Real estate, construction and more can begin tomorrow

Michigan governor’s latest executive order allows more businesses to resume

By Sharon Stone

Small steps.

As the world slowly begins reopening for business during the COVID-19 pandemic, those in Michigan will likely see more business activity.

Beginning Thursday, May 7, those in the real estate or construction business, as well as professions that perform their work outdoors, will be permitted to work at their jobs once again. They have not been allowed to work since March 23.

Construction workers include those in the building trades (plumbers, electricians, HVAC technicians, and similar workers).

Township firefighters get temporary ‘hazard pay’

Firefighters also get $4 per call raise once state of emergency is over

By Hannah Ball
Fenton Township firefighters are getting a raise.

During the Monday, May 4 Fenton Township Board of Trustees meeting, which was held over conference call, the board voted to raise the fire department call pay by $10, effective May 1.

This is being looked at as “hazard pay” due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The $10 pay increase will expire when the state of emergency is over. At that time, a permanent pay raise of $4 per call will be implemented.

At the April 20 meeting, Clerk Robert Krug introduced the item when he asked to discuss a temporary pay raise for members of the fire department due to increased risk during the COVID-19 pandemic. The members briefly discussed it then and put it on the May 4 agenda.

“I would like to take the call pay for our firefighters and either double it or at least recognize the danger and the horrible things they are exposing themselves to,” he said in April. “The money is available in the fire fund. I just think it would send the right message in today’s world.”

Fenton Township firefighters start at an hourly base pay of $11, which is now $21, and it will be raised to $15 once the state of emergency is over. Firefighters increase their pay by completing more training.

Fire Chief Ryan Volz spoke at the May 4 meeting and said the firefighters haven’t had a raise since 2007.

“Our budget can afford it because of the money we’ve saved in the past two years. It’s not really that much money to raise up and I think the guys and gals deserve the money,” Volz said.

The board was supportive of the raise. Treasurer John Tucker said the 13 years without a pay raise is not helping the department attract workers. Trustee Vince Lorraine said he wants to make sure no township employee goes that long without a raise.

Fourth of July fireworks canceled

Holly Village hoping for great HollyDays fireworks show

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Due to concerns for the health and safety of Holly Village residents, village council and administration have canceled the fireworks celebration scheduled for July 4.

Village officials said they are disappointed, yet know because this event is so popular and draws a very large crowd it is the best option.

Even if restrictions have been modified by then, Holly Village officials determined that it would not be safe to have such a large crowd gathered during this pandemic.

At this time, they are still hopeful that they will be able to have a fireworks display during the HollyDays Celebration on Saturday, Sept. 12.

While they understand this is disappointing news, Holly Village will plan to have a huge celebration on July 4, 2021.
Patriotic billboard — a sign of encouragement

Owner hopes it will raise spirits of passersby during the COVID-19 pandemic

By Hannah Ball

Deerfield Twp. — If you’ve driven down Bennett Lake Road in Deerfield Township over the past few weeks, you’ve probably seen a sign that made you smile or gave you a little hope.

The large sign, right before the Abbey Road turn, reads, “Hang in there, America. We will survive this. After all, we are America.”

The font is big and the colors are a patriotic red, white and blue.

Owner of the sign, Duane Bartlett, said he got the idea for the sign in 1978, when he and a co-worker were in South Carolina and they saw a billboard that said, “Hang in there, America.”

“That’s when we had bad economic times. Interest rates were out of sight. That sign was to give people encouragement,” he said.

When the pandemic and stay-at-home orders hit a few weeks ago, Bartlett decided he wanted to do something.

s I watched a recorded TV show the other day, I found myself rewinding to see a commercial for a local bar. I stared as Irish music played and a little leprechaun jumped around the screen. Happy crowds raised their frothy beer mugs, hot chicken wings came out of the kitchen, and just like that, I was transported back in time. I knew I’d miss a lot when the stay home order was put in... Businesses who simply cannot be there for their customers because of current restrictions still need to let their customers know how they are doing. They need to reassure them that when they can, they’ll be open. It’s important to be top-of-mind.

Local alcohol retailers see increase in sales likely due to stay-at-home order

By Sharon Stone

With the stay-at-home order since the middle of March due to the COVID-19 pandemic, adults who used to enjoy dining out and enjoying alcoholic beverages found themselves drinking at home.

According to a Michigan Liquor Control Commission report, alcohol sales in March increased substantially compared to 2019 figures.

In March of 2019, alcohol sales were $109.0 million. March 2020 sales rose to $123.8 million, an increase of $14.7 million.

The report indicated January and February 2020 numbers were also higher than 2019, however, not as much of an increase as March.

Gus Asmaro, one of the owners of Merchants Gourmet Wine Shop on Owen Road in Fenton, agrees with the reports indicating an increase in alcohol sales.

When asked if there was one variety of alcohol — beer, wine or liquor — that had the higher increase in sales, Asmaro said the increase has been spread out evenly. He added that at the beginning of the stay-at-home order, sales of Corona beer increased, but sales of that brand have gone back to normal.

Reports indicate an increase in alcohol sales most likely caused by the “stay home” order. Bars and restaurants are not allowed to have their dining rooms open so adults are drinking at home.

Are you drinking too much?

ARE YOU OR A LOVED ONE DRINKING TOO MUCH?

According to the Centers for Disease and Prevention (CDC), in the United States, a standard drink contains 0.6 ounces of pure alcohol. Generally, this amount of pure alcohol is found in:

- 12-ounces of beer (5-percent alcohol content).
- 8-ounces of malt liquor (7-percent alcohol content).
- 5-ounces of wine (12-percent alcohol content).
- 1.5-ounces of 80-proof (40-percent alcohol content) distilled spirits or liquor (e.g., gin, rum, vodka, whiskey).

Excessive drinking includes binge drinking, heavy drinking, and any drinking by pregnant women or people younger than age 21.

Binge drinking, the most common form of excessive drinking, is defined as consuming:

- For women, four or more drinks during a single occasion.
- For men, five or more drinks during a single occasion.

Heavy drinking is defined as consuming:

- For women, eight or more drinks per week.
- For men, 15 or more drinks per week.

Aside from injuries, such as from motor vehicle crashes, falls, drownings, and burn, alcohol abuse can lead to violence, including homicide, suicide, sexual assault, and intimate partner violence, according to the CDC.

Over time, excessive alcohol use can lead to the development of chronic diseases and other serious problems including, high blood pressure, heart disease, stroke, liver disease, digestive problems, cancer, weakening of the immune system, learning and memory problems, including dementia and poor school performance, and mental health problems, including depression and anxiety.

Teacher Appreciation Week during a pandemic

Principal drops off mugs and signs; teachers now doing all online learning

By Hannah Ball

It’s Teacher Appreciation Week, and one school principal isn’t letting the pandemic stop him from celebrating.

Eric Rettenmund, principal of Fenton AGS Middle School, delivered mugs and yard signs to a few teachers Monday, May 4, and plans to deliver gifts to all 40 middle school teachers throughout the week.

Claire Reynolds, eighth grade science teacher at AGS Middle School, said she wasn’t expecting anything for Teacher Appreciation Week. She said holding classes online during the pandemic has been “weird.”

“It’s been different trying to work with my students and work with my kids at the same time. We’re lucky that we have enough computers so that everyone can be on a Zoom at the same time,” she said.

Reynolds has been monitoring her two children to make sure they get their work done, and she balances that with grading her students’ online coursework, which has been challenging.

“I think they are doing okay,” she said. “I’ve heard from a couple kids that the online format is a little overwhelming for them but lots are being really successful with it,” she said.

Jenna Thomas, who teaches all three grades at AGS, also received a mug and a yard sign Monday. The online work has been going well, she said, but she worries about her students.

“They’re all working really hard. For the most part, they are doing good. It’s hard to be in contact with them all,” she said. “In class, you can read on their faces, ‘oh they’re not getting it. I can reexplain it.’ But online, I don’t know. I don’t get that read on them unless they email me or do bad on an assignment.”

Brad Wright, middle and high school choir teacher at Fenton schools, and his wife Jennifer, also a teacher at AGS, have been staying at home with their three children while doing online work with their students. They appreciated the two mugs and yard sign from Rettenmund.

Brad said their family has been doing “really good,” other than having to stay at home.

“The work has been different,” he said, adding that it’s been harder for some kids to understand directions when teachers aren’t in classrooms with them. He checks his email every hour to respond to student questions.

Rettenmund said, “To be quite honest, I hate it. I miss the kids. I miss school. I love school. It’s just been hard going to school and it’s empty. I work in my office and it’s just quiet. I’m a person that doesn’t like quiet. I like noise. I like having the teachers stop and talk to me, I miss the lunch room.”

He said he’s extremely grateful to be in Fenton.

“We hit the ground running,” he said. Right after the stay-at-home order was announced, they made plans to switch to online learning. “I’m grateful for the most wonderful staff anyone could ask for. They’ve been awesome connecting with students. I’m always a person that looks for silver linings. There’s certainly some positive things that could come out of any situation. I think one thing about the Fenton community is always supportive of our schools and our teachers and kids. The community has rallied around us and I think embraced this distant learning situation that we’re in.”

He said their motto has been “stay connected.”

“Certainly we want kids to be learning but we want kids to just be connected with their teachers for some type of connection with school,” he said. “The hard part is the uncertainty. When is the end?”

Cams in the courtroom — Part I

Billie Sol Estes was from Texas and a very well known figure in the 1950s and through the mid-1960s.

The reasons included being a multimillionaire businessman, being named one of America’s 10 Outstanding Young Men of 1953 by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and a friend of Lyndon Johnson.

An additional reason was due to his generally being considered as one of the biggest swindlers and con men in the history of Texas and of the United States. It turns out that he had accumulated his wealth by defrauding the government, banks, and individuals of tens of millions of dollars by various schemes, which I won’t detail here.

Suffice it to say, his most publicized “scheme” was when he sold millions of dollars of nonexistent fertilizer tanks to unsuspecting farmers.

As a result, he was charged with fraud and went on trial in 1962 in a Texas courtroom.

It was widely publicized and extensively covered by the press, radio, and especially television.

In the end, he was convicted and sentenced to eight years in prison.

He appealed and his case eventually made it to the United States Supreme Court.

In 1965, the Court held in Estes v Texas, (a 5 to 4 decision), that his due process rights to a fair trial had been violated by the extensive television broadcasting of the proceedings. The conviction was reversed.

Justice Thomas Clark wrote the court’s majority opinion and found that the television cameras were a distraction to the judge, the jury, the witnesses, and the defendant to the point that they affected the very integrity of the trial and prejudiced the defendant.

He gave numerous examples of this, which included at the beginning of the trial there being at least 12 television and other cameramen taking still and motion pictures and televising the proceedings. There were cables and wires snaked all around the courtroom floor and numerous microphones. It was so crowded that 30 people had to stand in the aisles.

He concluded his opinion by saying advancements in technology could someday bring about a change in the effect of telecasting on the fairness of trials, but that day wasn’t in 1965. Television cameras simply couldn’t be allowed in courtrooms.

BUSINESSES

The real estate industry includes agents, appraisers, brokers, inspectors, surveymers, and registers of deeds, provided that:

- Any showings, inspections, appraisals, photography or videography, or final walk-throughs must be performed by appointment and must be limited to no more than four people on the premises at any one time. No in-person open houses are permitted.
- Private showings may only be arranged for owner-occupied homes, vacant homes, vacant land, commercial property, and industrial property.

On March 23, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer issued Executive Order 2020-21, ordering all people in Michigan to stay home and stay safe. The order limited gatherings and travel, and required workers who are not necessary to sustain or protect life to stay home.

This latest executive order permits this work to resume May 7.

According to Whitmer’s latest executive order, this work, like the resumed activities allowed under Executive Order 2020-59, will be subject to stringent precautionary measures.

This partial and incremental reopening will allow the governor’s public health team to evaluate the effects of allowing these activities to resume, to assess the capacity of the health care system to respond adequately to any increases in infections, and to prepare for any increase in patients presenting to a healthcare facility or provider.

This new order will remain in effect until May 15.

in late February. However, he failed to check a box on an affidavit of identity to confirm his U.S. citizenship.

Shumaker said it was a mistake, and that he’s retained a lawyer to petition the court to have his name on the August primary ballot for the 6th District as the Republican candidate.

“We are taking action to move forward and go to court and get myself on the ballot as the Republican candidate,” he said.

This is Shumaker’s first term on the board. He was elected to the Genesee County Board of Commissioners in November 2018, and he was unopposed in this next primary race. If the court denies his petition, he can sign up to run as an independent.

“The goal is to get on the ballot as the Republican candidate,” he said.

Genesee County Clerk John Gleason said, “I would all but guarantee that when he takes this to court, he will win. I will do anything I can to remedy Shaun Shumaker’s situation. He’s a very honest and responsible voice for the county. I will offer whatever is needed.”

Gleason said the mistake was an “oversight.”

“We were inundated with last-minute applications for office, but there’s no excuse,” he said.

Gleason said Shumaker filed his campaign two months ago, and while he made a mistake on his paperwork, a member of Gleason’s staff also made a mistake.

“He is a very good commissioner. He does a very nice job. I feel terrible this happened to him,” he said. “Ultimately, the responsibility for that paperwork is on that candidate.”

Gleason said his office shouldn’t be responsible for calling candidates if they catch a mistake with their paperwork because that would be showing preference.

“I am very certain he will win. No one’s on the ballot now,” he said.

If Shumaker is successful in petitioning the court to have his name on the primary ballot as the Republican candidate, Gleason said he’ll be unopposed.

Two other candidates in the August election also did not get their names on the ballot. Deltonya Burns, a candidate for the 34th district in the state House of Representatives, missed the same citizenship box on the application that Shumaker missed. Gerald Masters, a candidate for Richfield Township trustee, failed to sign his affidavit. They too are determined to get their names on the ballot.

Editor’s note: With the loss of the spring prep sports season, we’ll remember the 2019-20 athletic year with occasional stories from the fall and winter. Today is our second installment of the series.

The last time the Fenton varsity boys tennis team beat Holly in a dual meet the Gulf War was happening. Sparky Anderson was still the Detroit Tigers’ manager and the Detroit Lions actually won a playoff game.

The Lions are still looking for another playoff game since then, but the Tigers don’t have to look that far back for its last win against Holly after Tuesday. The Tigers won a 6-2 dual against the Bronchos.

It was a closer meet than the final score indicated. Five of the eight flights were settled in a third set, but Fenton won four of them to earn the victory.

“It’s been a long time,” Fenton varsity tennis coach Gary Ballard said. “We’ve been trying to get a program to compete with Holly for a first!”

Horoscopes

ARIES
Mar 21/Apr 20
Confusion may come into the equation this week, Aries. In an effort to make sense of the situation, you seek the advice of others. Don’t try to be in control; relax and let it run its course.

TAURUS
Apr 21/May 21
You are on call for the next several days, Taurus. You are ready to spring into action. Just use a little caution when choosing which projects to take on.

GEMINI
May 22/Jun 21
It may be challenging to get to the heart of the matter between friends, Gemini. As hard as you try, solving this will take time. Be patient and consider any and all information.

CANCER
Jun 22/Jul 21
Cancer, enjoy a week in which you indulge in some of your favorite pastimes that have been on the back burner for awhile. Now is the perfect time to have a little fun and let loose.

LEO
Jul 23/Aug 23
You may be concerned with some people in your immediate circle, Leo. If you suspect something is amiss, team up with a spiritual leader or another helper.

VIRGO
Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, this week is full of action and you may not be able to settle in to relax until later in the week. Take a step back and find some time to relax when a break arrives.

LIBRA
Sept 23/Oct 23
You probably will have to roll with the punches at least one or two days this week, Libra. Don’t take things too seriously, even when the rumor mill is in full force.

SCORPIO
Oct 24/Nov 22
Make sure your head is entirely in the game before you jump into action, Scorpio. Part of the problem is trying to juggle too many things at once and getting distracted.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, the more information that comes your way this week, the more confusing things may seem. You can ask someone to help filter extraneous messages first.

CAPRICORN
Dec 22/Jan 20
Capricorn, your fantasy world may mesh with your real world activities this week. You may experience some difficulty figuring out what is real and what isn’t, but enjoy.

AQUARIUS
Jan 21/Feb 18
Aquarius, things may not feel like they are in place lately. You may be tempted to turn off your brain and retreat into a fantasy land. Don’t avoid the situation.

PISCES
Feb 19/Mar 20
You may embrace physical vitality this week, and go with that, Pisces. Maybe switch up your workout to incorporate something new.
