system.

- The Bathroom: Make stepping out of the shower a luxurious experience with a towel-warming drawer, which keeps linens the perfect temperature for maximum comfort.

  For some easy upgrades with a big impact, consider incorporating the best and brightest tech into your home.

To enjoy movies at home, kill the ‘soap opera’ effect

‘Motion smoothing’ can be disabled for a more accurate movie experience

By Tim Jagielo

What do the directors of “Star Wars: The Last Jedi,” “Black Panther,” “Wonder Woman” and “GoodFellas” have in common?

They’re all outspoken critics of a home TV setting that you may be watching right now. Directors Rian Johnson, Ryan Coogler, Patty Jenkins and Martin Scorsese have all spoken out against “motion smoothing,” a common default setting on many home TVs for nearly a decade.

Christopher Nolen (“Batman” series) and Paul Thomas Anderson (“Boogie Nights”) also lead campaigns against this setting that smoothes out fast action in a way that works well for sports, but cinema directors dislike for how it cheapens their image. “It makes movies look like YouTube 60fps unboxing videos or soap operas,” said Detroit Film Society film critic Michelle Kisner.

Most TV and movies are filmed at 24 frames per second (fps). That means that if it was film, 24 images play across the screen, per second. It creates movement “natural” to the viewer. “It’s been associated with ‘filmic’ look since after silent film,” Kisner said, adding that it’s the normally intended frame rate by the movie director and director of photography (DP). It’s also the rate movies play in the movie theater. “A lot of attention and detail goes into crafting a film,” said Fenton filmmaker/DP Stephen Smith, who was a camera operator on “Batman vs. Superman.”

Motion smoothing settings artificially add images (or “frames”) between the real ones creating a higher frame rate appearance.

Soap operas and smartphone cameras tend to use higher frame rates, giving the film clips a distinctive non-cinema look. Frame rates of 60 as Kisner mentioned, are used for action video cameras like a GoPro to smooth our jerky, fast movement. In some rare cases, movies are filmed in 60fps, such as “The Hobbit.” The “Lord of the Rings” series was filmed in 48fps.

TV manufacturers have made these motion smoothing, or “frame interpolation” settings standard, which can make your classic film almost look like it was shot with a smartphone.

The good news is that most major TV manufacturers have recently agreed to support a setting designed to stay true to the cinematic look, called “filmmaker mode,” which should arrive in TVs this year, according to vulture.com.

If you’re not in the market for a new TV this year, there may be a way to turn off “motion smoothing.” Kisner admits she’s covertly done this on several friends’ TVs.

How to turn this off

According to dailydot.com, TV manufacturers all have different names for this.

LG

This is called TruMotion, which can be turned off under: Settings > Picture Menu > Picture Mode Settings and finally, Picture Options.

Roku TV

Roku makes streaming devices and TVs. You can turn off “action smoothing” by pushing the * (asterisk) button while watching a video. Select “Advanced Picture Settings” from the pop-up menu and look for “Action Smoothing” option, and turn it off.

Samsung

These units have “Action Smoothing Plus.” To disable, open settings menu and go to “Picture Options.” Look for “expert settings” at the bottom. Scroll until you see “Auto Motion Plus” settings, and turn them off.

Sony

Sony’s setting is called “Motionflow,” which is not standardized in the menu across all TVs. It can usually be found in the “Picture” menu.

Vizio

It’s what you do when you are not allowed to travel from home for vacation

By Sharon Stone

What do families, individuals or couples do if they cannot plan a vacation to some desirable location on their bucket list?

They make the best of things and plan a “staycation.”

If you put your mind to it, you’ll likely come up with many ideas. Because of our predictably unpredictable weather in Michigan, planning an outdoor “staycation” setting could be challenging. When that happens, move the party indoors.

Remember those Christmas lights you took down from the front of your home earlier this year? Consider hanging them up in your back yard, maybe around your patio or deck. If you have a small gas firepit, an outdoor speaker, you could enjoy a book or a glass of wine while listening to your favorite songs. The fresh air will do you good.

Do you have a cornhole board? It’s time to pull it out of storage and hold a tournament with your household. What about other outdoor games? A competitive game of croquet, badminton, or pickle ball will get everyone up and off their couches for much-needed fun and exercise.

‘You’ve been chopped!’

While I’ve been enjoying my “unplanned” vacation at home, I happened upon a great cooking show on the Food Network. It’s called “Chopped” and it’s fascinating — at least to me.

In this program, four lesser-known chefs who have impressive credentials compete to win big money and, if they are lucky, a chance to compete in the big “Chopped Championship” for even more money. These four chefs are charged with making three meals for three judges, who all are well-known, famous chefs. The meals include an appetizer, an entrée and a dessert.

The kicker is that in each round, competing chefs must incorporate ingredients from a mystery basket that reveals items that can best be described as strange and unusual, especially since they have to all be used together for the meal. They can use other stuff, too, but they must include the items in the basket.

Some of the random items in the basket for any of the three meals might include something like Jujubes (theater candy), duck necks (it’s a thing), Swiss chard, Limburger cheese and instant coffee grounds. You think to yourself, “no way this is gonna happen.”

But as impossible as it seems, the four competing chefs always manage to come up with some amazing meals that the judges usually like. After the judges try each offering, they will say something positive about the dish and leave it at that. Most of the time though, they will come in with a zinger and point out a problem like the preparer didn’t use all the basket ingredients, it’s dry, not seasoned enough, is under- or over-cooked, or the presentation on the plate is not good, just to name a few possible mishaps.

A competitor is chopped from the appetizer round, another from the entrée round, and a third from the remaining two in the dessert round. The last chef standing is the winner.

I think this is how our elections should work. Take your chefs (candidates) and watch what they do with and say over the next few months about the ingredients (issues) they have to work with. If they are smart, dedicated, honest and professional, they will come up with a combination of solutions that will make for a gourmet term in office. If they don’t, go into the voting booth and choose other candidates. And to those you didn’t vote for, smile to yourself and silently say, “I’m not swallowing the half-baked ideas you’re serving and it is for that reason — you’ve been chopped!”

Just sayin’!

Do you long for hitting the links at your favorite golf course? Set up a mini golf course or putting range in your backyard. Aside from your golf clubs that you’ll need to dust off, a few plastic lids can be used as the holes. This would be fun for any age.

If you have all your supplies, start plotting out your vegetable or flower garden. It’s too early to plant your flowers, so browse your favorite nursery’s website for what grows well in Michigan. Dream big.

Treat yourself or your family to a grilled-out dinner. Order groceries well in advance from our local grocery stores and either do curbside pickup or have them delivered. If you must shop in person, be sure to have a well thought out grocery list and try to buy for a couple of weeks to limit your trips to the store. Take safety precautions by washing hands, wearing gloves and facemasks.

Because it’s Michigan in the springtime, chances are as soon as you are ready for your backyard staycation, it will be raining. Have no fear — move your staycation indoors.

Do you like music? Turn the volume up and dance as if no one will be watching, since most likely your friends will be in their own homes. If you and your significant other like to dance together, clear an area and create your own dance floor, complete with soft lighting. If the kids are around, try teaching each other a dance routine. To remember the fun, have someone video record with their phone.

A picnic can be a fun activity indoors or in the backyard. Spread a blanket on the floor and relax. If getting down on the floor is difficult, bring in a lawn chair from the garage.

For those who like a relaxing spa treatment, light your favorite candle or candles and soak in a hot tub. Pull out your favorite soaps and moisturizers to soften your skin and give yourself a manicure and/or pedicure. Couples could give each other a massage.

If you’ve done yoga at local studios, this could be the perfect time to try it in the comfort of your own home. Soft music and candles can be added for a relaxing workout.

Chances are you have board games stashed away in cabinets or closets. Who can pass up a game of Monopoly, Scrabble, Pretty Pretty Princess, Blokus and more? If you like Eucher, Bridge or Solitaire, pull out the deck of cards and have some fun.

There are so many fun things to do at home, especially while we have to adhere to our stay home order from the governor. With a little thought, the entire family can create memories that will define 2020 in more ways than just this pandemic.

Wednesday, April 22, is the 50th anniversary of Earth Day. What better time than now, when we are all staying home and enjoying the outdoors while social distancing, to explore nature for some fun and useful earth-friendly projects.

Create a hanging garden
Large plastic bottles become beautiful hanging planters in this green-living and green-thumb project. A great way to make a gorgeous hanging garden.

Get organized with old cans
Tin cans are easy to get your hands on, and they can go a long way in organizing supplies. Get your kids involved by having them help decorate the cans. They’ll really take ownership of this, which will help them want to keep supplies more organized.

Create wildflower seed bombs
Give back to the planet with these easy-to-make seed bombs. Blend together used scraps of construction paper, water, and wildflower seeds in a food processor, then form into tiny muffins. Let dry and then toss to the ground. As the seed bombs receive sun and rain, the paper will eventually compost and the seeds will germinate.

Create nature wreaths
Take your kids on a nature walk to gather interesting leaves, flowers, berries, etc. To make the wreath forms, braid together strips of old T-shirts and form into a circle. Then attach natural items into the crevices and secure with clear fishing line or hot glue. Attach a ribbon at the top to hang your wreath.

Construct a bug hotel
Create a cozy place for all the creepy crawlies to hang out. Cut a two-liter plastic bottle into two cylinders, then stuff it with sticks, pine cones, bark, or any other natural material. Make sure to pack the organic material tightly. Then loop a piece of twine or yarn around the two cylinders and hang your bug hotel from a tree branch or fence.

Make suncatchers
While out for a walk, gather leaves, sticks, weeds, and pickable blooms, and then bring the treasures inside to be showcased in recycled jar lids. With some wax paper and string, your kids can craft this surprisingly beautiful recycled suncatcher.

Hoops teams battle for top spot in Super 6

By David Troppens

Anyone that has followed our season-ending polls of the top teams in the tri-county area have noticed a serious trend over the last handful of seasons.

The trend — the Fenton Tigers usually dominate most of the spots and almost always dominate the most of the top spots.

That’s not the case among the top three teams in the 2019-20 Super Six Poll.

Another common trend involves basketball teams. Generally, they aren’t dominating the top spots in our winter poll. That’s not the case this season as well, as two of the top three positions are hoops teams.

So without wasting too much more space, let’s look at our top three teams.

No. 3 - Linden wrestling: A lot of Linden wrestling’s credentials were explained in comparison of Holly wrestling’s credentials in the last edition. Both had pluses and minuses why Linden earned the No. 3 spot versus the No. 4 position.

Hoos’s Walker trotting to collegiate level

By David Troppens

Holly varsity football coach Dallas Lesperance planted a seed in offensive lineman Jenson Walker’s head one day between seasons.

“Jenson started talking to me a few years ago and he was asking what position would be a great one for him to play because he was a dedicated football player,” Lesperance said. “I told him what a lot of schools are looking for is a longsnapper and that would open a lot of doors for him.”

Walker took the opinion to heart. Now, a few years later, Jenson has earned a new passion while at the same time has found a way to extend his football career at the DI level collegiately.

Jenson has committed to playing at Southeast Missouri State and hopes to play longsnapper during his college career.

“It’s a big passion in my life.” Walker said. “I was a center my freshman year and I got into messing around and doing some longsnapping to the punter and I ended up doing it. A couple of years later Coach Dallas came up to me and said if you want to play college football this may be the position for me. My Dad found some camps. I went to the Rubio longsnapping camp and I did fairly well. I thought to myself I can build on this, make a team and play Division I football.”

Walker looked at many schools including the University of Toledo, Ohio University, Ohio Northern University and Michigan State.

“I went on an official visit and I loved the school,” Jenson said. “It’s an awesome campus and the help they give the athletes who need it with their schooling is unbelievable. I wanted to be a part of it. I’ll be able to get the help if I need it, and the main part of my schooling is the academic part. ... That was a big thing to me.”

Season-opening win streak grows to a franchise best nine for ’84 Tigers

By David Troppens

Editor’s note: The Major League Baseball season was supposed to start a little more than a week ago. To make up for the loss of the season, we’ll be reliving the last Detroit Tigers’ World Championship season, 1984 with occasional stories about the season. Enjoy.

Optimism was already at an all-time high when the season began on April 3 at Minnesota. It was now April 10 and the Detroit Tigers were preparing for their 1984 home opener against the Texas Rangers with not only a 5-0 record but just three days after Jack Morris tossed a no-hitter at Chicago.

It was a sunny, 50-degree day with Tiger Stadium filled to capacity, and by the end of the first inning, the fans had a lot to celebrate. On the first pitch he ever saw in a regular season game at Tiger Stadium, free agent pick-up Darrell Evans hit a three-run home run into the right-field upper deck.

The Tigers would lead 4-1 after the first inning, and that was more than enough support for Dan Petry who tossed a four-hit complete-game victory.

A day later, the Tigers improved to 7-0 when Morris pitched his third gem of the season, allowing no earned runs over seven innings in the Tigers’ 9-4 victory.

that has left more than 22 million Americans filing for unemployment.

These $1,200 payments are to individuals with adjusted gross income below $75,000 and $2,400 to married couples filing taxes jointly who earn under $150,000. The government is also paying $500 per qualifying child.

The payouts are called “economic impact payments.” They decline above the $75,000/$150,000 threshold and end at $99,000 for individuals and $198,000 for married couples.

The IRS is sending it in two ways — direct deposit or mail. If you filed taxes in 2018 or 2019, the money should appear in your account. If you didn’t file taxes, you can submit your information to receive the money at irs.gov/coronavirus.

The Treasury Department said they expect to send payments to 80 million Americans this week.

On Wednesday, April 15, the Times posted a status on Facebook asking readers if they received the money. Dozens of people commented with a mix of responses. Some said the money was deposited into their accounts and others said they had not received anything.

One Fenton mother, who wished to remain anonymous, commented, “I find it almost discriminatory that my 18-year-old senior and 20-year-old college sophomore who both filed tax returns are not eligible for any stimulus payment. My 20-year-old lost her job and has not been approved for unemployment despite working 25-30 hours per week while attending school full time. How is it an 18-year-old is eligible for a draft but not a stimulus? As long as they are contributing to society they should be eligible.”

If a college student was claimed as a dependent, they are not eligible for the payment.

The IRS launched the “Get My Payment” tracking tool so people can check on the status of the money. It will give people an idea on when they can expect a deposit or a check in the mail, and it will say if the IRS needs more information.

This week’s money was the first wave of payments.

The IRS will send the second wave of payments later this month to Social Security recipients who did not file 2018 or 2019 returns and receive their benefits through direct deposit.

According to marketwatch.com, in early May, the IRS will mail approximately five million paper checks to households per week. They will first go to the households with the lowest adjusted gross incomes, and continue upward.

Claudette (Dery) Holbrook
1963 — 2020

Claudette (Dery) Holbrook was born in Flint, the ninth of nine children on February 12th, 1963, to Yvette and Ildege Dery. She was the baby that everyone adored, a fact that remained true for her entire life. She married and brought two wonderful children into the world, Lester and Chantel. Her aesthetic, love of people, work ethic, and perfectionist tendencies led her to become an excellent hairstylist and earned her the most loyal customers and friends. She took great pride in her work. She loved spending time with family and friends and especially her beloved husband, Ron. She enjoyed boating, gardening, crafts, and winning costume contests. Her children and grandchildren were her greatest pleasure. She was a joy and a jokester. She had energy for days. She threw herself 100 percent into everything she did. She possessed a magical combination of enthusiasm, sweetness, and sass. This magic worked on children and adults alike. She was magnetic, her spirit of whimsy and fun drew people to her. Everyone who knew her can attest to this fact. She made children feel special, feel treasured, feel loved, you could see their faces alight with joy. Her network was wide, her fans, many. We all looked forward to her smile, her jokes, her hugs, and even those embarrassing butt pinches! This was true of family, of friends, and of coworkers. This was her magic, so special, so unique to her. Claudette passed peacefully from this world on Thursday, April 9th, 2020 under the care and comfort of her loving family following a courageous and dignified battle with cancer. Her strength and peace of mind during this difficult time stemmed from her faith as a born-again Christian. She is survived by her husband, Ron; children Lester and Chantel (and husband, Casey), and her grandchildren, Silas, Dery, and Anna. She has seven surviving siblings, Pierre, Normand, Jocelyne, Marjolaine, Ghislain, Louise, and Jean Claude; and also her father, Ildege, and extended family too numerous to name. Her mother, Yvette; and brother, Alain, preceded her in death. She was loved fiercely by all of them. Her family hopes that you will remember her life as she lived it, as a celebration. Funeral services and interment will be private for her family members. A celebration of life will be scheduled at a later date. Those desiring may make contributions to Adopt-A-Pet, 13575 Fenton Road, Fenton. Donna was born May 21, 1928 in Sault Ste. Marie, the daughter of Seth and Etta (Loughheed) Woodard. She married Roy Cumming on March 23, 1974 and he preceded her in death December 23, 1982. She had resided in Fenton most of her life. She retired from Fenton Convalescent Home as a secretary after many years of service. Surviving are her children, Paul M. Fenton, Diane (Kyle) Lomason of Gaines, and David (Michele) Murray of Gaines; grandchildren, Denise (Brian) Snyder of Plymouth, Debra (Frank) Skinner of Grand Blanc, and Steven (Carlie) Lomason of Grand Blanc; great-grandchildren, Levi, Jack, Braylon, Etta, Ripley, and Steven; and several nieces and nephews. She was also preceded in death by her parents; siblings, Freda Hamlin, Robert VanSlooten, Beatrice Hamlin, and JoAnn Kick. She lived the last two years at Wellbridge of Fenton; even with her severe stages of Alzheimer’s, she would always say “Got nothing to complain about” and she had a smile that would light up the room. Dick was born in Pontiac, on February 11, 1947. He attended and graduated from Pontiac Northern High school in 1966 and continued his education at Oakland University while working for General Motors Corporation in Pontiac. He worked as an 8th level supervisor for the Electrical Engineering Department at GM Truck and Bus. Dick was married to his beloved wife Beverly June Tison on October 4, 1969. He and his wife were married for 50 years and celebrated it at Wellbridge of Grand Blanc where Dick resided for his last eight months. Dick enjoyed being outdoors fishing, hunting and golfing as well as attending gospel quartet concerts. He was proud to be a member of First Baptist Church of Fenton and enjoyed the services and the messages each week. Dick is survived by his wife, Beverly June; as well as his eldest daughter, Angela Michele Stratman; his son, Richard Scott Daley (Kathleen); and his youngest daughter, Tamara Janeen Allmon as well as 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. A service to celebrate his life will take place after the mandate has been lifted and details will be announced at a later date. Meanwhile, anyone wishing to express condolences may do so via Facebook. In lieu of flowers, monetary contributions can be made to Fenton Baptist Church for the furtherance of the Gospel.

Adam Joseph Lazar
Adam Joseph Lazar – age 37, our son, brother, friend and love, passed away unexpectedly on March 11, 2020. Adam was an amazing spirit who woke up each day with a smile on his face and a passion for life. With his infectious smile and fun personality, he won the hearts of all he encountered. Adam loved golf, live music, candy, the color purple, anything with barbeque sauce and for a good part of his adult life, Captain Morgan. He was an old soul who loved to travel, make people laugh and sing the wrong words to most songs. He packed more life into his 37 years than most people could in 80. Adam grew up in Lake Fenton, where his family still resides. At the age of seven, he began to play golf at Flint Junior Golf and he was hooked. Although he excelled in both baseball and golf in High School, he earned a golf scholarship and played golf at Lansing Community College. Adam’s happy place was on the green, and it didn’t matter if he was playing, practicing or caddying. He was known as “Laser” due to his last name and stellar greens reading ability and was also known as “The Cooler” by his fellow caddies. He worked at some of the most prestigious golf clubs in the U.S.; Arcadia Bluffs Golf Club (MI), Grayhawk Golf Club (AZ), Bayonne Golf Club (NJ), Calusa Pines Golf Club (FL) and Winged Foot Golf Club (NY) to name a few. Adam is survived by his mother, Terri Lazar; father, Thomas Lazar Sr.; and his two brothers Thomas Lazar Jr. and Ryan Lazar. He was preceded in death by his grandmother Julia Lazar and his grandfather Lorn Kohlmann. Adam was a resident of Surprise, AZ for the past four and a half years with the love of his life, Karin Hansen, but will return to Fenton with his family. We will always remember him as the spontaneous and happy go lucky guy that said “Tastes Like More” and we will try to “Keep On Truckin” and “Have A Better One.” He was loved by many and will be sorely missed. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to https://www.adoptapetfenton.com. Memorial Services to be announced at a later date at Sharp Funeral Homes, Fenton Chapel, 1000 W. Silver Lake Rd., Fenton. Tributes may be shared at www.sharpfuneralhomes.com.
