Concerns about pandemic, falling behind in school, spreading COVID to higher risk relatives

By Hannah Ball

The Times asked on Facebook for opinions from parents about their children potential-ly returning to in-class school this fall during the COVID-19 pandemic. Here’s what some of them said:

Charlene Dusenbery said, “I have a lot of concerns … I watch my grandkids after school and I am high risk for covid … just worried about my grandkids getting it and bringing it home to me … hugs.”

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the risk for severe illness from COVID-19 increases with age, with older adults at the highest risk. However, younger children can contract the virus.

Coronavirus is more contagious than the flu, and has killed more than 140,000 people in the U.S. so far.

Mekenzie Lynn said, “I’m curious what will happen when someone is covid positive and…

Colorful chalk art graces brick pillars at Abbey Park, an independent senior living complex in Grand Blanc Township.

Kathy Felix, director of Abbey Park, said the residents enjoy the colorful and inspirational drawings. She said Jennifer Chase, activity director, and Toni VanHorn, assistant business manager, are responsible for the designs. It was a “non-activity activity” that complied with the governor’s executive order. Felix said, “They love it.”

Felix said it’s been a difficult time for Abbey Park’s residents and staff in dealing with the coronavirus, but they are coping with positive attitudes and adhering to medical advice.

Being an independent senior facility, residents were and are the most vulnerable to COVID-19. Felix said, however, that of their more than 150 residents just a very small percentage died from the virus, and those who died had other underlying health conditions.

“The ones who died was a tiny percentage compared with other causes, like depression, just giving up and isolation,” Felix said. “There were more non-covid deaths.”

Felix said one of their residents who died from COVID-19 was 101 years old and in hospice care. Another had old and in hospice care. Another had...

In November 2018, our community passed the Holly Area Schools bond proposal, making a long-term investment in the safety and security of our entire Broncho community and the success of our students.

I’m proud to announce our summer 2020 bond construction schedule is on track as we continue to protect the health and safety of our students, families and staff amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

Our summer safety and security projects include reconfigured student drop-off and pick-up locations, relocated main offices and revamped pool facilities. These projects at Davisburg Elementary, Rose Pioneer Elementary and Holly High School all play a key role in a safe return to school in the fall.

For years, our community has raised concerns about student pick-up and drop-off at Davisburg and Rose Pioneer. In response, preliminary work is underway to improve student safety by reconfiguring the parking lots at both schools.

At both Davisburg and Rose Pioneer, we are moving student drop-off and pick-up to the front of the building by shifting the bus loop to the back of the building, which will greatly improve traffic flow at both locations.

Our community has also called for new, more secure entryways at our school buildings. With that in mind, this summer we’re installing more secure entryways at the front of Davisburg and Rose Pioneer. Construction is also underway on a new main office at the front of Rose Pioneer, which will replace the current media center. The school’s media center will be relocated to the center of the building.

Several additional interior and exterior site improvements are underway at both Davisburg and Rose Pioneer this summer, including outdoor lighting upgrades, new fire alarms, heating and cooling upgrades and replacement of windows, carpeting and other classroom fixtures.

The Holly High School pool — a long-standing point of pride in our community — was in dire need of safety upgrades. Again, at the direction of our community, we made safety and security of our pool facilities a top priority for the bond. We’re honoring that commitment.

Holly Area Schools using safety/security funds toward improvements at school buildings

Holly Area Schools (HAS) safety and security projects, including reconfigured student drop-off and pick-up locations, relocated main offices, and revamped pool facilities are underway this summer, all thanks to the voter-approved 2018 bond.

As previously reported in the Times, HAS will raise approximately $38,150,000 over four years from the bond, which was approved by voters in November 2018, dividing the funds into several project phases, the first of which were initiated in the summer of 2019.

This summer’s projects at Davisburg Elementary, Rose Pioneer Elementary and Holly High School are part of the district’s continued commitment to providing a safe, nurturing and learning environment for all Bronchos.

“At HAS, safety is our number one priority, and I am proud to announce we are on schedule with our summer 2020 bond projects as we continue to finalize plans to safely return to school in the fall,” said Scott Roper, Holly Area Schools superintendent. “These projects focus first and foremost on the safety of our Bronco students, families and staff and were made possible by our community’s long-term investment in school safety, building enhancements, and technology upgrades that help prepare all Bronchos for bright futures.”

Site demolition and utility work have been completed for the reconfiguration of Davisburg Elementary’s parking lot. The project will improve student safety by moving student drop-off and pick-up to the front of the building, shifting the bus loop to the back of the building, and improving traffic flow in and out of the lot. Installation of a new, safer entryway at the front of the building is also underway.

Additional Davisburg work this summer includes:

- Outdoor lighting upgrades
- Fire alarm upgrades
- Heating, cooling and plumbing upgrades
- Partial roof replacement, and
- Replacement of classroom windows, carpeting, countertops and sinks

At Rose Pioneer Elementary, construction is underway on a new main office at the front of the building, which will take the place of the current media center. The media center will be relocated to the center of the building.

Crews have completed demolition of the existing media center, and walls are being reconfigured for the new main office.

Neighbors upset over loud music

By Sharon Stone

Some residents in Holly Village have made their voices heard regarding music coming from a wedding reception venue they believe is too loud for their neighborhood.

In February, the Holly Village Planning Commission and Holly Village Council gave their approvals to rezone 111 College St. allowing the owners of the former Holly Area Schools building to move forward with their boutique hotel and banquet center. Approved was conditional rezoning from residential to commercial.

As previously reported in the Times, the owners, Cari Cucksey and her husband, Vince Iafano, provided a written list of agreed upon conditions, which the couple agreed will stay with the property.

One of the conditions is complying with the village noise ordinance of 11 p.m.

Because of COVID-19 and the governor’s executive order of prohibiting large indoor gatherings during this COVID-19 pandemic. The owner is working on methods to contain music played at receptions that some neighbors believe is too loud.

Venue One Eleven, at 111 College St., Holly, is utilizing an outdoor courtyard for wedding receptions to be in compliance with the governor’s order of prohibiting large indoor gatherings during this COVID-19 pandemic. The owner is working on methods to contain music played at receptions that some neighbors believe is too loud.

asked that the music volume be turned down and Narsh said music was turned down. There were no noise ordinance violations.

On Saturday, July 18, police officers monitored noise near the venue, but did not receive any complaints.

Angela Wallace lives about two blocks east of the venue. She had posted on social media that she believed Holly Village had sold out by allowing the new reception venue to be in this location and to allow the loud music.

Wallace has contacted Venue One Eleven owners, as well as police and Holly Village officials seeking a remedy.

“I want the Holly Village Council to know that when we as residents spoke out about approving Venue 111 they promised the residents that noise wouldn’t be a problem yet we are here a year later still talking about the noise we have to endure,” Wallace said.

Wallace has assembled a group of residents who will represent their streets.

with any upcoming meetings that can be arranged with Cucksey.
“We are asking for reasonable noise levels and noise reduction from 111 College St.,” Wallace said.
On Wednesday, July 22, Cucksey said the transformation of this property is ongoing and the challenges of this pandemic have caused a lot of pressure. She said some of the couples had set their wedding dates a year in advance.
“We’re going by the governor’s mandates,” Cucksey said. “Was this my vision — absolutely not.” She and her husband are trying to keep everyone employed and brides happy.
Cucksey is aware of the Friday night complaints and said they have fencing ordered to help shield the opening of the courtyard. They also are looking at ways to attach something to the fence to make more of a noise barrier.
“Something to keep the music in the courtyard,” she said.
Another wedding took place Saturday evening and they spoke with the DJ to make sure the music was at an appropriate level. From the front of the building on College Street, the music couldn’t be heard, she said.
“We’re looking at several options,” she said.
No events are scheduled this weekend at Venue One Eleven.
Post COVID-19 pandemic restrictions, the 44,000-square-foot Venue One Eleven will be able to accommodate up to 400 guests indoors.

Background
Cari Cucksey and husband Vince Iafano purchased the building at 111 College St. in 2016 from The River Church, which bought it from the Holly Area Schools district in 2007. She moved to Holly with Iafano, in 2015, after purchasing the historic downtown building that once housed the Holly Village offices. She now runs her businesses and resides in the building with her family.
Cucksey and Iafano plan to rehabilitate the College Street building, which was built in 1913 and covers 44,000 square feet on 2.58 acres, into a mixed-use boutique hotel and wedding/banquet center.

Spare some change?
Coin shortage could end when the economy reopens

By Tim Jagielo
Buying things with cash was no longer a given at the pandemic’s onset.
Of the few stores remaining open in the initial weeks, some preferred only accepting electronic payments to limit physical contact with potential COVID-19 carriers in a time when methods of viral transmission weren’t certain.
According to the Boston Globe, this is why large electronics retailers like Micro Center went cashless this spring.
But since the beginning of July, stores have sought to be cashless for another reason — a shortage of coins.

University of Michigan-Flint Associate Professor of Economics Christopher Douglas attributed this to two causes. The first is that the U.S. Mint, which makes the coins we use, partially shut down at the beginning of the pandemic for the safety of their employees which limited production of coins.
The 2020 numbers aren’t available, but in fiscal year 2019, the U.S. Mint shipped 12.5 million circulating coins to Federal Reserve Bank locations, according to the U.S. Mint.
The other issue is that most shoppers or food takeout customers began paying for their items with a card. Also, for nearly a month, many “brick-and-mortar” stores were closed. These combined have led to the shortage today. The coins are still out there; they’re just not in circulation.

Stacey Webb is senior vice president of retail banking at The State Bank. The bank uses coin counting machines for customers who bring loose change. They would normally take the coins and ship them back to the Federal Reserve.
The bank would in turn order more coins from The Federal Reserve in roll form because it’s easier to distribute back to individuals and businesses.

But starting about a month ago, Webb said they were no longer able to get rolled coins.
Instead of shipping coins back, they’ve started keeping loose coins and “creatively distribute” them to customers, in loose form, for example.
So far, they haven’t had to restrict customers, who also have adjusted — some even bring change to help with the shortage.

Webb said the bank received no official communication about the issue and she’s not sure how long it will last.
Douglas doesn’t think that many businesses will be hurt by the shortage. “It’s more disconcerting than anything,” he said. Larger stores like Meijer and Walmart are discouraging the use of cash for card or check. Some checkouts don’t accept cash at all.

Some businesses never stopped accepting cash. Linden Alpine Marketplace Store Director Scott Trump said they’ve had no issue making change for customers, and never had to consider disallowing cash. The only change is they won’t “sell” customers rolls of change.
Target is still accepting cash, but according to a Fenton Target store employee, they are encouraging use of cards and checks, and that exact change can be difficult to make for customers.
Other businesses like Beale Street Smokehouse BBQ in Fenton never lost its stride in accepting cash.

“We have a credit card processing fee so we get a lot of cash,” said co-owner Lisa Reading. For four years they’ve charged an additional 3.85 percent to use credit cards, so their customers are used to paying cash.
She said they’re not impacted by the coin shortage.

As it is, this cash shortage should only be temporary, ending in a matter of weeks. Douglas said it will take more coin production, more businesses opening for increased circulation of coins.

It might also help to use exact change when you shop.
Dr. Wax announces new tenant on second floor
By Hannah Ball

On Friday, Aug. 14, the public can celebrate the opening of the newest development in the city of Linden — the new Union Block building.

Owner Dr. Nicole Wax announced the grand opening celebration in July, weeks after her business, Dr. Wax Orthodontics, moved into the building. At the grand opening celebration, from 5 to 7 p.m., attendees can enjoy food, refreshments and prizes.

“We have been in the building for a few weeks now and we are loving it,” Wax said. “It’s spacious and with all the windows and high ceilings throughout the entire building, it has a sunny and warm feeling. From the second floor where our office is, the view of the downtown is sure to put a smile on anyone’s face.”

The two-story building is at the northeast intersection of Bridge and Broad streets in the heart of downtown Linden.

“It’s exciting to see how busy this little downtown truly is with cars always driving through and people walking around with ice cream and visiting the local businesses. Sometimes I find myself just gazing out the window with a smile on my face with all the activity you see,” Wax said.

The building is historic and a new landmark in Linden. It’s built on the same location where the previous Union Block stood before it burned down in 2007.

Wax, a Linden native, spent 11 years in college to become an orthodontist. When she was in her residency, she decided she wanted to come back to Linden to start her practice. She opened Dr. Wax Orthodontics in 2014 and bought the former Union Block property in 2016.

She hired Kincaid Building Group, a real estate development and construction service company. The Linden Planning Commission approved the final site plan in 2019.

The building is 14,833 square foot with two tenants, one of which is Dr. Wax Orthodontics, on the top floor with two tenants on the first floor. The east bottom unit is 2,600 square feet, and the west bottom unit is 3,600 square feet. On the top will be Dr. Wax Orthodontics in the west unit, with another tenant on the east side, which is a little more than 1,000 square feet.

More than 20 parking spaces were added to the north of the development, with two entrances to the building.

Wax also announced a tenant coming to the building — Dr. Garrett Purman of Positively Pediatrics will move into the second available unit on the second floor. The two suites on the first floor are still available.

100th proton therapy patient finishes cancer treatment

Rings bell to signify the end of treatment and to represent graduation for the patient.

The McLaren Proton Therapy Center’s 100th patient has rung the victory bell to signify the completion of his cancer treatment. When Gary Howard of Mt. Morris was diagnosed with base of tongue cancer, he wanted to receive his cancer care within the McLaren Health Care system. The comprehensive team at the Karmanos Cancer Institute (KCI) at McLaren Flint and the McLaren Proton Therapy Center worked collaboratively to come up with the best treatment options for Howard. Along with chemotherapy, Howard chose proton therapy treatments instead of conventional radiation.

“With protons, the radiation only hits what it’s aimed at,” Howard said. “That’s what I liked about it because regular radiation would go from here all the way through here,” as he points to both sides of his neck. “After treating one area, the table turned around so I could receive treatment on the other side.”

With proton therapy, there is no exit dose, so radiation stops at the boundary of the tumor without exposing much of the surrounding healthy tissue. Howard’s oral cancer had advanced and spread to his lymph nodes in his neck, and the tumors were particularly tough to treat due to their proximity to the spinal cord.

Hesham Gayar, Medical Director of the McLaren Proton Therapy Center, and his team were able to precisely target the tumors while minimizing radiation to uninvolved healthy tissues.

Due to the location of the cancer sites, Howard did experience some side effects, but his side effects were much less than if he would have had traditional radiation treatment.

Howard started his proton therapy treatments simultaneously with chemotherapy in April, and after 10 weeks, he had his patient graduation. He rang the victory bell at the end of June.

Learn more at mclaren.org/proton-therapy.

one who was living at Abbey Park home for a few weeks if it was possible. More than 35 of their 150 residents were able to go home and spend time with family.

Felix said this home visit was a good thing and it improved their chances of boosting their immunity, getting some activity and social interaction, as well as eating, staying hydrated and taking their vitamins. “It was a nice break for families to be together,” she said.

When residents returned to Abbey Park, instead of being quarantined again to their room, they were told to just keep their distance from other residents for two weeks. “That worked out well,” Felix said.

Felix continues to worry about Abbey Park residents as well as any vulnerable person living in a senior facility. She said the isolation and loneliness of these people is horrible. “If I knew I only had six months to live, would I want to be alone or would I want to live three months surrounded by those I love the most,” she said. “For me, that’s an easy answer.”

Abbey Park residents, whenever possible, are taken outside to soak up some sunshine and fresh air. All residents and all employees are constantly monitored.

Abbey Park has a small general store, however, it is currently closed. Instead, Chase and Karen Burke wheel their “mobile” country store down hallways providing shopping opportunities for their residents. “They love that,” Felix said.

The Linden City Facebook page published a statement reminding city residents of the changes that are still in effect due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

“We kindly remind our residents that though we are open to the public, we are still trying to limit contact, as well as any non-essential visits. We ask that if you do need to come into City Offices for essential business, to please wear a mask and adhere to CDC guidelines,” according to the post.

The drop box is available to use. It’s located in the rear parking lot behind City Hall off Main Street.

Community Foundation of Greater Flint partners with The Hagerman Foundation

To continue to move Flint forward, the Community Foundation of Greater Flint (CFGF) announces a new partnership with The Hagerman Foundation, a local funder whose mission has been to brighten and improve the lives of future generations.

The Hagerman Foundation has established the Hagerman Foundation Fund of the CFGF. The Hagerman family created the Foundation in 2014, and now they are working with CCFG to make the transition for future grantmaking.

The Hagerman Foundation has invested over $17 million in grants to local nonprofit organizations over the past six years.

“We have supported organizations that promote education, life skills, entrepreneurship, ministry, counseling, and the arts,” said Phil Hagerman, founder and president of The Hagerman Foundation. “We will forever be grateful for how this community embraced the Foundation’s strategies of finding innovative ways to address our challenges, making our community better for all, particularly the youngest among us. I look forward to continuing our partnership.”
In May, the CDC released guidelines. “I hope antibodies have been built and gets they have and in this short amount CDC recommendations, with the bud how schools can function with all the Payne, said on Facebook, “I don’t see educators and administrators to shape open up school buildings, and listen to of Pediatrics strongly advocated that late June, the American Academy of Pediatrics strongly advocated that children should be in school this fall. On July 14, the organization clarified that statement. “Returning to school is important for the healthy development and well-being of children, but we must pursue re-opening in a way that is safe for all students, teachers and staff. Science should drive decision-making on safely reopening schools,” according to AAP. “Public health agencies must make recommendations based on evidence, not politics. We should leave it to health experts to tell us when the time is best to open up school buildings, and listen to educators and administrators to shape how we do it.” Another local resident, Michelle Payne, said on Facebook, “I don’t see how schools can function with all the CDC recommendations, with the budgets they have and in this short amount of time to adjust. It’s going to be a mess. I hope antibodies have been built and all students can go back without restrictions.” In May, the CDC released guidelines on how schools can safely reopen in fall. Guidelines include recognizing high risk scenarios, encouraging hand washing and hygiene, enforcing face coverings, disinfecting spaces, making sure schools are properly ventilated and more. The recommendations can be seen at cdc.gov.

Sally L Johnson Pierce said, “I am not concerned; I want my daughter back in school with no masks. If she has to wear a mask at all, she said she’s not going. She’s a junior so it’s her choice. I know many don’t share my opinion and that’s ok but I feel the kids need to be in school, they need to be social and face-to-face instruction is what’s best for them. The psychological damage that is happening to kids right now is far worse than the virus.”

Multiple studies have found that social distancing and wearing face masks help slow the spread of the coronavirus. One comprehensive study, published in The Lancet that analyzed more than 170 studies, found that without a mask, social distancing or other preventive measures, the risk of transmitting the coronavirus is 17.4 percent. With a mask or respirator, that number drops to 3.1 percent, according to today.com.

Megan Bishop, Linden resident and parent, said, “I’m on team ‘give me some more information so I can make an educated decision.’ Like seriously, we know nothing. Will elementary have to wear masks since the latest mask ruling? That will effect two of my kids. Will the virtual be time flexible or will they be needed to join Zoom meetings at 8:30 am? Is the learning plan going to be different then quarantine learning? The list goes on.”

With communities and businesses opening, you may be looking for safe ways to regain some pre-COVID-19 normalcy.

While there is no way to guarantee zero risk of infection, it’s important to understand the potential risks and how to adopt different types of prevention methods to protect yourself and help reduce the spread of COVID-19.

In general, the more closely you interact with others for a long period of time, the higher risk of COVID-19 infection.

So, think about:
- How many people with you interact with?
- Can you keep 6 feet of space between you and others? Will you be outdoors or indoors?
- What’s the length of time that you will be interacting with people?

DECIDING TO GO OUT? PROTECT YOURSELF BY PRACTICING EVERYDAY PREVENTIVE ACTIONS.

WHAT TO CONSIDER BEFORE YOU GO

Asking these questions can help determine your level of risk:

- Is COVID-19 spreading in my community?
  • Visit cdc.gov/coronavirus to view the latest COVID-19 information and a map of states with reported COVID-19 infections
  • What are the local orders in my community?
  • Review updates from your local health department to better understand the situation in your community and what local orders are in place in your community.

- Will my activity put me in close contact with others?
  • Choose outdoor activities and places where it’s easy to stay 6 feet apart, like parks and open-air facilities.
  • Look for physical barriers, like plexiglass screens or modified layouts, that help you keep your distance from others.
  • Use visual reminders—like signs, chair arrangements, markings on the floor, or arrows—to help remind you to keep your distance from others.
  • Am I at risk for severe illness?
    • Older adults and people of any age with a serious underlying medical condition might be at higher risk for severe illness from COVID-19. While the risk for severe illness is lower for others, everyone faces some risk of illness.
    • Do I live with someone who is at risk for severe illness?
      • If you live with older adults or someone with certain underlying medical conditions, then you and all family members should take extra precautions to minimize risk.
      • Will I share any items, equipment, or tools with other people?
        • Choose places where there is limited sharing of items and where any items that are shared are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected between uses.
        • Will I need to take public transportation to get to the activity?
          • Does my activity require travel to another community? Is COVID-19 spreading in that community?

If you decide to engage in public activities, continue to protect yourself by practicing everyday preventive actions.

Items to have on hand
- A cloth face covering
- Tissues
- Hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol, if possible

While it’s important to understand your level of risk when deciding to go out, do not wait to seek medical care. Delaying care in the event of a medical emergency could result in serious or permanent damage to your health. For more information on how McLaren is keeping you safe, visit mclaren.org/safe-care.

still investigating. F/Lt. Michael Shaw, public information officer with the MSP, has had very little to say about the case over the years. In a short response to Editor Sharon Stone recently, he said, “We have nothing for the media at this time.”

Brueger was running Saturday, July 30, 2016 on the familiar roads she had been jogging nearly every day for 10 years. At approximately 2:30 p.m. that day, someone brutally murdered this young woman by shooting her in the back, killing her.

She was a registered nurse, working at a Novi hospital. Ally also was working on her masters degree in creative writing, which was awarded to her posthumously. Ally is survived by her parents, Franz and Nikki Brueger, her beloved dog Zeus, and many friends, extended family members and coworkers.

Quoting an unknown author, who wrote “The Death of a Child,” Ally’s mother, Nikki Brueger, shared from the writing, “It’s like losing your breath and never catching it again. It’s a forever panic attack as your soul is screaming for them. It’s feeling your heart dying as you continue to lose your mind.”

“A friend gave me this essay last week and its contents ring as true today as it did four years ago. It’s not bad enough that you lose a part of yourself as I did when my daughter Ally was murdered on July 30, 2016,” Nikki said. “But then you’re left with who you are after, and you don’t even recognize that person. You’re then lost to yourself. “People seem to think that after four years my husband and I should have ‘moved on.’ They seem to equate time with healing. But you can’t heal when you have no answers. Why your daughter was murdered a mile and a half from her family home. And, who shot her four times in the back as she was running away on a Saturday afternoon.

“You can’t heal when the detectives assigned to her case provide little or no information and then claim that ‘her case is still open’ and they’re ‘working on it.’

“As in the past, we ask the public to please speak up,” Nikki said. “If you have any information, even if you feel it’s trivial, please call 1-800-773-2587. You remain anonymous and your tip could bring justice for Ally.

“We would like to thank the businesses that continue to display the Crime Stopper Posters, and the people that still hang shoes to honor the memory of Ally and bring attention to the safety of all runners and walkers. Seeing this helps us not to lose hope!”

Crime Stoppers reward

Crime Stoppers of Michigan is offering up to $8,500 for tips leading to the arrest of a suspect in Brueger’s murder. The U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, or ATF, is offering $5,000. Anyone with information can submit a tip anonymously by calling 1-800-SPEAKUP.

The money is paid when an arrest is made; they do not wait for a conviction.

Crews also are reconfiguring Rose Pioneer’s parking lot to improve student drop-off and pick-up safety. The project will bring the student drop-off and pick-up loop to the front of the building and move the bus loop to the back of the building.

Installation of a new, safer entryway at the front of the building is also underway at Rose Pioneer.

Additional work this summer at Rose Pioneer includes:
- Outdoor lighting upgrades
- Partial roof replacement
- Heating, cooling and plumbing upgrades
- Installation of classroom windows, carpeting, countertops and sinks, and
- Installation of playground equipment

Several safety improvements have been completed at the Holly High School pool this summer, including:
- Fire suppression and emergency lighting improvements
- Interior pool lighting upgrade
- Pool mechanical equipment replacement
- New pool dehumidification unit, and
- Bleacher replacement

“Keeping our Broncho students, families and staff safe is more important than ever,” Roper said. “While we face unprecedented challenges next school year, these critical safety projects put us on a clear path to ensure the safety of our entire Broncho community throughout the current public health crisis and beyond.”

OFFICER

According to the Michigan Sheriff’s Association, Swanson is the first agency head to be selected for this honor since it started in 1996.

On May 30, at 6 p.m., hundreds of protesters of the treatment and subsequent death of George Floyd marched for more than two hours to arrive at the Flint Township Police Department. Police officers and Genesee County sheriff’s deputies had been monitoring the event and met the protesters wearing riot gear and holding batons.

The protesters, initially sitting down at the station, indicated that this was intended to be a peaceful demonstration. After some brief conversation, Swanson removed his helmet and put his baton on the ground as a sign of peace. After explaining that the officers were only there to ensure the protesters “have a voice,” Swanson asked the group what was needed from them. After several chants of “walk with us,” Swanson and the other officers ultimately joined the march.

“We are walking with you because all you’re asking for is a voice and dignity for all, no matter who you are,” Swanson said in a speech after the march. “I love you guys. The police love you.”

A career officer with 27 years at the Genesee County Sheriff’s Office, Swanson had been sheriff for almost six months when the event occurred.

“It was that night when hostility reached a tipping point, and this community was within seconds of becoming another national statistic,” Swanson said of the demonstration. “I would ask that in your consideration you add to that list those that protested with me, which allowed my voice to be heard, as much as they wanted to be heard.”

“In that one moment, Sheriff Swanson showed the kind of leadership, courage, and integrity that makes exemplary law enforcement leaders,” said National Law Enforcement Memorial and Museum CEO Marcia Ferranto.

“While the world is watching how law enforcement behaves, the statements, actions, and commitment to community that he demonstrated makes us proud to honor Sheriff Swanson as Officer of the Month.”

Following the announcement, Swanson said Wednesday, “The national recognition is humbling and shared with all who walked into the history books on May 30, 2020.”

Located in the nation’s capital, the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Fund is a nonprofit organization dedicated to honoring the service and sacrifice of America’s law enforcement officers.

The Memorial Fund’s Officer of the Month Award Program began in 1996 and recognizes federal, state, and local officers who distinguish themselves through exemplary law enforcement service and devotion to duty.

WE’RE ALL GOING TO DIE SOMEDAY SO ...

Things to consider now to prepare for the future

By Sally Rummel

Benjamin Franklin’s quote that “... nothing in this world can be said to be certain except death and taxes” is as true today as it was during Franklin’s lifetime, from 1706 to 1790.

Yes, we’re all going to die at some point, but you may find you can live your life more fully if you get everything in order. That way, you don’t over-worry or over-think about what will happen to your family when you’re no longer with them.

Prepare your will

Your last will and testament is a document that designates what happens with your property, guardianship of your children and names the executor of your estate.

This is best done with an attorney who can keep your will updated, understands state-specific tax issues and the complicated situations of real life. However, if you need only a very basic will, you can use a simple online template.

Life insurance

Life insurance can fill a variety of needs, including covering the finite years of a mortgage and protecting the interests of a special-needs child who will need financial support after you’re gone. Its main function is to protect family members from the loss of income if you or another primary wage earner dies.

For most of your adult life, you’ve probably had a life insurance policy through a benefits package at work. However, as you move closer to retirement you’ll have to decide whether to pay for a life insurance policy on your own or enter them for yourself. The power of attorney expires after your death, and the control of your finances typically shifts to the executor you named in your will.

Planning your funeral

There are many ways you can think ahead about your funeral, starting with a life insurance policy that will at least pay for funeral expenses.

By thinking ahead, you can make informed and thoughtful decisions about funeral arrangements, sparing your survivors the stress of making these decisions under pressure and strong emotions.

You can make decisions about your arrangements in advance, but not pay for them in advance, or you can pre-pay for your funeral. Put your preferences in writing, give copies to family members and your attorney and keep a copy in a handy place.

Don’t designate your preferences in a will, because a will is often not read until after the funeral. Don’t put your only copy in a safe deposit box, in case your family has to make arrangements on a weekend or holiday.

Organize your finances and important paperwork

Make it easy for your heirs to find exactly what they need. Two of the most important documents are your life insurance policy (especially policies from former employers) and your retirement plans (including pensions and annuities) because both are easy to overlook.

What happens if you become ill or incapacitated?

These are tough issues for a family, yet you can face them unafraid if you have a living will, power of attorney and durable power of attorney.

The difference between a will, which distributes a person’s property after death, is that a living will explains what kind of medical care a person wants while he or she is still alive, but is unable to explain his or her wishes.

A power of attorney is the person who can attend to financial or legal matters if you become ill or are unable to handle them for yourself. The power of attorney expires after your death, and the control of your finances typically shifts to the executor you named in your will.

Eating a variety of foods can provide the nutrients you need to stay healthy as you age

By Sharon Stone

“Let food be thy medicine” is a quote attributed to Hippocrates, the ancient scholar considered to be the father of modern medicine.

The saying relates to the notion that what people put in their bodies can heal and/or prevent certain conditions.

For seniors with medicine cabinets full of over-the-counter and prescription medications, the idea of relying on what people put in their bodies can heal various foods can be particularly useful to the 50-and-over demographic.

According to the World Health Organization (WHO), poor diet is a major contributor to many of the diseases that affect older people. Poor diet has been connected to the development of diabetes, and degenerative diseases such as osteoporosis also may be linked to the foods ones eat.

The National Council for Aging Care says micronutrient deficiency is often a problem among the aging due to factors like lack of variety in diet and reduced food intake. Eating a variety of foods can provide all of the nutrients people need to stay healthy as they get older. Certain foods may be particularly helpful.

- Brain-friendly foods: Foods such as avocado, leafy vegetables, sunflower seeds, blueberries, and salmon are good sources of vitamin E, antioxidants, omega-3 fatty acids, and other nutrients that may help ward off dementias like Alzheimer’s disease, according to Sonas Home Health Care.
- Anti-inflammatory foods: Foods rich in omega-3 fatty acids may help prevent inflammation that can cause cancer and rheumatoid arthritis. Aging.com says foods that are high in omega-3 fatty acids, like salmon, should be consumed at least twice per week.
- Fruits and vegetables: Fresh, canned or frozen produce tend to be high in micronutrients, including a variety of important vitamins that are essential for all components of health. The Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics advises eating dark green vegetables, such as leafy greens or broccoli, and orange vegetables, such as carrots and sweet potatoes.
- Energy-boosters: Choose whole grains that can provide sustained energy by way of healthy carbohydrates over processed grains.
- Bone-friendly foods: Calcium-rich foods, such as milk, yogurt and cheese, can prevent calcium from being leached from the bones, which contributes to conditions like osteoporosis.
-  Digestive system-friendly foods: The digestive system slows down as the body ages, as the walls of the gastrointestinal tract thicken and digestive contractions that push waste along may slow down and become fewer. Foods rich in fiber can promote proper digestion by moving food through the digestive tract more easily. High-fiber foods also may help naturally reduce blood cholesterol levels.
- High-iron foods: Without enough iron in the body, a person may feel tired and lethargic from a reduced production of hemoglobin, which carries oxygen in the blood from the lungs to the rest of the body. A lack of oxygen in body tissues from anemia can be serious, says the National Council for Aging Care. Tofu, spinach, lentils, pumpkin seeds, and fortified breads and cereals are high in iron.

Smart food choices can help everyone live long and healthy lives.

GOLFING IN AN ERA OF SOCIAL DISTANCING

Not quite the same as it was prior to the pandemic, but golfers can still have fun as they hit the links

By Sharon Stone

Golfers enthusiastically look forward to the day when their favorite courses reopen to players each year. That anticipation was even greater in 2020, when social distancing measures forced many courses to stay closed even as the weather warmed up.

Golf courses were among the first businesses given the green light to reopen as governments began to lift restrictions.

Golfing in the era of social distancing may not be quite the same as it was prior to the outbreak of COVID-19, but golfers can still have fun as they hit the links. That’s especially true when they take steps to understand just what it means to golf while social distancing prior to teeing off.

• Assess your personal health before going to the golf course. Golf attracts athletes from all age groups, including some that are more vulnerable to COVID-19 than others. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), age is a risk factor for COVID-19, as older adults are more vulnerable to severe illness if they are infected with the virus than younger adults.

Social distancing requires a collective effort on the part of everyone to keep vulnerable people safe, and golfers are no exception. Golfers young and old who are under the weather or experiencing even mild symptoms of COVID-19 should avoid golf courses until they feel better. In addition, young golfers can choose tee times when they’re less likely to come into contact with older golfers. Early morning tee times tend to be popular among older golfers, but speak with staff at the course to see if they have rules in place to safeguard older golfers. If they do, respect those rules. If they don’t, work with staff to choose a tee time when you’re less likely to be around older golfers.

• Disinfect clubs before and after playing. Disinfecting clubs and other equipment before and after playing is a simple measure that can reduce golfers’ risk of getting the virus or spreading it if they have it but are asymptomatic. Simply wipe down clubs and other equipment with disinfectant or an alcohol-based cleaner.

SAFETY FIRST BEFORE MIXING MEDICINE

Understanding the potential interactions between their prescriptions and common prescription and over-the-counter medications can help people stay safe.

Billions of people across the globe take medications each day. Certain medications can help people with potentially debilitating or even deadly conditions live normal lives, while others can help people overcome relatively minor issues like muscle aches or seasonal allergies.

The American Heart Association notes that mixing drugs can produce unexpected side effects. This can make it dangerous for people already on prescription medications to use over-the-counter drugs for issues like headache or seasonal allergies. Understanding the potential interactions between their prescriptions and common prescription and over-the-counter medications can help people stay safe.

Antihistamines: Antihistamines are widely used to alleviate symptoms of the common cold or seasonal allergies, such as runny nose, itchy eyes and sneezing. The AHA notes that, when taken along with blood pressure medication, antihistamines can contribute to an accelerated heart rate and cause blood pressure to spike. The AHA also cautions people taking sedatives, tranquilizers or prescriptions to treat high blood pressure or depression to consult their physicians before taking antihistamines.

Bronchodilators: Bronchodilators relax and open the airways in the lungs and are used to treat various lung conditions, such as asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, or COPD. These drugs make it easier to breathe and are available via prescription. But patients with heart disease, high blood pressure, thyroid disease, and/or diabetes should discuss the potential interactions between bronchodilators and other medications they may be taking with their physicians.

Cordarone: According to Drugs.com, Cordarone is used to treat potentially deadly abnormal heartbeats. Cordarone can cause severe problems that affect the lungs, thyroid or liver, and can be dangerous when combined with other drugs. For example, the AHA notes that patients who take more than 20 milligrams of Zocor, a drug used to lower “bad” cholesterol and potentially to lower the risk of stroke, heart attack and other conditions, while also taking Cordarone are at risk of developing rhabdomyolysis. Rhabdomyolysis is a condition marked by the breakdown of muscle tissue that can lead to kidney failure or death. The AHA also says that Cordarone can inhibit or reduce the effects of the blood thinner Coumadin.

Nicotine replacement products: People taking prescriptions for depression or asthma should consult their physicians before taking any nicotine replacement products. The Federal Drug Administration notes that doctors may want to change dosages of patients’ current medications before recommending they take any nicotine replacement products. The FDA also advises people to speak with their physicians before trying these products if they have diabetes, heart disease, asthma or stomach ulcers; have had a recent heart attack; have high blood pressure but do not take any medication for it; or have a history of irregular heartbeat.

Drug interactions can complicate treatment of various conditions. People currently on medication are urged to speak with their physicians before taking any new medicines, including over-the-counter drugs.

Takeout Tonight?

Consider these tips in the COVID-19 pandemic

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Although takeout has long been a convenience enjoyed by people around the world, in recent months takeout became a key way for many restaurants to stay afloat when the novel coronavirus COVID-19 forced many to close their facilities to customers.

Restaurants have been allowed to remain open, though they have been forced to change their business models. In a matter of weeks, establishments that were not accustomed to offering takeout quickly reimagined their operations.

to offer curbside pickup or delivery options.

In turn, many communities promoted movements to help keep restaurants afloat, with some encouraging residents to participate in Takeout Thursdays to patronize struggling bars, restaurants and delis.

Takeout has always provided a respite from cooking meals at home, but it seems especially welcomed during the COVID-19 outbreak. Now more than ever, individuals and families could use a break from cooking three meals per day. When opting for takeout, consider these tips.

• Support small businesses. Independent restaurants will likely have a tougher time bouncing back from reduced sales and income than large restaurant chains. When seeking out food- and beverage-related businesses, lean heavily on mom-and-pop restaurants, many of which are pillars in their communities.

These are the businesses whose owners may have children in your local schools or those who sponsor local sports leagues.

• Investigate food safety. Inquire about the safety measures restaurants are taking to ensure food safety. Most restaurants and delivery services are enacting even more safety measures than are required by law. Keep in mind, however, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has said, “There is no evidence to support transmission of COVID-19 associated with food.” Simple handwashing after touching food packaging and your food or face may be sufficient.

• Learn new protocol. Ask the business what their requirements are for ordering food. Some restaurants will bring the order directly to your car through curbside pickup. Others may enable you to enter the establishment if you are wearing a mask. Delivery only might be the policy at another establishment. Follow all rules, as they have been implemented to keep you and the business employees safe.

• Pay by credit card. When placing an order for takeout or curbside pickup, pay by credit card online or over the phone if that is an option. This limits how much you and restaurant employees have to handle cards or cash.

• Avoid direct handoffs. Ask the counter server or delivery person to put down your order and step away before you grab it. This is an extra step to combat the spread of the virus.

Even as stay-at-home restrictions are being relaxed, takeout figures to remain popular. Certain tips can keep everyone well fed and safe and help bars and restaurants stay afloat.

SCAMS

potentially leaving their victims on the hook for costly unapproved tests related to COVID-19.

The CDC reminds everyone the importance of being aware of such schemes. Awareness can help consumers avoid being victimized by scammers, and the following are some additional measures people can take to protect themselves from COVID-19-related fraud.

• Do not share personal account information. Scammers need their victims’ personal information to perpetrate their fraudulent schemes. The CDC cautions beneficiaries to be suspicious of unsolicited requests for their Medicare or Medicaid numbers.

• Do not take callers or visitors at face value. Unsolicited callers or visitors requesting Medicare or Medicaid information should be met with extreme caution. Be suspicious of any unexpected calls or visitors offering COVID-19 tests or supplies. Compromised personal information may be used in other fraud schemes.

• Never click on links in emails or text messages. Do not respond to, or open hyperlinks in, text messages or emails about COVID-19 from unknown individuals.

WHEN FAMILY CANNOT WATCH YOUR PET

What to consider when you need a kennel for your four-legged fur baby

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Being a pet owner involves making careful decisions with the well-being of pets in mind. When pet owners need to go out of town, bringing the pet along can be a smart move. But in other instances, it may be preferable to leave pets behind. In such instances, it becomes essential to find a place that can accommodate the animal in a safe and humane fashion.

Pet owners who do not have the luxury of asking family or friends to watch their animals can enlist the services of a boarding kennel. Touring some facilities and asking the right questions can help people find the best options.

Care.com, the company that provides companionship and care for seniors, children and pets, advises first speaking with your veterinarian about the best kennels nearby. Some vet offices also have boarding facilities on premises. This can be a great option, as the vet and staff will already be familiar with your animal and be able to provide medical care if an emergency arises. Also, vet boarders are great for pets with special needs or those that are on medication.

Pet parents can ask for recommendations from friends or neighbors as well. Before visiting a kennel, recognize that signs of a poorly run facility include dirty pens, housing areas in disrepair, smelly premises, and dogs or cats that seem anxious.

When going with a third-party boarder, look for one that is licensed, insured and bonded. Different areas require various regulations regarding boarding certifications, so do your homework. If the pet should be injured or injures another dog or person during its stay, or damages property while at a bonded and insured boarding facility, the pet owner will be covered for costs.

Look at various facilities and what they offer before making a final decision. Many boarding facilities now offer luxury spaces, complete with couches and televisions. The staff may pamper the pet, and packages also may include grooming or pet playdates.

Visiting the facility in advance also affords owners the opportunity to see if it looks and smells clean and has proper ventilation. Pet owners also will want to ensure that all pets that are boarding there are required to be current on vaccinations and healthy.

The pet adoption company Petfinder suggests gradually introducing a pet to boarding. Try a short overnight or weekend trip before booking a week-long excursion. When dropping off dogs or cats for boarding, avoid long and emotional good-byes, which may upset the pet. With practice, the parting period will be easier for all involved.

that the older population — people 65 years or older — numbered 46.2 million in 2014 (the latest year for which data is available).

With so many people living longer, it’s time to celebrate the perks of getting older rather than the drawbacks. Here are some great benefits to growing old.

• Higher self-esteem: The insecurities of youth give way as one ages, and older people have less negativity and higher self-esteem. A University of Basel study of people ranging in ages from 18 to 89 found that regardless of demographic and social status, the older one gets the higher self-esteem climbs. Qualities like self-control and altruism can contribute to happiness.

• Financial perks: Seniors are entitled to discounts on meals, museum entry fees, movies, and other entertainment if they’re willing to disclose their ages. Discounts are available through an array of venues if one speaks up. For future planning post COVID-19, seniors also will be able to enjoy travel perks, with slashed prices on resorts, plane tickets and more. The U.S. National Park Service offers citizens age 62 and older lifetime passes to more than 2,000 federal recreation sites.

• Reasoning and problem-solving skills: Brain scans reveal that older adults are more likely to use both hemispheres of their brains simultaneously — something called bilateralization. This can sharpen reasoning skills. For example, in a University of Illinois study, older air traffic controllers excelled at their cognitively taxing jobs, despite some losses in short-term memory and visual spatial processing. Older controllers proved to be experts at navigating, juggling multiple aircrafts simultaneously and avoiding collisions.

• Less stress: As people grow older, they are able to differentiate their needs from wants and focus on more important goals. This can alleviate worry over things that are beyond one’s control. Seniors may realize how little the opinions of others truly mean in the larger picture, thereby feeling less stress about what others think of them.

Growing older may involve gray hair or wrinkling skin, but there are many positive things associated with aging.

• Decline valet service. Many courses have temporarily stopped offering valet services to help prevent the spread of COVID-19. Golfer who visit a club that is not taking such precautions can opt to decline the service. Doing so decreases the risk of getting or spreading the virus by limiting the number of people with whom you come into direct contact.

• Pack supplies. Contact the course in advance to determine if the dining room is open and if the course is providing hand sanitizer at each tee. At-risk golfers may want to skip dining at the course after their round is over, opting to pack their own lunch or eat when they arrive home after playing. If the course is not offering hand sanitizer at each hole, pack your own as an extra precaution.

Neuropathy Treatment Breakthrough

By Erica Rainer

Pain & Numbness in your hands or feet, a feeling of burning, extreme cold, tingling, electrical shock like pain, even the feeling of walking on bubble wrap or like there is a sock balled up under your foot… these are all symptoms experienced by those suffering with Peripheral Neuropathy. Unfortunately drugs and injections only mask the pain and there is no surgery, other than amputation that will heal/stop neuropathy from progressing.

Neuropathy is a term used to describe damaged nerves, primarily in the hands and/ or feet, that are progressively breaking down due to a lack of blood supply, nutrients and oxygen reaching the nerves along with a lack of communication from the brain. Since the nerves are what the brain uses to communicate with the area and they are breaking down, the brains ability to communicate with the area lessens over time, allowing for the progression of more breakdown and worse symptoms. It can be caused by Diabetes, Poor Circulation, Poor Nutrition, Chemotherapy, Agent Orange, Misaligned Spinal Bones Placing Pressure on the Nerves, along with over 100 other causes. “Patients experience extreme sensations, loss of feeling, even No Feelings in their Hands and/or Feet along with muscles spasms, pain, weakness, numbness, tingling and burning sensations and have a very hard time with balance” says Dr. James Ide, clinic director at Painless Chiropractic & Neuropathy Treatment Center.

This condition can eventually lead to further nerve damage, causing complete loss of legs or arms leading to amputation, death or brain injury due to falls, burns or other injuries that will not heal, along with organ failure in some cases.

Are you or someone you love suffering with loss of balance, numbness or pain from Nerve Damage in your hands and/or feet that just won’t heal?

You are not alone. More than 20 Million people in the U.S. are dealing with some form of Neuropathy. Most commonly noticed first in the hands or feet, causing weakness, numbness, tingling pain and debilitating balance problems, often frustrated with no place to turn and no hope of recovery. “By the time they come to see us, they feel like they have tried everything. Their MD put them on Anti-Seizure or Epilepsy meds like Gabapentin, Neurontin, Cymbalta or Lyrica and told them they will just have to live with the pain.” said Dr. Ide.

Your Invitation for a comprehensive Neuropathy Consultation & Examination to determine if you are a candidate for treatment... Our paper has teamed up with Dr. Ide’s team once again to help readers learn about new options for finding pain relief! Numbness or Pain in they Hands or Feet

That is until now... With recent advancements in nerve regeneration technology and treatment options, clinics all over the world are seeing larger success rates and faster results with their neuropathy patients. “This new technology paired with a multifaceted approach, has been life altering for our patients and our clinic.

The development and huge success of this new Neuropathy Protocol by Dr. Ide and his team at Painless Chiropractic & Neuropathy Treatment Center has been the talk of the town in recent months. “We have seen an increase in Neuropathy patients and the results that they are getting in a short amount of time is truly amazing” – Kaitlin, The Patient Coordinator at the clinic. There are some things people can do at home to aide in the healing process of their neuropathy however, healing neuropathy is an all-encompassing process that will require lifestyle changes, home care and may or may not include chiropractic, (varying from patient to patient) along with guidance from a medical professional that is experienced, skilled and board certified in treating neuropathy.

When a brand new car is driven off a dealership lot, its plastic headlight lenses are clear and pristine. Over time, due to contaminants in the environment and oxidation from ultraviolet rays, those same lenses can become cloudy, yellow and opaque. Cloudy headlights can decrease visibility and potentially put drivers at risk.

Similar scenarios sometimes unfold involving the human eye. Starting around age 40, proteins in the eye may begin to break down and cause lenses to become cloudy. UV rays can be damaging to the eyes and contribute to this natural protein degradation.

While pronounced vision problems may not occur immediately, the American Academy of Ophthalmology (AAO) says vision can be impaired later in life.

The organization All About Vision reports that cataracts are the most common cause of vision loss in people over age 40 and also are the principal cause of blindness in the world.

Unprotected exposure to the sun (wear your sunglasses) is just one contributor to cataracts. Certain medical problems, such as diabetes, also can cause cataracts. An eye injury, eye surgery or radiation treatments on the upper body also can cause cataracts, as can corticosteroids, according to the AAO.

Congenital cataracts, which occur when infants are born with cataracts, may be caused by infection, injury or poor development in the womb; otherwise, they can form in childhood.

Cataracts form in various regions depending on the cause, according to AAV.

- Subcapsular cataract: A subcapsular cataract occurs at the back of the lens. People with diabetes or those who take high doses of steroid medications have a greater risk of developing this type of cataract.

- Nuclear cataract: This cataract forms in the central zone of the lens and is often associated with aging.

- Cortical cataract: This cataract is characterized by opacities that are white and wedge-like, which form on the periphery of the lens. Eventually they work to the center in a spoke-like fashion. Cortical cataracts can result from aging.

Symptoms of cataracts often can be slow to form, so people may not even notice they have cataracts until they start to block light, while others may learn of their presence during vision exams.

Cataracts may cause vision that is filmy, blurry or foggy, according to WebMD. In older adults, nearsightedness may be attributed to cataracts. Glare, both during the day and at night, also may affect vision due to cataracts. Double vision or changes in the way one sees color can be symptoms of cataracts as well.

Your local eye professional can diagnose cataracts and make recommendations on the course of treatment. Cataract removal surgery is highly effective. More than 95 percent of people who have undergone the surgery experience improvements. Such surgeries are often performed on an outpatient basis.

Szczepanski taking over boys varsity basketball spot at Lake Fenton

From a young age, Tyler Szczepanski knew he wanted to be a high school basketball coach.

He became one when he still attended Fenton High School.

“When I was in high school, I started coaching the fifth- and sixth-graders at St. John,” Szczepanski said.

But this fall he’s going to get his chance to be a head varsity boys basketball coach for the first time.

Szczepanski will be the new coach at Lake Fenton High School.

“All along I knew I wanted to be a basketball coach,” Szczepanski said. “I am excited to have this opportunity.”

Szczepanski replaces Josh Fox who had the position for just one season. He had to leave the position due to the family relocating.

“Tyler was one of our finalists for the job last year and between me and the committee we felt we couldn’t go wrong with him or coach Fox (last year),” Lake Fenton athletic director Brad LaRowe said. “Tyler reached out to me so we brought him back for another interview this time and he wooed the committee with his interview. I felt if we passed on him this time, it would be a mistake. We are happy to hire him.”

Looking back: Eagles defeat vs. Lake Fenton in battle of renewed rivals

By David Troppens

Linden — It’s been a tough season for the Linden varsity football team.

On Oct. 25, 2019 the Eagles entered Friday night’s battle with neighborhood rival Lake Fenton with a 3-5 record, losing four of those contests by a combined 23 points. The tough losses cost the Eagles a chance of making the playoffs for a second straight season.

However, the Eagles didn’t let those frustrations bother them Friday night when they played the Blue Devils for the first time since 1981. Instead, the Eagles, led by many members of their senior class, had what may have been their best game of the season by defeating Lake Fenton 60-22.

Senior quarterback Colby Kohmescher completed 25-of-32 passes for 324 yards and an eye-popping seven TD passes and fellow senior Brenden Miller caught a TD pass and caught two interceptions, leading the Eagles to the impressive victory.

“I just wanted to go out there and not forget,” Miller said. “I didn’t want to regret or dwell on how things went this season. I wanted to look forward to something good and go out with a bang.”

“It was great. We started the rivalry again,” Kohmescher said. “I was super confident in our team and what we could do offensively, and we did it. I’m proud of my team.”

“It has been frustrating because we’ve played better than a four-win team,” Linden varsity football coach Denny Hopkins said. “We didn’t make some plays down the stretch in a couple of places and it hurt us. But we learned from it.”

These kids could’ve rolled See RIVALS on 34

over and just hung it up, but the last few weeks they wanted to finish at the top of their game and they did. We could’ve very easily been 7-2 or 8-1. … It’s one of those things. It’s hard because I know how hard these kids work. Those eight seniors are a pretty good group, good leaders.”

The Eagles weren’t the only team on Linden’s home football field looking back at a frustrating season. The Blue Devils (3-6) also had their share of disappointments this fall, but came out looking mighty impressive on their first drive. The Blue Devils took 5:58 off the clock, drove 77 yards in 14 plays, scoring on a five-yard TD run on a bootleg scamper by Reid Shumaker. Lake Fenton failed the two-point conversion, but led 6-0.

However, that would be Lake Fenton’s high point of the contest as the Eagles scored the next 40 points of the first half. Linden took just four plays to score on its first offensive possession of the contest, scoring on a 42-yard TD pass from Kohmescher to Miller. That would be just one of seven TD tosses by Kohmescher.

Linden’s special teams scored the game’s next points. Forced to punt deep in its zone Lake Fenton’s protection struggled, Linden’s Bryce Eliuk blocked the punt and it rolled through the back of the end zone for a safety. Linden led 9-0.

Editor’s note: The Major League Baseball season has started, but the sports staff is going to continue to remember the 1984 season within our publication. Enjoy.

The All-Star Game used to be one of the pinnacles to any Major League Baseball season.

In 1984, six Tigers were among the American League playing roster. Second baseman Lou Whitaker, catcher Lance Parrish and centerfielder Chet Lemon were voted as starters to the team, meaning Detroit had one-third of the starting positions. Meanwhile, shortstop Alan Trammell, pitchers Jack Morris and Willie Hernandez were also added to the roster. Some had solid outings. Whitaker provided two hits while Lemon had one. Morris also pitched two innings of shutout ball.

However, the Tigers entered the mid-season break with questions. The starting rotation had struggled and now Trammell was having arm problems. A stint on the disabled list looked possible.

Olszewski and I realize I had really good coaches growing up. They made a big impact. During my senior year I realized this was something I definitely wanted to do. They meant a lot to me and helped me grow up through my young adult life at the high school. They were tremendous role models and I felt I wanted to make the same impact on the youth as they did for me.”

“I am impressed with his experience,” LaRowe said. “He’s been at it for so long and he’s still so young. His passion for the game comes out. He has a good idea of how he wants a program to be run.”

The Blue Devils posted a 6-15 record with a young team during Fox’s one season at the helm. However, the record doesn’t reflect how competitive the squad was in most games during the 2019-20 season. The squad lost its first three games of the season by a combined nine points, with one of those losses coming in an 84-80 overtime loss against Swartz Creek.

Increase in outdoor recreation due to COVID

State parks experience an ‘extreme escalation’ of users

By Hannah Ball

When the COVID-19 pandemic came to the U.S., shutdowns followed and many people were stuck indoors unless they worked an essential job.

What followed was a surge of people participating in outdoor recreation as a way to get out of the house. According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, that surge is still happening.

Ron Olson, chief of parks and recreation for the MDNR, said back when COVID-19 pandemic and the shutdowns began, the parks had to stay open because they are considered an essential service, but they had to keep the parks sanitary and safe. They curtailed interactions between the public and staff for safety.

“Whenever the weather warms even a little, because I suppose people have been sequestered, we’ve seen an extreme escalation in people wanting to get outside and coming to the parks,” Olson said.

People were not allowed to camp at state parks until June 22, but their parking lots were “inundated” with cars, he said. They had to periodically close some parks because too many people used them at once. The MDNR also experienced a delay in hiring short-term staff, which made it more difficult to staff the parks and keep them open.

In one popular fishing spot, the Tippy Dam Recreation Area, they had to close it down for a few weeks because it was so crowded that people were fishing shoulder-to-shoulder. The area is now open.

The start of summer always brings more people to the parks, and the state has fewer restrictions now compared to when the pandemic began. Olson said they’re still seeing a surge of people.

“Weekends are busy as they normally are, but during the week, we’re seeing a lot more people than we normally would have by in large,” he said.

Olson said they don’t have an exact number of how many people have been using the parks. However, long-term staff have expressed to him that they haven’t ever seen this many people at the parks before.

“It’s definitely a clear escalation of people,” Olson said. This brought the challenge of enforcing social distance rules.

They’re asking people to be patient when they visit a state park, to social distance and to wear masks while inside a facility. They encourage people to avoid large gatherings and to be respectful of each other. Olson said if someone doesn’t feel well, they should stay home.

Paul Stark, recreation and athletic programmer of Southern Lakes Parks & Recreation, said their program numbers are down this summer for a few reasons.

“The obvious number one reason is COVID-19. Parents are hesitant to send their children to sporting activities and some have stated they are not willing to sign up because of health concerns,” he said. “People want to send their kids out to organized activities to help relieve boredom and to get them off their video games but for some, they do not want to risk catching the virus.”

Currently, they’re running programs for children ages 2-9 and youth tennis at Fenton High School and Lake Fenton High School. Their most popular activity is a new program called Speed and Strength training.

There are sessions for middle and high school students. “We have over 50 participants combined. These students are getting great training from the trainers at Ultimate Athletic Performance in Holly,” he said.

SLPR is also running several fitness classes outside at Rackham Park behind the Fenton Community and Cultural Center. People are able to sign up online for the fitness classes at slpr.net.

The swimming and gymnastics programs are closed at this time.

“I do know that there has been a huge spike in people buying kayaks at the local sporting goods stores. They cannot keep them in stock.

Bicycles have been hot sellers as well. We have noticed tons of people walking outside in the neighborhoods. Tennis is very popular as well as golf. People feel more safe playing golf and tennis during the pandemic,” he said.

Stark said because the virus doesn’t show any sign of going away, people are looking for ways to exercise that keeps them socially distanced from other people.

ACCORDING TO FBI STATISTICS, there were approximately 17,225 murders in 2016. The July 30, 2016 slaying of Alexandra “Ally” Brueger was one of them.

Ally was 31 years old when she was shot in the back while jogging on Fish Lake Road near her Rose Township home that Saturday afternoon. She was a registered nurse and looking forward to receiving a masters degree in creative writing, which was presented to her parents after her death. She had her whole life in front of her.

Ally’s killing is being investigated by the Michigan State Police. I don’t know how many detectives have worked this case over the past four years but I do know there have been more than one. They tell Ally’s parents very little. They tell us even less.

Other than normal investigative procedures — checking out family, friends, boyfriends, coworkers and Ally’s activities around the time of her murder, I hope detectives stepped outside of the box and checked a few other things.

For example, there is a large state park campground on the same road less than four miles from where she was shot. Did MSP check the registrations of everyone staying there at the time of and before the murder?

There was a big drug bust at an assisted living home a few miles south of where Ally was gunned down. People visiting that home would have no choice but to get off the small side road and go either north or south on Fish Lake. There was a conviction in that case and the homeowner was jailed. I wonder if MSP detectives got a hold of that file for review from the Oakland County Sheriff’s Office.

At the time of the murder, there was a major road construction project underway on a nearby well-traveled roadway. While there were no video cameras in the area where Ally lay dying, what about the construction area and detour points. MSP initially asked for information about a white or light-colored four-door sedan. Could it have come from a possible detour?

These are just a few things an amateur like me thinks of. I may be way off the mark — but this case is getting colder, isn’t it.

Just sayin’!

Jumble Kids

That Scrambled Word Game!

By David L. Hoyt and Jeff Knurek

The letters of these crazy words are all mixed up. To play the game, put them back into the right order so that they all make real words you can find in the dictionary. Write the letters of each real word under each crazy word, but only one letter to a square.

Now you’re ready to solve today’s Jumble for Kids. Study the picture for a hint. Play around with the letters in the circles. You’ll find you can put them in order so that they make your funny answer.

Something CORNY to crow about

It’s time to enjoy the buttery taste of Michigan sweet corn

Compiled by Vera Hogan

A little birdy told us that this year’s sweet corn is ready to buy at local farms and farmers markets. Here are a couple of ideas to make your corn prepping and eating much easier and more enjoyable:

MESS-FREE MICROWAVE CORN

Place an ear of corn (husk and all) on a microwave-safe plate. Put it in your microwave and cook for 4 minutes. When the cooking is done, use an oven mitt or towel to hold the ear of corn steady. Use a sharp knife to cut off the bottom end of the corn, and then squeeze near the top of the husk. The corn should slide right out, leaving the husk and silk behind. Add whatever toppings or seasonings you like and enjoy.

BUTTER USING BREAD METHOD

One of the most vexing corn conundrums is how best to butter it. Rather than fumbling with a butter knife, many people prefer to roll their corn onto a stick of butter. Here is something easier using a piece of buttered bread. Just wrap your buttered bread around the corn and twist a couple of times to spread the butter around. (And when your corn is perfectly buttered, you can pass it on for someone else to use, or just eat it as another side dish to your meal).

BUTTER USING THE BOILING METHOD

This tip only really works for boiled corn, but it’s really easy and effective. When your boiled corn is just about done cooking, drop about 8 tablespoons of butter into the water. The butter will melt and float to the top of the pot. When the corn is done cooking, use a pair of tongs to pull it out. It will emerge with a coating of butter already on it.

GET A HANDLE ON IT

When you’re prepping corn for the grill, peel back the husk without removing it entirely. Remove and discard the silk from the corn, then use a piece of cooking twine to tie the husk together at the bottom of each ear of corn. Tying the husks together creates a handle on the end of your corn, which makes it much easier to move and flip your corn while grilling.
