Rose Township adopts tax rates

Provides funds for operating budget and fire coverage

By Sharon Stone

On June 29, the Rose Township Board of Trustees unanimously adopted its 2021 tax rate request, which must be submitted to the Oakland County Board of Commissioners by Sept. 30. The taxes will be levied Dec. 1.

The motion was made by Trustee Glen Nobel and supported by Treasurer Paul Gambka.

The board approved the renewal of an operating millage of 0.9645 mills.

The board approved two millage renewals to fund the North Oakland County Fire Authority (NOCFA), which provides fire and EMS coverage to Rose Township. The board approved one millage at 1.2995 mills and one millage at 0.7173 mills, both to be levied Dec. 1.

Both fire millages expire Dec. 31, 2021.

Mai Nguyen, Fenton High School junior, was crowned the 2021 Fenton Freedom Festival Queen on Friday, July 2 during the Street Experience in downtown Fenton.

She said she was "really excited" to be chosen. Last year's queen, Chelsea Bujak, crowned Nguyen in front of an applauding crowd.

"I know there were a lot of really good contenders," she said. "Today was really fun."

Nguyen thanked her family, friends and Fenton officials who put on the event and scholarship program. Applicants go through an interview process and answer questions about their involvement in the community, how they want to give back, and what Fenton means to them.

Meet Linden school's new therapy dog

School officials say young students love reading to Mari the chocolate lab

By Hannah Ball

Linden — Linden Community Schools will soon welcome a new employee to work at Argentine Early Childhood Center — Mari the therapy dog.

Mari is the latest addition to the district's therapy dog program. The 14-month-old chocolate lab is expected to join the school full time this July.

Superintendent Russ Ciesielski gave a presentation about the program to the Linden City Council on Monday, June 28.

"We are implementing a therapy dog program in our district. We're starting with our youngest learners at Argentine Early Childhood Center and that's our pre-K students," he said.

The Hyatt Elementary principal works with someone who has a certified therapy dog to bring them into the school. Ciesielski has been discussing the potential of having a therapy dog at Linden Elementary, too.

"When we looked at what just happened with the pandemic year we had, one of our main focuses was on the health and wellness of our students and

"Obviously, it eases social isolation of students. It does bring people together," he said. "Animals help reduce anxiety and they lower stress levels." Paradise Dog Training in Fenton is handling Mari's training. She's been visiting the Argentine Early Childhood Center.

eople across this country love their fireworks. There's just something nostalgic about relaxing on a warm summer night and watching the skies above explode with colorful sprays of fireworks. The bright lights can momentarily light up your surroundings and cast a patriotic red, white and blue glow over everyone.

I know numerous people were upset that the city of Fenton canceled the traditional Fenton Freedom Festival and nighttime fireworks based on the number of Hot lines that came across my desk. The FFF committee had an April 5 deadline to make a decision on whether they could move forward with the biggest event of the year. At that time, the COVID rules for Michigan wouldn't permit such a large gathering and there was no way our local committee could predict the future.

But, to the delight of families across the tri-county area, just as they have done in past years, lake associations sought private donations from members and businesses hoping to raise enough money to purchase fireworks and host their own fireworks shows.

When darkness fell over us Saturday, July 3, the skies over Lake Ponemah/ Squaw/Tupper (PST) lakes and Lake Fenton lit up to help us celebrate our great country's Independence Day. Our country is now 245 years old. Since it was my birthday, I joked that the fireworks were to celebrate my big day too.

The PST board members collected more than enough money to purchase this year's fireworks thanks to generous residents and businesses. The money left over will go to next year's fireworks show. The group coordinating this year's fireworks did have to scramble at the last minute to find a suitable place to launch the fireworks since the small island they typically use was a bit underwater because of the heavy rains the area saw recently.

American flags

Dear Editor.

I am concerned about the Fenton Planning Commission article in the June 30 issue. I think the planning commission should allow flags certainly for major holidays like July 4th. I understand there is an ordinance, but treating small businesses like that and not having an exception to the rule is crazy. What has our world come to when you cannot fly the American flag on Fourth of July! I am not a service person, but I am truly offended that people have given their lives for us to be where we are today, and we do not seem to care. I recommend the planning commission rethink their position on the flags, or otherwise businesses will leave town and there will not be anything left for the commission to plan. Randy Redmond

Back to the Bricks announces grand marshal

■Ribbon-cutting at Factory One in Flint on Aug. 18 at 4 p.m.

Back to the Bricks announced this year's 17th annual Car Show & Cruise official grand marshal, Dr. Bobby Mukkamala.

In a July 1 press release, organizers stated that when the Back to the Bricks Executive Committee met to discuss this year's grand marshal, the main topic that kept coming up was who in our community is deserving of a much-needed "thank you" for all they have done in our community through the pandemic? It was a very easy decision.

This year's official grand marshal is Dr. Bobby Mukkamala. The Board of Directors unanimously agreed that Mukkamala played a huge role in making their event, and other events in the community, possible. This past year through the unprecedented times, Mukkamala stepped up and stepped out of his normal everyday life to truly help others. His dedication and innovation to create masks with his son in his lab, his educated wisdom throughout the COVID-19 pandemic to the governor's office, lawmakers and physicians statewide was just the beginning.

Mukkamala still dedicates his time to make sure vaccines are available for > our community. He supported and encouraged everyone, even led by example for all to get vaccinated.

Mukkamala is a true leader in this community, and one that doesn't like the limelight, but is very deserving of it. He will take part in the ribbon cutting at Factory One in Flint at 4 p.m., Aug. 18, followed by a Rolling Cruise from Factory One to Grand Blanc High School where he will be received by the Grand Blanc Chamber of Commerce at their "Pit Stop" Cruise In along the cruise route.

Mukkamala also will be at the Saturday Main Event Opening Ceremony as a Special Guest, Aug. 21 at 10 a.m. near the GM Statue Plaza in downtown Flint on Saginaw Street.

DRUNK DRIVER CRASHES IN HOLLY, ARRESTED

On Sunday, June 27, at 10:30 a.m., Holly police were dispatched to the area of Academy Street near Emily for a single vehicle rollover crash. Officers located the damaged vehicle with the uninjured driver still inside. He was identified as a 36-year-old Shelby Township man, who was obviously intoxicated. He was determined to be over twice the legal limit to drive. Alcohol intoxication was determined to be the primary factor in the crash. The driver was arrested for operating a vehicle while intoxicated.

GRAND BLANC WOMAN TWICE THE LEGAL LIMIT FOR DRIVING

On Saturday, June 26, a Holly police officer on patrol on N. Saginaw Street tracked a vehicle speeding. The vehicle was stopped and found to be driven by a 24-year-old Grand Blanc woman who appeared to be intoxicated. Sobriety tests determined the woman was over twice the legal limit to drive. She has a previous conviction for drunk driving and was arrested for second offense of operating a vehicle while intoxicated.

athletes had opened briefly.

On June 21, 2021 the United States Supreme Court released its opinion in National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) vs Alston and unanimously held that the NCAA's rules restricting certain educational benefits for student athletes violated antitrust law under the Sherman Act. This law prohibits businesses colluding or merging, thus forming a monopoly, to dictate pricing in a particular market, which results in an unreasonable restraint of competition.

The court found the educational benefits restrictions by the NCAA and its member schools (such as not allowing laptops or paid internships) were anticompetitive and schools should be allowed to offer whatever educational benefits they wanted to recruits.

Because of the procedural posture of the case, the court didn't rule on other possible non-educational benefits which could be offered including salaries.

However Justice Brett Kavanaugh in a concurring opinion, questioned the NCAA's right to have any restrictions at all.

On June 30, in response to Alston, the restrictions on athletes signing professional endorsement contracts for their names, images, and likenesses, were removed by the NCAA.

Reportedly a number of athletes have already signed contracts.

The NCAA decision and Kurt Vonnegut Jr.

Kurt Vonnegut Jr. has been called one of the most important contemporary writers and dark humor commentators on American society.

His first novel was "Player Piano" published in 1952. It was set in a fictional post World War III society where life was dominated by machines.

There were also some other significant differences from the way things were before the war.

Among these was college football, where the concept of amateur athletics was abandoned and instead all of the players were paid salaries. Recruiting was based on attracting players using salary incentives rather than scholarships.

I remember thinking when I read the book in 1971 that this could never happen in real life.

Sometimes truth is stranger than fiction or at least has similarities.

Fast forward to 2014 when a regional director of the National Labor Relations Board found that Northwestern University's scholarship football players were "paid employees" and could form a labor union.

How to plan a perfect game night

Strengthen bonds between friends. share laughs to last a lifetime

Shared experiences are ideal ways to make new friends or solidify established relationships. Bonds can be strengthened even further when those shared experiences include entertaining activities. This is a great reason for adults to incorporate routine game nights into their social calendars.

Game nights are nothing new. Perhaps your parents or grandparents gossiped over a few games of gin rummy or weekly poker gatherings? Before the widespread proliferation of digital video games, board games were a go-to way to have fun. Even now, game nights can provide the perfect way to slow down, have fun and get together with friends.

Hosting a game night can be an ideal way to have fun at home without turning on the television. The following are a few things to consider when planning a game night.

The number of people dictates which games can be played

How many people are invited to game night will determine the games that can be played. Game nights tend to be more successful with a guest between four and eight players. Keeping people engaged in a game can be more challenging if there are more than eight individuals, and most games are designed for a maximum of eight players.

Plan for finger foods

Game night etiquette typically dictates that hosts will provide refreshments. In lieu of a sit-down meal, offer finger foods, which are easier to manage while engaged in game play. Premade party platters are an option if you want to spend more time entertaining and less time preparing food. Guests also can be encouraged to bring small dishes, such as sandwiches, chips and dips or other snacks.

A game night can unite existing friends and help people interested in making new acquaintances find common ground.

Have a variety of games on hand

Let the course of the night be relatively fluid, even if you have a certain game in mind. If guests are not fans of a particular game, make sure you have others at the ready. Music or a sports game playing in the background also can be a way to keep guests entertained between turns. When deciding on games, consider these criteria, courtesy of Game Night Gods, an online game night resource

• The game should be easy to learn.

• The game should be relatively fastmoving.

· The game should pique interest and be strategic.

Get out of your comfort zones

Acting zany and engaging in games that push people out of their comfort zones can help guests get to know one another and laugh along the way. Games also are a perfect way to learn something new with little to no pressure.

A new family at the tip of Emerald Pointe graciously volunteered their backyard for the launching site and the problem was solved. The show was recorded and can be found on YouTube.

Just across the highway, fireworks were launched from Cases Island in the middle of Lake Fenton. They have gotten larger every year and are enjoyed by boaters on the lake as well as families around the lake if they have a view. Organizers have had a gofundme account for a few years to raise funds so that each year's show could be bigger and more colorful than the last. The Lake Fenton Cases Island Firework Team has been entertaining the area for 35 years but did announce this week on social media that this year's fireworks display from Cases Island would be their last. The show, provided by private donations and the work of such a dedicated group of individuals, will be missed in the future.

more about the product," said Genesee County's Director of Engineering Eric Johnston in a press release.

This is the first year they've used the perma-zyme from Substrata.

Randall Dellaposta, director of operations at the GCRC, said, "If it works well, we hope to do more roads in the future. We're always looking for creative ways to be cost efficient, and we're looking for quality ways to maintain the roads safely and securely for the motorists."

Substrata is a bio-chemical manufacturer of enzyme-based products used for road and soil stabilization, soil conditioning, petroleum bioremediation, cleaning and odor control. According to substrata.com, perma-zyme is made with a special enzyme formula that hardens dirt roads to form a concrete-like surface that lasts 10 years.

The GCRC normally uses magnesium chloride or liquid calcium chloride for dust control. They contract with townships to apply it twice or three times a year to dirt roads, depending on what the municipality requests.

The perma-zyme is more expensive. A standard one-mile, twolane road treated with perma-zyme costs $6,000. Chloride treatments cost approximately $1,300 per mile for both lanes.

Dellaposta said the long term investment is better. The permazyme only needs to be applied once and the effects last years longer, requiring less maintenance for the roads.

The press release states that the results "last up to 15 years with little to no maintenance."

Dellaposta said they hope the treatment leads to fewer potholes so they require less grading.

They'll be monitoring Carpenter Road, and in the meantime, they're planning to use the perma-zyme in multiple municipalities on a trial basis. In Fenton Township, they'll apply it to Fairbanks Road and on Hogan Road, from Lahring Road to Smith Road.

"Once we see how it performs and holds up, I think you're going to see it a lot more," he said.

The substance is also environmentally and worker friendly, requiring no special protective equipment, according to the release.

Flushing's Carpenter Road is primarily limestone with clay underneath. Typically, perma-zyme requires 20 percent clay content for the product to work effectively, according to the release, however Substrata did "extensive" testing on Genesee's soil. They determined that perma-zyme can work with limestone present.

"Perma-Zyme has a positive charge and bonds with the negative charge in both clay and limestone which induces an electrochemical reaction that results in a concretelike surface that gets stronger over time," according to the press release.

LF girls basketball enjoying the normalcy of this summer

By David Troppens

Lake Fenton — Life is back to normal for Brian VanBuren and the Lake Fenton girls basketball program.

A year ago, everything was mass confusion. With the COVID-19 pandemic, life was strange. It was a mystery if teams could get together, and if they did, what could they exactly do? The Lake Fenton girls basketball program just tried to make the most out of it all. "Last year for the summer we only did outside things on the football field," Van-Buren said. "We were doing all sorts of different stations — sit ups, push ups all the type of physical stuff to keep the girls minds engaged. We just wanted to do things together."

This summer life is closer to normal. The team has already gone to some shoot outs and have gone to a camp. There are voluntary sessions inside the high school gymnasium on weekdays for the girls who want to attend. And, of course, there aren't as many masks.

"(A couple of weeks ago) was our first day in the gym and the whole mask thing felt weird for a bit," VanBuren said. "We are like if you feel comfortable without a mask you don't have to wear one. That was different, and it was different because normal felt weird.

Brandon Miller is a national champion.

The Fenton 2021 graduate capped off his prep track and field career by capturing the 200-meter dash national championship at The Outdoor Nationals Presented by Nike held at Hayward Field at the University of Oregon last weekend.

Miller, also posted the second-fastest time in Michigan prep history in the 100-meter dash (10.52 seconds).

Miller, ran the 200-meter dash in a time of 20.49 seconds, defeating Jordan Anthony (20.57) by .08 seconds to earn his 200 national championship. Miller ended up an All-American in the 100 as well.

"I was absolutely elated," Miller said. "It meant the world to me to win that because I sacrifice almost every day for practice."

It is the second time this year that Miller earned a national championship. He captured the Adidas Indoor Nationals championship while running the 200, earning a time of 21.183 seconds at that meet in February

Justin Miller also competed at nationals in the high jump and earned All-American honors while Noah Sage competed in the 200 and the 400.

Brandon Miller had a slim lead in the 200 final once the runners got beyond the turn. He stretched it early on the straight away and then held on down the stretch against who was supposed to be one of the favorites, Anthony.

"I remember getting a good enough start to be in the mix," Miller said about the 200 final race, "and then slingshotting off the curve and slowly pulling ahead of the rest of the field."

He posted a time of 20.96 seconds to finish third in the preliminary round.

"When I pretty much jogged my 200 prelim and went 20.96, I knew that I was bound to go pretty low in the finals," Miller said.

The win was considered a "surprising" victory for Miller on some sites. One recording of the 200 final includes no discussion of Miller during the race until he's about 20 meters away from the finish line.

Miller placed second at the Division I state meet with a time of 21.36 on June 5.

In the 100, Anthony was the national champion with a time of 10.21. Miller posted a time of 10.52 seconds in the preliminary round, earning him the third seed entering the final.

Once the race began, Miller was in the middle pack for the entire race, and posted his personal-best time of 10.41 seconds. He edged out Jonas Clarke by .01 second for fourth.

"I was also very pleased with my 100 time," Miller said. "I'm honored to now hold the second-fastest 100 meter time in Michigan high school history."

Despite all of his success, which included leading the Fenton Tigers to their first-ever team state championship in boys track, nothing came easy for the graduated senior. Miller started the season on an all-time high, taking first in the 200 at See MILLER on 11

What happened: This was a pitchers' duel between Detroit's Denny McLain and Boston's Lee Stange. A year before his magical 31win season. McLain tossed a four-hitter, while walking four and striking out just two. Detroit got just enough offense to win this game, scoring single runs in the the third and eighth innings. The run in the third happened when Ray Oyler reached base on an infield error and McLain followed with a single, moving Oyler to second base. Little-used Lenny Green, playing for Al Kaline, responded with a run-producing single.

In the eighth inning, Green singled with one out. After another out, Dick McAuliffe walked and Norm Cash hit a

What about Al Kaline: Kaline nursed injuries many seasons during his career, and he was doing just that when this game was played. Despite playing with what the announcers said may be the best player in baseball, Detroit remained in the race, going 7-2 in the nine without him in the order (prior to this contest). Kaline returned July 27 and before he did the Tigers went on a losing skid. At that point, the Tigers trailed Chicago by 3 1/2 games.

What was coming up on TV: NBC was promoting the new season of Bonanza coming up in the fall. It was the second-longest running western series on television behind Gunsmoke, lasting 14 seasons and 431 episodes.

The pennant chase: Detroit and Boston were tied in second a game behind the Twins entering the final weekend while Chicago was two games out. The Twins lost two games against Boston, giving the Tigers a shot at the title. However, the Tigers split their final four games of the season, all against California. The season ended with a doubleheader against the Angels. Detroit won the first game 6-4, but lost the second 8-5.
