Did I just enter the Twilight Zone? Did Whitmer really issue an Emergency Alert about wearing a mask? This disease does not warrant masks or schools to be closed or operating at half capacity. I think it’s time to take to the streets and protest all this nonsense.

Sharon, great pet safety awareness article regarding hot asphalt, left in parked cars, etc.

To the person who wrote in saying people who still wear masks have a mental disorder. If you ever have to be hooked up to a ventilator, I can assure you it would change your mind. This is written by a nurse who knows.
Governor orders stricter facemask rules

- Requires people to wear face covering in indoor public spaces, businesses must enforce beginning July 13

On Friday, July 10, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer signed executive order 2020-147, which reiterates that individuals are required to wear a face covering whenever they are in an indoor public space. It also requires the use of face coverings in crowded outdoor spaces.

Most significantly, the order requires any business that is open to the public to refuse entry or service to people who refuse to wear a face covering, with limited exceptions. Governors in the states of Kansas, Maine, Nevada, Pennsylvania, and Washington have imposed similar requirements on businesses.

Whitmer signed this executive order in response to rising COVID-19 cases in Michigan and across the country. Executive Order 2020-147 amends and replaces the governor’s previous Executive Order 2020-114.

“The heroes on the front lines of this crisis have gone hours without taking their masks off every day — doctors, nurses, child care workers, grocery store workers. We owe it to them to wear our masks when we’re on a trip to the grocery store or pharmacy,” Whitmer said. “Masks can reduce the chance of spreading COVID-19 by about 70 percent. By wearing masks, we can save lives and protect our family, friends, and neighbors from the spread of COVID-19. And by wearing masks now, we can put our state in a stronger position so our kids can return to school safely in the fall. For the sake of your loved ones, let’s all mask up, Michigan.”

Macy’s assault suspect charged

- Located and arrested nearly three weeks after incident

By Sharon Stone

Damire Canell Palmer, 18, of Mt. Morris Township, was arraigned Friday, July 10 in Genesee County District Court with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, a 10-year felony.

Genesee County Prosecutor David Leyton said Palmer was charged for allegedly attacking a 50-year-old manager who was working in the men’s clothing department in Macy’s at Genesee Valley Mall in Flint Township at 5:30 p.m. on Monday, June 15.

The incident was caught on store surveillance video as well as a cellphone video made by Palmer’s brother, which went viral after he shared it on social media.

In surveillance video obtained from Macy’s by Flint Township police, Palmer is seen walking around the store. He then approaches and allegedly punches the manager in the head from behind, knocking him to the floor. Leyton said that despite public comments on social media, the police investigation did not uncover any evidence of provocation by the store manager.

“This was an unprovoked attack on a Macy’s employee,” Leyton said. “This behavior as seen on the video is unacceptable, it is criminal, and it cannot be allowed. “We don’t believe any racial slur was made by the store manager and even if there had been, it does not condone nor justify the assault by Mr. Palmer,” Leyton said.

A cash or surety bond of $200,000 was ordered. No new court dates have been scheduled.

Genetic condition keeps her from doing activities other teens can do

Thanks to Linden Pay It Forward, 15-year-old Linden resident Amelia Tuller had the prom of her dreams. With a DJ, photographer, buffet dinner and friends and family present, Amelia enjoyed the police-escort parade and dance at The Rock Church on Thursday, July 9, put on by Linden Pay It Forward. She wore a special bedazzled face mask for the occasion.

As a young child, Amelia was diagnosed with KIF1A Associated Neurological Disorder (KAND), which is a rare neurodegenerative disorder with a progressive course. KAND is caused by mutations in the KIF1A gene, according to kif1a.com. The condition can affect the brain and body, including the eyes, muscles and nerves. It can result in stiff and weak leg muscles, low muscle tone, and developmental delays.

Building Brands

Here were fireworks, champagne, a beach, friends and a delicious meal. New Year’s Eve 2019 was a great night. I rang in 2020 full of joy and ready to take on the new year. It almost seems like a dream now, yet it was just seven months ago.

At the start of 2020 in this column I reached out to business leaders to see what they hoped 2020 would bring. I also set my resolution — based on Oprah’s recommendation — to practice these three activities daily:

- Stillness
- Vision
- Gratitude

Little did I know just how still things would become. My goal in practicing these acts was to take life one day at a time. If a pandemic, a quarantine and an economic crash doesn’t force you to slow down and take life one day at a time, nothing will. Whether I was conscious of it or not, I have been still and I have set a vision for each day. A pandemic might seem like a strange time to realize how important gratitude is, but that’s exactly what these past few months have taught me. It’s the simple things in life like health, a home and toilet paper that I am thankful for. No matter what the next six months bring, I hope to continue to practice these activities.

Although 2020 has been a year like no other, I think it’s still important to revisit resolutions. Here’s a look at what business leaders had to say at the start of 2020 and now:

Christine Welsh, principal Kerning Advertising

In January, Welsh was aiming to grow a part of her business helping other businesses succeed at social media. Here’s what she says now: Unfortunately, Social Success Toolbox has been very slow to progress since COVID hit. We were doing very well prior to the pandemic — providing consistent online tips and tricks, selling packages and providing social media training through one-on-one sessions, online and on-site workshops and speaking at various conferences. However, since early April, things have pretty much come to a halt on all of the above. I’m hopeful as things open back up and people figure out the “new normal” we can pick back up where we left off.

New Year’s Resolution review

Sue Osborn, Fenton mayor

In January, Osborn wanted to find a solution to funding road improvement projects. Here’s what she says now: We have not even started working on this because of COVID-19. We were scheduled to have a community wide meeting on this, but we had to cancel it. I honestly don’t know when we’ll revisit it with everything else we are doing because of COVID-19.

Wes Smith, group publisher, View Newspaper Group

In January, Smith vowed to connect with readers through various “Reader engagement” activities to see how the newspaper could better serve the community. Here’s what he has to say now: When I said I intended to work on reader engagement to be more relevant in our readers’ day-to-day lives, I had no idea that relevance in 2020 would revolve around our coverage of COVID-19. The pandemic has shown us and our readers — whose numbers are growing — that local news matters.

FOR THOSE FOLKS pointing out that this country is huge, with 48 contiguous states, requiring a national shut down; I would remind you that many of those ‘didn’t shut down’ countries are about the size of Pennsylvania and U.S. shut downs were made at the state, not national level.

Ally Challenge announces changes

Birdies for Charity presented by Ally program returns for third annual tournament

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Organizers announced Monday, July 6 that competition rounds for the 2020 Ally Challenge presented by McLaren will be played Friday, July 31 through Sunday, Aug. 2, without general public or corporate hospitality attendance at Warwick Hills Golf & Country Club.

The decision to play without spectators was made as a result of Governor Whitmer’s Executive Order 2020-133 signed June 25 and in collaboration with the PGA TOUR, the tournament’s title sponsor Ally Financial and presenting sponsor McLaren Health Care.

All special events traditionally surrounding the tournament, including the 2020 Ally Challenge Community Concert, will not be staged this year.

“We are looking forward to hosting the third installment of The Ally Challenge in just a few weeks,” said Andrea Brimmer, chief marketing and public relations officer Ally. “While it will look a bit different this year, the tournament’s overall impact on this community through charitable giving and boosting the local economy remains its ultimate purpose. We can’t wait for the greatest fans in golf to join us again at Warwick Hills in 2021.”

The official Pro-Am tournaments on Wednesday, July 29 and Thursday, July 30 will be staged as scheduled, with additional safety protocols in place for participants.

“McLaren welcomes the return of professional golf to Genesee County,” said Phil Incarnati, President/CEO of McLaren Health Care. “I am very pleased to announce that at this year’s tournament we will be showcasing McLaren’s frontline healthcare heroes who have served patient and community needs throughout this unprecedented health crisis. Every tour player’s caddie will wear the name of one of our clinical professionals on their bib throughout tournament play symbolically representing the thousands of nurses, doctors and allied health professionals who suit up every day to restore health and save lives. While this 2020 tournament is different in many ways, it remains the same in its focus on philanthropy, community support and world class golf competition, and we are proud to be a part of it.”

The tournament has established a legacy of giving in southeastern Michigan in its first two years, including raising nearly $2.4 million in support of local charities in the greater Flint area and beyond.

The Ally Challenge will continue to positively impact the community in Genesee County and beyond in 2020 through its support of the United Way of Genesee County (UWGC), as well as the return of Birdies for Charity presented by Ally.

Birdies for Charity presented by Ally is a grassroots charity platform that creates positive opportunities for charities to partner with the tournament and benefit from the philanthropic objectives of The Ally Challenge. This successful program nearly doubled the number of participating Michigan 501(c)(3) organizations from year one to year two, with 16 contributing charities in 2018 and 29 in 2019.

Birdies for Charity gives qualified Michigan 501(c)(3) charities and schools the opportunity to raise funds based on the number of birdies made by PGA TOUR Champions players during competitive rounds at The Ally Challenge.

As an added benefit, the 2020 Birdies for Charity program will distribute payment for donated funds received through the program to charities monthly (July – October 2020). Additionally, the Birdies program timeline has been extended through the end of this October.

Over the past week, every region in Michigan has seen an uptick in new cases, and daily case counts now exceed 20 cases per million in the Grand Rapids, Detroit, and Lansing regions. Research confirms that a big part of the reason is spotty compliance with the governor’s requirement, issued in prior orders, that individuals wear face coverings in public spaces.

Studies have shown that wearing a mask can save lives and significantly lower an individual’s chance of spreading COVID-19. A study on different regions in Germany, for example, suggests that the adoption of mandatory mask ordinances decreased the daily growth rate of COVID-19 infections by 40 percent. Modeling from the University of Washington similarly indicates that more than 40,000 lives would be spared nationwide if 95 percent of the population wore a mask while in public. Furthermore, a study conducted by Goldman Sachs concluded that a federal mask mandate could save the U.S. economy from taking a 5 percent hit to our GDP.

“Michigan’s fight against COVID-19 is nowhere near over, which is why it’s so important that we all do our part and wear masks when we’re out in public,” said Chief Medical Executive and DHHS Chief Deputy for Health Dr. Joneigh Khaldun. “Wearing a mask or face covering can significantly decrease the chance of spreading COVID-19 and save lives. It’s important that all Michiganders wear masks properly — not down around the neck, not only over the mouth, but correctly over the mouth and nose. Please everyone stay patient, and remain vigilant.”

Under the governor’s order, businesses that are open to the public must refuse entry and service to individuals who fail to comply, and must post signs at all entrances instructing customers of their legal obligation to wear a face covering while inside. Those who are exempt from wearing a mask in Michigan businesses include people younger than 5 years old, those who cannot medically tolerate a face covering, and those who are eating or drinking while seated at a food service establishment.

The executive order took effect at 12:01 a.m. on Monday, July 13.

A willful violation of the order is a misdemeanor subject to a $500 criminal penalty, but not term of confinement may be imposed on individuals who violate the mask requirement. No individual is subject to penalty under the order for removing a mask while engaging in religious worship at a house of religious worship, although consistent with guidance from the CDC, congregants are strongly encouraged to wear face coverings during religious services.

Amelia’s mother, Jennifer Rice, said when they lived in Howell, she would pay people to babysit Amelia and to keep her company. When she moved to Linden, she posted on the Pay It Forward Facebook that she was looking for friends for Amelia. Through that, they met Susan Pierce, a Linden High School junior gave Amelia a large collection of Monster High toys, which Amelia loves.

More people in Linden reached out.

“People just wanted to do more for her. People feel really good right now doing things for her during this crappy time. She’s just bringing so many people together in a really scary time. To me, that’s the best legacy,” Rice said. “We have just been unbelievably showered with love and attention from this community. It’s nothing like I’ve seen in my life.”

Amelia goes to school at Elmer A. Knopf Learning Center in Flint. Rice said Amelia’s legacy is making an impact in Linden. Kids who attend Linden schools might not have met children with a disability like Amelia.

“She’s changing a lot of lives. People are being more cognizant of people with disabilities,” she said.

A woman at The Rock Church made a custom dress for Amelia that works with her wheelchair.

Rice said Amelia’s condition gets worse every day. She loves watching Nickelodeon and has asked why she can’t do things other kids can do, like go to prom.

“But this has taken her mind off all of it,” Rice said. “She just wants the fairytale.

On Thursday, Amelia and Carson Mlinarich, a 17-year old Linden student who asked Amelia to prom via Facebook video, left the Linden Police Department around 5 p.m. in a red vintage Thunderbird convertible. (The video is available on the Pay It Forward Linden Project Facebook) Police escorted them to The Rock Church, where the lower level was decorated in Amelia’s favorite colors — hot pink and black.

Amelia was crowned Pay It Forward Queen and danced in her wheelchair with “King Carson” to “All of Me” by John Legend.

Pay It Forward took precautions for the COVID-19 pandemic. They encouraged social distancing, put out hand sanitizer and made masks available to those who wanted one. The event was invite-only.

Denise Marks, an organizer with Pay It Forward, said they were proud to sponsor the event. The organization raised more than $1,000, and The Rock Church let them use their Linden Road facility.

Marks said Amelia’s other dream/wish is to be a cheerleader, and the Linden cheer coach is hoping to make that happen this year.

“If and when sports start again, Amelia will be cheering on the sidelines in her wheelchair with the Linden cheer team,” she said.

Marks learned about Amelia’s story after the family moved there and was inspired to help.

“From that point on, our community connected with Amelia and her family in a very special way. They needed us as much as we needed them. In the process, Amelia has brought our community together in ways we never dreamed; like this prom event. I can’t tell you how many community members both adults, teens and businesses have united to make Amelia’s dream of going to prom a reality,” Marks said.

Marks mentioned members of the community that have helped Amelia and her family, including Shirley’s Cafe, which put together a breakfast for them for a morning trip to the park, and area families who schedule playdates with their kids.

Probation — Part II

Under Michigan’s probation statute, the court is given the discretion to determine if a defendant should be placed on probation.

It is a matter of grace and not a right.

The statute applies to both adults and juveniles with some exceptions. I will talk about juvenile justice and probation in a future column.

Generally speaking, there are three types of probation.

The first is traditional probation and in most cases allows the convicted defendant to avoid incarceration if the terms and conditions ordered by the court are met. However, there are times when the judge orders a combination of jail and probation.

There are a number of required and discretionary provisions for all probation orders including regularly reporting to the probation officer, paying oversight fees, not violating any criminal laws, community service and counseling.

If the defendant successfully completes probation, there is a discharge. If there is a violation, the court then sentences the defendant, which could result in a period of incarceration.

The second type of probation is when there is a “deferred judgment of guilt.”

When circumstances warrant, a defendant may have a finding of guilt deferred, even after a guilty plea, or in some cases a guilty verdict by a judge or jury.

This only applies to first offense crimes such as domestic violence, controlled substance violations, minor in possession of alcohol, parental kidnapping, and health professionals practicing under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

Youthful offenders also qualify with no limitations on the number of previous offenses.

If probation is successfully completed, the case is dismissed with no conviction and a nonpublic record. If it isn’t, a conviction enters with a public record and the defendant can be sentenced as if the deferral never happened.

The third type of probation is on a “delayed sentence.” This is similar to the deferred judgment of guilt probation, except the probation term cannot exceed one year, a conviction has entered, and it is a public record.

If probation is successfully completed, the court will take that into consideration and pursuant to the statute, if leniency should be granted, courts have allowed an outright dismissal of the charge upon the motion of the prosecuting attorney.

America has been called the land of second chances. Probation is but one of many examples.

LIQUOR LICENSE

Steve Steffey, developer for the complex near the corner of Owen and Jennings roads, sent a letter to the board about the request. The complex is currently under construction, and plans include a restaurant/pub for apartment building residents and their guests.

Vicinia Independent Living, LLC plans to apply for a liquor license from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (MLCC). The local unit of government, which is Fenton Township, must recommend approval to the MLCC before the license is approved.

“Under the current quota calculation, Fenton Township is allowed to have a total of 10 liquor licenses in the township. There are seven such licenses currently issued and active, leaving three available,” said Thomas Broecker, operations manager/deputy clerk of Fenton Township, in a letter to the board. “I have made inquiries to the Liquor Control Commission on several issues, including whether or not Vicinia Independent Living is eligible for a Club License, which is not subject to the quota.”

Supervisor Bonnie Mathis said she has no problem recommending they get the liquor license.

Trustee Vince Lorraine said it sounded like only property owners and guests will be able to go to the restaurant.

Steffey said they would be able to sell beer, wine and liquor to the public with the Class C license, but that’s not the facility’s intent. They want to cater to the guests and their family and loved ones.
SMALL BUSINESS

The grants, which range from $2,500-$10,000, provide an infusion of capital to support payroll expenses, rent, mortgage payments, utility expenses or other similar ones that occur in the ordinary course of business. The funds come from Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act money allocated to Oakland County by the federal government.
“We know that many of our small businesses have reopened but the losses they suffered while they were closed or operating at reduced capacity are significant and continue to threaten their viability,” Oakland County Executive David Coulter said. “We want to do all we can to help them recover and continue to provide the goods and services that are so important to our residents.”

In June, Coulter requested the county Board of Commissioners allocate $32 million to create the recovery grants. The board unanimously approved the request, with $30 million of the allocation earmarked for small businesses. Only businesses that operate a physical location in Oakland County are eligible to receive grant funds through this program.

Applications are accepted at oakgov.com/covid/grants, which also describes the program in detail and lists the type of eligible businesses, which include:
• Retail trade
• Food and lodging
• Business and personal services
• Entertainment and recreation
• Construction and maintenance services

The deadline to apply is Aug. 24.

“We know that many of our small businesses have reopened but the losses they suffered while they were closed or operating at reduced capacity are significant and continue to threaten their viability,” Oakland County Executive David Coulter said. “We want to do all we can to help them recover and continue to provide the goods and services that are so important to our residents.”

In June, Coulter requested the county Board of Commissioners allocate $32 million to create the recovery grants. The board unanimously approved the request, with $30 million of the allocation earmarked for small businesses. Only businesses that operate a physical location in Oakland County are eligible to receive grant funds through this program.

Applications are accepted at oakgov.com/covid/grants, which also describes the program in detail and lists the type of eligible businesses, which include:
• Retail trade
• Food and lodging
• Business and personal services
• Entertainment and recreation
• Construction and maintenance services

The deadline to apply is Aug. 24.

Looking back: Fenton girls golf team places fifth at state meet

By David Troppens

It was hard to figure out what to expect out of the Fenton varsity girls golf team this fall.

The squad had lost a large chunk of the roster that made last year’s sixth-place team finish at the D2 state meet due to graduation.

But as the season continued, it became apparent this team was pretty talented as well. And now, the Tigers have actually surpassed last year’s squad with at least one very important metric.

The Tigers capped the season by finishing in a tie for fifth place at the Division 2 state golf tournament, posting a team score of 732, just two strokes behind fourth-place Farmington Hills Mercy and tied with Birmingham Groves.

Last season’s squad finished sixth. Individually, Brook Herbstreit capped what was a season of great improvement by earning a tie for sixth in the individual competition, recording a two-day 36-hole score of 82-80-162. The event was held at Michigan State’s Forest Akers East Golf Course.

“The goal for our team was to try and meet or improve our sixth-place finish from last season,” Herbstreit said. “Going in, we were ranked ninth in the state and we definitely were hoping to improve on that. I was super-excited about how the tournament played out for me personally as well. My personal goal going in was top 15, and when I found out I was tied for 10th at the end of the first day, I was really excited and it changed my goal.

“Going into day two, I really wanted to be top 10 because I knew I could do it. My focus on day two was to beat the two girls I was playing with because I knew they were ahead of me. So if I beat them, then I would help my chances to stay in the top 10. One key to success is I just focused one hole at a time and kept my focus on beating the girls I was playing with.”

Linden’s boys basketball is No. 6 on our Top 16 poll

By David Troppens

The 2019-20 prep winter sports season was a strange one in the tri-county area.

It was a season full of excitement and some record-breaking achievements. Yet, with the COVID-19 epidemic, it also became a source of frustration when some of the potentially greatest seasons came to an end sooner than expected.

Enter the Linden varsity boys basketball team. The Eagles were one of those teams that experienced many highs during the regular season, and looked poised to enjoy some during the postseason as well. However, with the state’s shutdown and the ending of the rest of the 2019-20 winter prep sports season, it the season concluded with its share of frustration as well.

It also has created a lot of frustration for the sports staff when it comes to trying to figure out where to rank the winter sports teams in this school year’s edition of the Tri-County Top 16 Poll. Eventually, we ended up placing the Eagles at No. 6.

With an outstanding nucleus of players returning from their 18-3 squad during the 2018-19 season, the Eagles entered the winter with great expectations, and pretty much satisfied them as much as they could.

Linden had just two losses during the entire season, and both of those were “strong” losses. The Eagles lost to state-ranked Bridgeport 50-48 on Dec. 28 during a winter break non-conference battle. The game showed they could compete with some of the state’s top teams in the process. The Eagles did the same on Jan. 28 with another two-point loss to a state-ranked Goodrich squad, dropping a 46-44 verdict. That game was for the unofficial Metro League outright championship.

The Eagles won the other 19 games they played. Linden dominated the Metro’s Stripes Division teams, going 10-0 in those contests and earning the division title. After the Goodrich loss, the Eagles rallied off nine straight victories, improving to 18-2 entering districts.

Linden started D1 district play against the Holly Bronchos, who gave the Eagles all they wanted in a classic 67-66 victory. It earned Linden a chance to play Howell (on Howell’s home court) in the district title game. However, that game never happened as the pandemic ended the season. It’s too bad the Eagles didn’t get a chance to complete the district tournament. It would’ve been an outstanding way to avenge the previous season’s regional semifinal loss to Howell. However, that never happened. Still, it was an outstanding season.
