I wish to thank the two ladies who paid for my items at Dollar General on Tuesday Oct. 25. And a special thank you to the lady who paid for my groceries on Wednesday. I will pay it forward, thanks to you.

I don't know about other neighborhoods, but the Squanemah Shores area did Halloween right. It was awesome seeing so many costumed trick-or-treaters and their parents, some also dressed up, following close behind. We actually ran out of candy this year.

Kudos to Tri-County Times for publishing “So you think this election is nasty? Trump/Biden is very mild compared to these. Real Americans knew this.”

Restaurants and bars required to ask for information to comply with state mandate on contact tracing of COVID-19

By Sharon Stone

On Thursday, Oct. 29, the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) revised and extended its epidemic order to contain the spread of COVID-19.

For bars, restaurants, and social events outside private homes, indoor party sizes at a single table are now restricted to six people.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 2, bars and restaurants are required to take names and contact information to support effective contact tracing if necessary. Research published by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has shown that visiting restaurants is a risk factor for COVID positivity.

Alongside the rerelease of Thursday’s order, MDHHS published strong recommendations for indoor social gatherings, including at Thanksgiving. While continuing to focus on encouraging voluntary compliance with its Emergency Orders, MDHHS has also issued rules that set forth fines for violations of these epidemic orders. Violations are punishable by a civil fine.

What every brand can learn from fall fashion trends

If you’re a woman and you’ve done any shopping for tops lately, you may have noticed that details like puffy sleeves and ruffled shoulders have made their way onto lots of shirts.

If you’ve been working from home these past six months, I bet you can guess why designers care so much about what’s happening from the chest up — video calls.

At first I thought it was a coincidence that these trends were here, but that’s not the case. The industry shelved whatever it was they had planned for fall 2020 and got to work on what consumers really need right now.

Designer Rebecca Minkoff talked about this shift during the Inc. 5000 Vision Conference last week.

As it has for most companies, the COVID-19 pandemic has caused a lot of change in Minkoff’s business. Many of those changes, Minkoff said, have resulted in her team getting to know their customer better. The result — more fancy shoulder tops and more accessories.

Another change said Minkoff is that her team no longer works in silos — everyone is doing a little bit of everything.

The same can be said for our team at View Newspaper Group. Some of that is beneficial because it renews team members with tasks they haven’t done in some time. Unfortunately, everyone doing everything can also lead to burn out. Minkoff addressed that too, saying that she and her team combat that in a couple of ways. First of all, they celebrate each win together to keep the momentum going and second, the leadership team listens to and addresses any concerns.

Before hearing Minkoff speak, I couldn’t have listed many similarities between the newspaper and fashion industries, but there are tons. Since COVID-19 we have listened, learned, shared, become nimble and supportive, and most importantly, we’ve pivoted when needed.

After a successful Bottles, Brews & News craft beer and wine festival last year, we knew we had to do something to keep the name and spirit alive even though we could not host an in-person event. After months of brainstorming different possibilities, we found a way to make it work.

Bottles, Brews & News Beer Fest in a Bag is set for 3 to 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 21, in the parking lot at John’s Pizzeria in Fenton. For $30, ticket holders will receive a reusable souvenir bag filled with a mixed six-pack and other goodies for two — to go. The idea is to return home with the goodie-filled bag and host a mini craft beer fest for yourself and/or a small group of friends.

Best of all, proceeds from the event benefit the nonprofit agency, Fenton Area Resource and Referral Network, Inc. (FARR). Last year’s event raised $6,000 for the nonprofit, which works with residents in crisis to coordinate help with basic needs.

I’d say, our latest pivot is to craft beer events what fancy shoulders is to the fashion industry.

I bet if you think about it, your business has a “fancy shoulders” example too. I’d love to hear it. Email me at ecaswell@mihomepaper.com.

Emily Caswell is the brand manager for VIEW Group, the branding division of View Newspaper Group.

What do you think of bars and restaurants being required to record names and phone numbers for contact tracing?

“It feels intrusive, but I feel much worse for the restaurant owners and the employees. They already have so much pressure on them due to COVID rules and regulations. This is just going to add to their stress.”

“I don’t care. We willingly give our names and phone numbers to Walmart/Kroger/Meijer to get coupons and good deals. If you don’t like it, stay home.”

“If you are an owner of a restaurant and you support this governor after all she has done to let you fail — no. You worked way too hard, and your staff worked way too hard to let yet another restriction slowly kill your revenue stream.”

“I think that it is not necessary and violates our constitutional rights! It further hinders these businesses who have struggled to maintain and it’s just another hassle and deterrent for them. Are they requiring Walmart or grocery stores or anyone else to take names and numbers?”

“I personally would want to know if the place I dined had someone test positive so I’m good with them knowing my contact info.”

As COVID-19 anxiety grows...

Tips to avoid crisis and conflict

Compiled by Sharon Stone

Among mask mandates, social distancing, outspoken political views and personal challenges from the COVID-19 pandemic, there is a heightened risk for public spaces turning into places of conflict.

According to experts at the Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI), the global leader in de-escalation training for over 40 years, mentally preparing and practicing responses can best ensure non-confrontational experiences.

Potential challenging situations could include disagreements over mask requirements or social distancing, family gatherings, shopping lines, acclimating to more densely populated work environments or navigating political discussions.

“Having trained teachers, nurses and others who interact with the public, and being a social worker myself, I know the immense need for de-escalation training in the workplace and in everyday life,” said Amber Belle, a global CPI trainer. “Learning conflict-prevention techniques can help ensure you have positive experiences in your community.”

CPI has identified probable areas of conflict and how to best mitigate tension. They recommend embracing four simple techniques to prevent and reduce conflict:

Avoid judgment

Understand that everyone has different life experiences and may be overwhelmed with struggles and anxiety from things you know nothing about. Listen and focus on the feelings behind the message.

Don’t take it personally

Another person’s behavior is not about you. You are likely not the true target of someone’s behavior. Tell yourself, “This may not be about the two of us; it may be about other issues in their life.” Or repeat to yourself, “I’m going to be respectful. I’m going to be respectful.”

Control your reactions

You can’t control another person’s behavior, but you can control how you react. Avoid using facial expressions, gestures and language that could make another person feel anxious or defensive.

Be prepared if you have to engage

Have a plan to acknowledge and redirect. Here are some things you could potentially say:

• “Yeah. This year has been difficult on everyone.”
• “I can understand where you’re coming from.”
• “We’ll all be glad to have this pandemic behind us.”

Over four decades, CPI has trained more than 15 million individuals in its techniques, spanning many industries and professions, especially health care and education. CPI tracks violent incidents in the industries it trains, and data shows that de-escalation skills, when used correctly, can quickly decrease violence regardless of the industry.

For more de-escalation tips, go to crisisprevention.com.

During a particularly tense time in our nation’s history, having a few techniques at the ready can help you avoid conflict wherever you are.
Precedent, stare decisis and other legal terms and concepts

When United States Supreme Court Justice Amy Coney Barrett had her Senate confirmation hearing last month, she was asked about her position on following “precedents” announced in previous United States Supreme Court cases and adhering to the doctrine of “stare decisis” for future cases before the court.

She gave general answers to these questions and declined to be specific as to how she might rule. She did indicate that she was an “originalist” and then defined the term.

It occurred to me that at this hearing we had three important legal terms which most people probably aren’t familiar with and thus gives me an opportunity to explain them and some other related legal terms and concepts.

So here goes.

A legal precedent is when a higher court has announced a rule of law, which is to be followed in subsequent cases. This is to provide predictability, stability, fairness, and efficiency in the law.

The requirement that precedent be followed in subsequent court decisions is called stare decisis, which is Latin for “stand by the decision.” This means that generally speaking, there is an obligation on courts to honor past precedents. However, if a court believes a precedent should be overturned, stare decisis does not apply.

The United States Supreme Court has developed four factors to consider in overturning precedent:

• The quality of the past decision’s reasoning;
• Its consistency with related decisions;
• Legal developments since the past decision;
• Reliance on the decision throughout the legal system and society.

Some Supreme Court Justices adhere to the doctrine of “originalism,” which is that the United States Constitution should be interpreted as the founding fathers intended. Other Justices believe that the constitution is not static but changes from era to era and interpretations should change accordingly. Some take a middle position.

Finally, there have been Supreme Court cases where there has been unanimous agreement that precedent and stare decisis should not be applied. A leading example is found in the 1954 case of Brown v Board of Education, which declared “separate but equal” racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

The nation will watch with special interest what happens in this year’s Supreme Court term. When important opinions are released, I will make a full report.
Karmanos Cancer Institute at McLaren Flint welcomes gynecologic oncologist

Karmanos Cancer Institute at McLaren Flint continues to fill the need of specialty cancer treatment services by welcoming Rabbie Hanna, MD to its surgical oncology team.

Hanna is a board-certified gynecologic oncologist who specializes in the removal of cancerous tumors located within or near the female reproductive organs, in addition to the management of such cancers with chemotherapy. With the addition of Hanna, Genesee County and surrounding area women diagnosed with gynecologic cancers now have a specialized surgical option closer to home.

“I am excited to join the surgical oncology team in Flint and bring a specialized treatment to the area,” Hanna said. “We’re eliminating the need to travel for gynecologic oncology services — since the service is now closer to home, patients may receive care quicker, as well as receive additional treatments and follow-up care offered right here in Flint.”

Hanna is a recognized leader in his field, who comes to Karmanos by way of the Detroit metropolitan area. He has been named to the Hour Detroit Top Doctors List every year since 2014, including receiving the most votes from his medical colleagues in 2020.

“When it comes to gynecologic oncology, I utilize minimally invasive surgical techniques, such as robotic surgery,” Hanna said. “These types of procedures allow me to make smaller incisions resulting in faster recovery times for patients, rather than with traditional surgery techniques. The decision on which technique works best will be discussed among the patient’s cancer care team of physicians and with the patient.”

Hanna removes cervical, ovarian, vulvar, vaginal and uterine cancers through surgery. He will work closely with the radiation oncologists on the McLaren Flint campus to provide the best treatment plan for each patient’s success.

“We are dedicated to offering cancer patients the best treatments for their care,” said Chris Boyce, Central Region and McLaren Northern Michigan Director of Cancer Services for Karmanos Cancer Network. “The addition of Dr. Hanna to our team of oncologists in Flint helps us fill a void for this specialized cancer treatment. His expertise and training will help in creating more patient success stories in our communities.”

Hanna has an extensive educational background in gynecologic oncology. He completed his gynecologic oncology fellowship training at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina in 2011. In 2008, he completed his obstetrics and gynecology residency at Wayne State University and Detroit Medical Center. He completed post-graduate training at The University Teaching Hospital of Al-Nahrain College of Medicine in Baghdad, Iraq, where he also received his medical degree.

Those who have been recently diagnosed with a gynecologic cancer and are seeking the best treatment option for their case may call Hannah Ardelean, BSN, RN, OCN, the oncology nurse navigator at Karmanos Cancer Institute at McLaren Flint to schedule a consultation: (810) 342-5899.

EX-GIRLFRIEND TAKES WALLET OF HOLLY MAN

On Thursday, Oct. 29, at 3:15 p.m., a Holly man contacted Holly police to report a theft from his home. The victim said that on Wednesday, Oct. 28 a former girlfriend stopped at his home asking to stay for a few days. The man declined due to past relationship problems but offered her time to call other people to locate temporary lodging. The man used the restroom and returned to find her gone along with his wallet containing cash and ID. Holly police responded to her home address and made several calls to her cellphone with no results. Officers are investigating.

up to $1,000 and may also be treated as a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for not more than six months or a fine of not more than $200, or both. In addition, failure to comply with orders may violate a business or professional’s licensure requirements or present a workplace safety violation.

Local restaurant owners respond

Curt Catallo, co-owner of the Fenton Fire Hall restaurant, said, “This latest mandate shows that restaurants are used to adapting on the fly.”

With this newest mandate, he said they will tackle it like everything else. He said their restaurant group, Union Joints, has created an app and QR code that guests can fill out. “We count a lot on technology, Catallo said. “With this tracing, we’re only using technology to comply with the mandate.”

From his observations, Catallo said people in general are reluctant to give out personal information. “They need to remember we are only doing this to comply, nothing else. It’s not for marketing.

“We’re just the messengers. Bear with us,” Catallo said.

Jason Warda, owner of The Barn, Ponemah Lakeside Lodge and the Fenton Pub, said it almost feels like restaurants have been the punching bag of 2020. He understands that people are reluctant to provide their information, however, he and his staff are just trying to follow the rules. He said guests will be asked at the door to provide their information.

investment versus in the state, Niles Industrial Coatings decided to invest in Michigan.

This decision was facilitated by an incentives package through the Michigan Economic Development Corporation. As part of this, there is a contribution from the local unit of government and Niles Industrial Coating submission to encompass this.

Hart said the investment will substantially benefit the city of Fenton, along with their Midland operations.

Michigan Licensed Beverage Association (MLBA) responds

“As owner, he said it’s frustrating for him to learn about new mandates through social media and the news when everyone else does. “No one asked our opinion,” he said.

According to the order, all dine-in food service establishments must maintain accurate records of the names and phone numbers of patrons who purchase food for consumption on the premises, and the date and time of entry. If patrons refuse to provide information, servers must deny entry/service.

“If contact tracing is important, we should be doing it everywhere, not just in certain businesses to paint a bad picture,” Ellis said.

This includes investment in site improvement, personal property and job creation.

Per the Industrial Facilities Tax (IFT) application submission to the city dated July 13, Niles Industrial Coatings will make a minimum real property investment of $1,385,000, personal property investment of $170,000 (total of $1,555,000) and create 20 new jobs at its city of Fenton corporate headquarters.

Hart recommended city council approve the scheduleing of a public hearing for Nov. 23, as required per the IFT application process.

Gilbert wins regional title, leads LF boys to state meet bid

By David Troppens

Linden — Joey Gilbert entered the regional cross country meet at Linden Middle School probably not the favorite.

The Lake Fenton senior wanted to see if he could compete with the Pinckney pair that had beaten him a week earlier. However, the Pirates’ top two runners were also on their home course when they did that. This time Gilbert had a secret weapon. He was on a course he knew well.

Gilbert started slightly back behind Pinckney’s duo of Caleb Jarema and Gavin White, but then made up the short distance he was behind them, out-running them during the final 400 meters en route to an individual regional championship title. He also helped Lake Fenton qualify for the Division 2 state meet for the fifth straight season as the Blue Devils finished in second place in the men’s race.

The Lake Fenton girls also had a qualifier.

“I came into the race projected third place by around 20 seconds based off of PRs so I didn’t have a set strategy,” Gilbert said. “I was going to see if Pinckney would go out in a pack like last race or if they wanted to race and I saw in the first 200 meters that they wanted to race. I focused on sitting back the first mile behind (Goodrich’s) Gabe Trudeau then in the second mile I focused on reeling in the Pinckney boys. When we went up the hill after the two-mile mark, I was thinking to myself, ‘I

Blue Devils advance to district semifinal, defeat Charlotte in thriller

By David Troppens

The Lake Fenton varsity football team has had a tough run of games recently.

After winning its first two games, the Blue Devils (3-4) dropped their final four regular season games, forcing them to have to go on the road during the first round of the playoffs.

But the Blue Devils didn’t let it bother them too much as they earned a thrilling 36-34 road victory against Charlotte Friday night. The win means the Blue Devils will travel to play a familiar foe during the second week of the season, a road game at Williamston on Friday.

“We had some of the same scenarios that hurt us in the past weeks pop up tonight,” Lake Fenton varsity football coach Marty Borski said. “I’m proud of these kids. They could’ve folded at any point. We had a lot of bad stuff that hurt us in the past but our kids stayed positive and battled through it. It was one of my proudest moments I’ve had as a coach come tonight. I think those other lessons we learned the hard way through the year helped us tonight.”

The first half had all sorts of scoring plays and was filled with plenty of highs and lows for both teams.

The game began with Charlotte taking the opening kickoff for a touchdown.

“After the play I thought we were OK,” Borski said. “We had some young kids on the kickoff team and the excitement got the best of a few. It wasn’t a situation where we made a huge mistake but made aggressive mistakes. There was no panic.”

Apparently, there wasn’t any panic. The Blue Devils scored the game’s next three TDs. Andrew Herron scored on a seven-yard TD run and Ashton Hunter converted the Tigers dominate in opening playoff contest, 36-3

By David Troppens

Fenton — It’s not often an undefeated team faces off against a winless squad in the Michigan High School Athletic Association football playoffs.

But that’s what happened Friday night at Fenton High School when the Fenton Tigers (7-0) hosted Walled Lake Central (0-7) in an opening Division 2 district contest. With the COVID-19 outbreak, all teams that could compete are competing in the playoffs this season, setting up an unusual circumstance. The results were pretty much what you’d expect as well. Fenton captured a 36-3 victory against Walled Lake Central.

The win means the Tigers will host North Farmington, a 44-7 victor against Waterford Kettering. The game starts Friday at 7 p.m.

The Tigers’ defense sparked the victory. The Vikings couldn’t get their ground game going against the Tigers’ defensive line, collecting just 18 ground yards on 32 attempts. Central had 12 of its 32 carries go for losses. And another Central problem was its own passing game. The Vikings completed just 5 of 23 passes for 78 yards.

“We were pushing it,” Fenton senior and defensive player Haydon Johnson said. “The defense was trying to be the best that we could be, knowing it could be our last week. We just didn’t want it to be our last week. We think we have the team that can go really far this year and we want to push each other for that.”

“The defense was really good,” Fenton varsity football coach Jeff Setzke said. “Other than that, one play in the first half they played well. I don’t think they had a first down until the second quarter.”

That was the case. Central’s first four offensive possessions ended with three downs and a punt. Its fifth possession went two plays and they fumbled the ball.

Holly football falls in opening round of playoffs

By David Troppens

The Holly varsity football team came into the state playoffs on a high, after winning its first game of the season against the Clio Mustangs a week ago.

The Bronchos tried to make it two victories in a row during the opening round of the playoffs, but lost a 35-7 road verdict against Bay City Western Friday night.

“We were able to move the ball really well,” Holly varsity football coach Dallas Lesperance said. “We got within the 10 five times and failed to score. They were able to get a few big plays on us. We had a turnover for a touchdown. Big plays and turnovers hurt us again.”

The Bronchos (1-6) were trailing 21-0 when they scored their touchdown. It came on a 20-yard pass from Jacob Hild to Aleczander Lewis, both seniors.

Linden girls XC making trip to D2 state meet

By David Troppens

Fenton — One Linden cross country team is headed to Michigan International Speedway for the Division 2 state meet on Friday as are four individual Linden boy runners.

The Linden girls took second at Saturday’s event at Linden Middle School. The Eagles had their entire scoring five place within the top 25, recording a second-place point total of 79. Pinckney won the regional event with 36 points while Goodrich placed third.

“Any year you can make it to the state finals is a success, but being runner-up to a great Pinckney team met our goals and expectations today,” Linden varsity girls cross country coach Benjamin Cox said. “Finishing second puts us in the fast heat at the finals so that should be helpful for the girls who are trying to run fast in their final race of the season. We also have four seniors on varsity this year, so this was special to have a strong race at their last regional and last time they will race on our home course.”

The Linden boys missed out of a third-place regional finish by posting 78 team points. That meant the team didn’t qualify as a team. However, four of the Linden runners were among individual state qualifiers.

Linden’s top women runner was Alexis Mawhinney who placed sixth with a time of 20:16.00. Melanea Strauss earned a 10-place finish (20:44.60) earning the Eagles’ second spot. At that time the Eagles trailed Goodrich who had two of the top five runners. However, it was the next three placings that put Linden ahead of third-place Goodrich. The rest of Linden’s runners were Alyson Kelly in 18th (21:21.20), Jessica Jablonski in 23rd (21:42.90), Karyn Taylor in 27th (21:47.90), Collene Blackwood in 29th (21:53.10) and Nicole Palmer in 39th (22:31.00).

“The goal at states is to put all of our runners in a position to run their best race of the year,” Cox said. “This is what we train all season for and it is always nice to end the year on a high note.”

The Linden boys knew it was going to be a battle between them, Goodrich and possibly Lake Fenton.

GILBERT can hang with these guys’ so I stuck on to them. Back in the woods Caleb, Gavin and I went back and forth going up and down the hills. Crossing the bridge in the woods, I could hear my coaches voice yelling ‘go Joey go’ from the cornfield. ... When we popped out of the woods with 400 meters to go I could hear all of the fans and see the final turn and that’s when I made my move past Caleb and Gavin. Turning the corner I had the pedal to the floor and wasn’t letting off. It was just a rush of joy when I crossed the line knowing I accomplished my goal that I set last October.”

It was an outstanding day for the Lake Fenton boys as the squad scored just 54 team points, placing second to Pinckney’s 44 points.

The Blue Devils had its entire scoring five finish within the top 25, including three in the top 10, something even regional champs Pinckney were unable to do. Qualifying means there will be some different hairstyles on the squad.

“It feels great being able to qualify as a team for the state meet at MIS for the fifth year straight,” Gilbert said. “I am extremely proud of all of the guys and how they performed on Saturday, we all had some personal goals for the race but we all had the same goal of qualifying for states.”

extra-point. The game was tied at 7-all. On its next possession, Lake Fenton scored when Reid Shumaker completed a 45-yard TD reception to Dalton Decker. Hunter’s extra-point gave the Blue Devils a 14-7 lead entering the end of the first quarter.

The lead grew to 20-7 early in the second quarter when Decker scored on a 23-yard TD run. That was the first of six touchdowns between the two teams in the second quarter. Charlotte responded with a 36-yard screen pass for a touchdown and Lake Fenton answered back with a Shumaker to Max Muenzer 14-yard TD reception. Heron ran in the two-point conversion and the Blue Devils led 28-14. Every time the Blue Devils went up by two scores, Charlotte responded back. The next time came on a 55-yard TD pass, cutting Lake Fenton’s lead to 28-21. However, Herron scored on the Blue Devils’ next possession on an eight-yard run. He converted the two-point play as well and Lake Fenton led 36-21. That ended up being a pivotal two-point conversion.

ball when Fenton’s Marcus Berkey forced the fumble and Dylan Beverly recovered it. It wasn’t until their sixth offensive possession that the Vikings actually earned a first down. But even with that possession, four plays later the Vikings were punting.

While the Fenton defense was dominating, the Tigers’ offense was scoring touchdowns. During Fenton’s first possession, the Tigers drove 49 yards in nine plays. The last play was a four-yard TD run by Berkey, who finished with three TD runs. Fenton led 7-0 after Nick Temple’s extra point.

Fenton’s third possession also ended in a touchdown. The Tigers drove 64 yards in nine plays, scoring on a two-yard run by Berkey. Fenton led 13-0 with 9:35 left in the second quarter.

The Tigers scored their third touchdown in the first half on their next possession. Completions of 11 yards to Kash Russell and 24 yards to Berkey from quarterback Dylan Davison set up Berkey’s 17-yard TD run around the right side. Fenton led 19-0 with 7:19 left in the first half.

Finally, the Tigers used their passing game to score their fourth TD. Completions of 22 and 7 yards to Charlie Hurdzinski set up Davidson’s 30-yard TD reception to Sam Claborn, giving Fenton a 26-0 lead.

Central had a completion of 33 yards on its next possession, resulting in a 34-yard field goal on the last play of the first half, but that’s about all the Vikings were able to do offensively during either half. Fenton held a dominating 26-3 lead at the half.

Fenton’s defense continued to dominate in the second half, while the offense was a little less consistent. Still, Fenton was able to score on a 28-yard field goal by Temple and on a 26-yard TD run by Davidson.

“We weren’t in synch offensively,” Setzke said. “We were just a step off here or there, or a missed block away. Don’t get me wrong, we won the game 36-3, but when you are thinking about it this was game seven (of the season) and we should be coming together and jelling as one.”
