Ambulance wait times in Linden reach 15-20 minutes

County sends letter to municipalities on contracting with specific ambulance services

By Hannah Ball

With 34% of Linden's population age 55 and older, and 27% of the population age 62 and older, city officials and EMS workers are worried about the long wait times for ambulances.

"We have seen increased response times in the past several months like most other communities across Genesee County. Upwards of 15 to 20 minutes is happening more frequently, sometimes even longer," said Linden City Manager Ellen Glass.

Genesee County's ambulance system is unique. It does not have one dedicated ambulance service. Instead, multiple EMS companies provide service in the area.

However, according to Kolby Miller, CEO of Medstar Inc., increased competition among companies results in ambulance crews parking near the most populated areas of the county. This means that less populated municipalities, such as Linden, have to wait longer for an ambulance to arrive when someone has a medical emergency.

Community, firefighters mourn loss of former Gaines Twp. chief

Bill Miller, who helped build the Gaines Twp. Fire Dept. in 1979, died Jan. 1 By Lania Rocha Gaines Twp. — The Swartz Creek/ Gaines Township community - and in fact, the Genesee County firefighting community - suffered a great loss last week with the passing of former Gaines Township Fire Chief Bill Miller.

Miller, 80, died Saturday, Jan. 1, of natural causes. A funeral took place Saturday, Jan. 8, at Hill Funeral Home in Grand Blanc. Visitation was from noon to 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 8, at Hill Funeral Home, 11723 S. Saginaw Street in Grand Blanc, with a funeral service at 6 p.m.

Miller helped build the Gaines Township Fire Department from scratch in 1979. A February 2015 Swartz Creek View article announcing his retirement noted that he was the longest-serving continuous fire chief in Genesee County at that time.

"He put a lot of hard work and effort into putting it all together," said current Chief Joe Hyrman, who served as Miller's assistant chief for many years. "I remember when we started, we didn't have pagers, we had fire phones at the station, and we slept on old army cots until we got our pagers. He worked his butt off to put this all-in place.

"He was a great leader. He had a lot of good people skills. He could chat with anyone and get along with most people.

"He took the fire service very seriously. Most of the people who grew up through the ranks were taught by Bill Miller. He taught firefighters across the state. He was a good teacher, very patient. He was very well respected. And he was a very good friend."

Miller was a descendant of the first settlers of the Swartz Creek area, originally called Miller's Settlement, for whom Miller Road is named. He was proud of his heritage and sought to do his part to preserve local history, both as an aspiring author and as curator and archivist for the Swartz Creek Area Historical Society.

"He certainly had the most knowledge in our group," said Lisa Spillane, Historical Society member and assistant curator. "He had a wealth of knowledge. He was our curator right up to the very end. If anything needed to be identified, he was our go-to person."

Spillane said she will miss Miller's stories and his sense of humor.

"He always had a joke to share and most times it was about himself," she See BILL MILLER on 9 OUR VETERANS

■ month ago, someone said that cream cheese was going to be in short supply this winter. One article cited on-going supply chain and labor shortage issues, another said a cheese manufacture was the latest to suffer a cyberattack. I even saw something about a reimbursement program Kraft Heinz was offering during Christmas to help ease the pain of families going without their Christmas cheesecake.

But the holidays came and went and I didn't have any trouble finding my beloved cream cheese. That all changed this week. There it wasn't in THREE stores. No spreads, no bricks, no flavors. Only one tub of a "cream cheese alternative." Panic set in. I eat a lot of cream cheese. Turns out I'm not alone.

The author of a USA Today article from mid-December talked to a spokesperson for Kraft Heinz who told USA TODAY that the company is "maximizing our production to meet unprecedented demand."

"We're shipping 30-35% more product to foodservice partners vs. a year ago,' the spokesperson said in an email, noting at-home consumption, which has remained 18% higher than 2019 levels, is adding to demand."

Apparently the pandemic made us all crave cream cheese.

As with all of the shortages we've dealt with in the past two years, the cream cheese shortage won't last forever. I thank the Kraft Heinz spokesperson for their comforting words on that front. Another sure sign that cream cheese will be around for years to come is there hasn't been a slowdown in cream cheese advertising. (Just ask someone who has a hankering — suddenly cream cheese is everywhere.) Why? Because cream cheese brands know that, especially in the absence of their product when people could forget why they needed all that cream cheese in the first place, staying top-of-mind is vital. Brands are finding ways to keep their customers happy and thank them for their loyalty (see reimbursement program). Other brands are using this unusual time to find new customers who may have been loyal to a different brand before the shortage.

Cream cheese producers aren't alone. We have a lot of customers dealing with the same challenges, but they're still advertising. Why? Because staying top-of-mind remains the most important tactic a brand can employ right now. All of the current challenges are temporary and staying top-of-mind means that when those challenges end, consumers - both new and returning — will come to you. And as a reminder, consumers are spending. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, November retail sales were up 0.3% over October, nationally, and rose 18.2% over 2020. Imagine how high those numbers will be when supply shortages end. Plus, with all of the on-going changes right now you have to ensure your customers know that you're not going anywhere.

So, if you're taking the focus off goods or services, what should your marketing message include? Here are four ways our team suggests you stay top-of-mind right now:

• Share your terrific team: If there is one positive to come from labor shortages it is the appreciation leadership and consumers have for the team members still getting the work done. Share those faces along with some facts, like how long a team member has been with the company, why he or she has a passion for the work they do and their hobbies and interests outside of work. Along with keeping your brand top-of-mind, these marketing messages remind consumers that you provide jobs in the community, you care about your employees and, as an added bonus, these types of messages can even act as a recruiting tool.

• Show your community some love: Some of our clients are using their ad dollars to support area nonprofits by sponsoring advertisements or articles for and about for the vital organizations.

• Say thank you: A simple thank you goes a long way in today's world. Thank your team for their hard work. your customers for their loyalty, and your community for their on-going support.

• Basic branding: Sometimes we can get so caught up in developing a good campaign, that it's easy to forget how important and impactful basic branding ads can be. A strong

Spirit of the Silver Lining Award presented for community involvement

From West Bend Mutual Insurance Company

West Bend Mutual Insurance Company recently presented the Spirit of the Silver Lining Award to Brown & Brown for their ongoing support of the Flint YMCA.

Additionally, West Bend donated $5,000 to the Flint YMCA on their behalf.

"We want to congratulate Brown and Brown Insurance on being awarded the Spirit of the Silver Lining Award," said Shelly Hilton, CEP of the YMCA of Greater Flint. "The $5,000 grant will be used to help support youth and family programs in Flint. In particular, the funds will be used by our Safe Places program, which provides free afterschool care, homework help, and more to nearly 400 youth in our community."

Long time agent and YMCA volunteer, Steve Randall stated, "Brown & Brown Insurance is proud and fortunate to partner with organizations such as West Bend Mutual Insurance and the YMCA of Greater Flint. West bend's commitment to helping local communities in this time of extreme need shows their character and is greatly appreciated by all who benefit from this generosity."

"At West Bend, we have a proud tradition of giving back to the communities in which we do business," said Kevin Steiner, president and CEO of West Bend Mutual Insurance. "The Spirit of the Silver Lining Award is a unique program that allows us to express our gratitude to our agent partners on whom we rely to identify the causes that matter most in our communities."

Since 2006, West Bend has awarded nearly $2 million in grants, including $215,000 in 2021. These grants are used for sustaining support, special projects, or capital projects by nonprofit organizations representing a broad field of interests including, but not limited to: arts and culture; education; the environment; family, youth, and elderly; health and human services; medical research; and community development.

lize a patient until an ambulance or paramedic arrives on scene.

"They are comfortable providing patient care, gathering vitals, applying oxygen if needed along with performing CPR if the patient is in need," he said, adding that the current model with the contract worked well in the past and he's hopeful ambulance services will have more staff available soon. "In the meantime, we adapt as needed and do our best to take care of residents when called upon until ALS (advanced life support) services arrive to the scene."

Linden City currently has a contract with the City of Fenton and STAT EMS that has been in place since 2013.

"Unfortunately, due to challenges with the CAD system that 911 Dispatch uses and legal opinions of the consortium, our contract has never been recognized for dispatching purposes. Earlier this year, we attempted to work on a more regional effort with Argentine Township, City of Fenton, and Fenton Township for EMS Services. However, Fenton Township really had no interest in joining efforts. We are still working with Argentine Township and the City of Fenton on those efforts," Glass said.

Fenton Township Fire Chief Ryan Volz, who's chairman of the 911 Advisory Committee, said he doesn't believe the answer to this problem is to have one ambulance service for all southern Genesee County municipalities.

In early November 2021, Fenton Township entered into an agreement with Medstar Inc to provide ambulance services. County 911 Dispatch is still the ultimate authority on who is called to respond to calls. On Dec. 22, the Fenton Township Board of Trustees passed a resolution urging County 911 to recognize their agreement with Medstar.

Since the agreement began, response times have improved in Fenton Township. Average response times are down from 12 minutes to 6:50-7 minutes. Volz said they will continue to work toward solutions for the entire county.

The subject is an ongoing conversation between municipalities and Genesee County 911. Glass has served on the general membership board and they've discussed this on a regular basis. County 911 sent municipalities a letter on what steps to take to enter into a contract with an EMS company for ambulance services.

"Municipalities that have entered into a contract recently are still pending approval from the consortium," Glass said. "Representatives of 911 have reached out to Genesee County Board of Commissioners about finding a resolution on a county level and they felt it was better handled by the individual municipalities. Unfortunately, I do not see anything changing on a county level anytime soon.

The letter from Tim Jones, executive director of County 911, states that the consortium administration is considering recommending approval of municipal exclusive service contracts with EMS companies.

"Consortium General Counsel Anthony Chubb is negotiating an indemnity and defense agreement with any contracted EMS provider, which is currently the only proposed exclusive service contract provider of Consortium members. He will additionally require an Ordinance or Resolution by each municipality entering these agreements that explicitly sets out the following:

• The Municipality, pursuant to its police powers and authority, recognizes that EMS provider as set forth in its contract; with any contracted EMS provider;

• The Municipality directs the Consortium to dispatch a contracted EMS provider exclusively within its jurisdiction, subject to applicable backup service agreements;

• The Municipality holds the Consortium harmless from any claims the Municipality may have against the Consortium arising from Consortium recognition of the EMS services contract."

Municipalities have to turn in documentation by Feb. 1 at noon for review. The executive board will discuss this during the Feb. 8 meeting.

HOW DOES PAROLE WORK?

I believe that most people are generally aware of prisoners being released from custody and placed on what is commonly known as "parole."

However, what is probably not well known are things such as the history of parole, how the process works, if paroles are granted in all cases, and if they are allowed under federal law and in all states.

For today's column, I will attempt to answer these questions and more.

The word parole comes to us from the French word "parole" which means "promise" and generally describes when a prisoner is allowed early release and agrees to obey certain conditions under the supervision of a parole officer.

In the federal system, paroles were abolished with the passage of the Sentencing Reform Act of 1984 for crimes committed after November 1. 1987.

Prisoners convicted of federal crimes committed before that date are still parole eligible along with a limited number of other offenders.

As to state paroles, 16 states have eliminated parole with the remaining 34 states having various parole laws and systems.

In Michigan, parole is provided for by statute under the jurisdiction of the ten member Michigan Parole Board.

The Parole Board gains jurisdiction when a prisoner who is serving a non-life sentence has served their minimum sentence less any good time or disciplinary credits the prisoner may have earned.

In most cases, the minimum sentence is set by the judge and the maximum sentence by statute. This is called an indeterminate sentence.

Parole decisions are made by a majority vote of three member panels of the board.

The factors used in reaching a decision include the crime the prisoner was convicted of, their age, prior criminal record, risk, behavior in prison, parole guidelines scores, information from the prisoner interview, input from

If granted parole, the prisoner may return to the community under the supervision of a parole agent for a specified term under very specific and strict conditions.

Failure to comply with the conditions can result in a violation of the parole and a possible return to prison.

Those are the basics. For additional information on Michigan paroles, including paroles for life sentences, go to the Michigan Department of Corrections website.

Students invited to participate in Health Career Scholarship Contest

Contest encourages students to focus on health career of their choice and how COVID-19 has influenced their future studies and health

Flint – Genesee Health Plan (GHP) is accepting entries for its fifth Health Career Scholarship Contest sponsored by Sovita Credit Union. The contest is open to Genesee County high school seniors planning to pursue a career in the health care or health related sciences. Students in home-school or private school are also eligible to enter.

Students are encouraged to interview one or more family members to thoughtfully explain their family health heritage/history and how their findings influenced their future studies. Essays must also include the health field chosen and why, and how the Coronavirus pandemic influenced their decision.

"This year's contest is focusing heavily on the students understanding and expression of the impact that COVID-19 has had not only on them and their family, but how it impacted their decision to pursue a career in health care. With a national shortage of nurses and health care professionals, we hope that this experience encourages our youth to enter the health care field and make a positive difference on the health care landscape," said E. Yvonne Lewis, GHP director of outreach and founder/CEO of the National Center for African American Health Consciousness.

The specific scholarship contest guidelines are outlined below and can also be found at geneseehealthplan.org.

Two $1,500 scholarships will be awarded. They must be typed with 1,000 words or more.

said. "He always had so many stories to tell, and he never repeated the same. He was a natural storyteller. To some people, it comes naturally, and he was one of them."

Spillane also said Miller was a great teacher, largely due to his patience.

"He was a very caring person," she said. "There is nobody that Bill Miller met that he didn't like. He made people feel special. And you walked away feeling a little unique because he tapped into something in you. It was always a joy to talk to him because he made you feel that way."

Miller was working at AC and farming about 550 acres at his home in Gaines Township in 1979 when he inadvertently landed the job of fire chief for the fledgling fire department.

He hadn't intended to become a firefighter, much less the chief, and he initially declined an invitation to join the ranks. But he had a change of heart, and before the agency officially began, his peers elected him assistant chief. Then, as fate would have it, the man who would have become chief quit just prior to the official launch of the department, leaving Miller to assume the top spot.

Miller shaped the department into a highly-skilled, professional agency, all the while giving all of the credit to his crew.

In announcing his retirement, Miller said, "I've always been very proud of this department. A fire department is only as good as its people. We've always had very good people."

Throughout his career, Miller received many accolades, twice being named Chief of the Year, and twice receiving the President's Award from the Genesee County Association of Fire Chiefs. He also received numerous plaques from the Michigan Firefighter Training Council for his commitment to teaching future generations of firefighters, a service he continued after his retirement.

"If anyone deserves honors, it's Bill Miller," Spillane said. "He's somebody you just don't forget."

land use permit submitted by Cruwood Granary.

Applicants Chelsie Welch and Corey Cunningham wish to turn the building into a special event banquet facility that will host events for 200 people or fewer for weddings, showers, retirements parties, office parties and more.

"The extraordinary and unique building was the main draw to this location above all else," Welch said. "Its distinctive 166 year old historic architecture works exceedingly well as a space to host events, and we hope to preserve and enhance it with that use. We were also excited at the potential to be a part of the thriving downtown Fenton community and for what the future could hold for the City of Fenton and our business as a part of it."

The 0.542-acre property at 234 N Leroy Street in Fenton is located in the central business district. Surrounding properties are also zoned central business district. Its current use is listed as retail, although Red Fox closed March 2020. Skypoint Ventures, the real estate/capital development arm of Phil Hagerman and Jocelyn Hagerman, owns the property.

The public hearing on Thursday, Jan. 27 begins at 7 p.m. at Fenton City Hall.

Applicants are required to show how the plans are consistent with the master plan and that it's cohesive with the character of the vicinity.

"The proposed use would help to both revitalize and unify the Rail and Downtown Districts by regularly bringing large groups of people into the City of Fenton to celebrate their events. These significant events cultivate a lively atmosphere within the Rail District while paying tribute to the historically unique area and architecture," according to the application. "Our goal is to preserve, celebrate and amplify the historic architecture of The Granary Building. Our proposed use relies on minimal changes to the building and surrounding area. Maintaining the character of The Granary and Rail District are essential to the success of our business."

The location allows for "ample" use of the main streets as well as access to the highways, according to the application. "The proposed use will cause no further stress on any other public facilities and services," the application states. The venue "may produce potential nuisances such as traffic and noise pollution," according to the application. They plan to utilize valets, rideshare programs and shuttles so event traffic has minimal impact on surrounding areas. All music and sound systems will remain indoors.

This is not the first time an applicant has sought to turn this building into an event venue.

In October 2020, a different application applied for a special events permit but was denied due to parking issues.

In this application is a study done by ROWE Professional Services Company that states the maximum capacity allowed in the banquet facility would be 240 people, which was determined by the city. This requires them to have 120 parking spaces within a 500-foot walking distance.

The applicants provided ROWE with specifications of eight separate parking lots. In total, the plan shows 301 parking spaces.

Along with public parking, agreements with private businesses make up a portion of these spaces. The clients have an agreement to use the parking lots of Fenton Glass (60 parking spaces) and the Skin and Vein Institute (29 spaces). A third parking lot, with 11 spaces, is owned by the client.

Welch said from the beginning, these two businesses have been "incredibly supportive and helpful" in finding a potential parking solution.

ROWE collected data between 4 and 6 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 5 and Saturday, Nov. 6 to study the number of spaces available in these lots. There were 140 spaces available on Friday and 166 available on Saturday.

The application also lists more than one dozen industries that would be positively affected financially in Fenton with a nearby venue, including catering, hotels, photographers, bakeries and more.

Blue Devils capture fifth straight win, defeat Owosso 74-42

By David Troppens

In the COVID era, depth is going to matter in varsity basketball games.

It's likely squads will be without key starters or bench players, and others are going to have to step up. The Blue Devils have experienced some of those COVID issues at the start of the new year, yet the Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball team continues to win.

The Blue Devils (5-1) won their fifth straight game, defeating Owosso 74-42 in a Flint Metro League Stars Division contest. The victory also keeps the Blue Devils a perfect 3-0 in Stars Division play, tied with Goodrich.

"We've had some guys out and it has given a couple of guys a chance to step up," Lake Fenton varsity boys basketball coach Tyler Szczepanski said. "Carter Smith especially. He led us with 12 points, was diving all over the floor, getting tips and was a big spark for us. Reid Shumaker also was one as well. He only had five points but he played a lot of good defense and was being a pace maker and providing good leadership.

"We believe in everybody on our whole team, to our leading scorer to those who may not have scored much for us yet. We believe we can plug each of our guys in a spot and do well."

Tigers remain perfect in Stripes Division

By David Troppens

Fenton — The Fenton varsity girls basketball team has taken a few losses this season.

INE DEV

But one look at those losses and one can see most are against very good programs like Grand Blanc, DeWitt and Goodrich. All three have strong winning records.

However, when it comes to the games that matter the most during the regular season, the Tigers are looking like superstars. Fenton's defense sparked the squad to a pretty impressive 50-30 Flint Metro League Stripes Division victory against the Kearsley Hornets Friday, enabling the Tigers to remain perfect in division play.

"I think we talked a lot in this game," Fenton's Adrie Staib said. "And I think that it really helped us be able to trust that if you're not going to be there, that somebody else will. That really is our biggest thing as a team - communicating and talking - and that's when we thrive the most."

"We have to kind of make our money on defense," Fenton varsity girls basketball coach Don Kutchey said. "We have to try to get transition points off our defense as well and we did that tonight. We really have been focusing on it. Most of the stuff we do in practices are defensive drills.

... If you can play good defense, you can compete with anybody, and I think that's what has kept us in some games this year. We are able to play good solid defense, make sure we box out and hold teams to one shot. We really have focused on the team aspect of defense and not just me and my girl, but team versus team."

Fenton's offense stings Hornets, 68-61

By David Troppens

Fenton — Entering the 2021-22 varsity boys basketball season, one of the main questions for the Fenton Tigers was where would they get their offense. Besides Seth Logan, one wondered if the squad had enough offensive threats to put fear in their Flint Metro League opponents. Apparently the Tigers do.

The squad has scored at least 59 points in every game this season and are averaging 65.5 points a contest. That trend continued on Friday as the Tigers defeated the Kearsley Hornets 68-61 at Fenton High School.

"It was great," Fenton's Lance Barkholz said. "We just played as a team and the shots just came. We got hot and we went on a roll. It was good.

Tigers place second at Wyandotte

By David Troppens

The Fenton varsity wrestling team is steadily getting better.

That was proven once again at the Wyandotte Tournament.

The Tigers placed second out of 12 teams.

It didn't come easy. In fact, the Tigers didn't have second place wrapped up until the final match of the day. In it, Carson Krzeszak was tied 2-2 with out 10 seconds left. But that's when he tossed his opponent to his back and earned a 7-2 decision win, giving the Tigers second just ahead of third-place Tecumseh.

The Tigers had three wrestlers advance to the championship match with one winning his weight class title. The winner was Philip Lamka (160). Ranked second in the state, Lamka went 4-0, earning two pinfall wins and two technical fall wins en route to his individual title. He defeated Southgate's Brennan Evans in the title match by pinfall, improving to 19-0 on the season.

Gonzales wins title at DCC, teammates compete at South Lyon

The Holly varsity wrestling team competed at the South Lyon Duals and went 1-4, earning a victory against Notre Dame Prep 57-18.

Blue Devils keep on winning, defeat Owosso

By David Troppens

Nothing seemingly can slow down the Lake Fenton varsity girls basketball team.

The Blue Devils played its first half against Owosso with just six players, yet they were as dominant as ever, outscoring the Trojans 30-9 during the opening half. The rest of the game didn't go any better for Owosso as the Blue Devils improved to 8-0 overall and to 3-1 in the Flint Metro League Stars Division with a 60-16 thumping of Owosso at home.

Emerson Baker had a huge first quarter, netting 11 points during it. She scored Lake Fenton's first points of the game with a three-pointer and hit two more before the quarter was up. The only other player to score for Lake Fenton in the first quarter was Kerrigan Howdeshell who netted five points, including a trey of her own. Lake Fenton led 16-9 after one quarter.

The Eagles (3-0 in Metro Stripes Division and 5-3 overall) netted 21 points in the opening quarter and jumped to a 21-11 lead. Monte Keener and Joe Miller had six points each during the quarter, helping spark the Eagles' offensive work.

The trend continued in the second quarter. Reichen Lund hit two treys and scored eight second-quarter points, leading the Eagles to a 16-point quarter. Miller also hit his third trey of the game in the second quarter as the Eagles jumped to a Lund led the Eagles with a game-high 15 points. He scored 12 of his points during the opening half. Miller had nine points, with all of those points coming on three-pointers in the opening half. Becher and Keener had eight points each.

Eagles' strong first-half defense sparks win vs. Creek

By David Troppens

The Linden varsity girls basketball team played some outstanding first-half defense at Swartz Creek, and it earned the Eagles a strong Flint Metro League Stripes Division victory.

The Dragons were held to nine firsthalf points, eventually resulting in the Eagles' 44-26 victory.

The game started as a defensive contest. Megan Widner had a little bit of offense in the first quarter, scoring five Linden points. Kelsey McLennan hit a trey and the Eagles led 9-5 after one quarter.

"We have a chance to put the ball in the basket quite a bit," Fenton varsity boys basketball coach Chad Logan said. "Look at our games and it's not always us hitting three-pointers. We do get to the basket quite a bit and we get to the foul line a lot. This isn't a 45-point team."

The Tigers were efficient on offense against Kearsley. Fenton made 21-of-42 shots with seven being three-pointers. They attempted 28 free throws and also turned the ball over just nine times. The only reason the game was as close as it was probably had to do with the Tigers' free-throw shooting in the fourth quarter. mained the key for both squads. McLennan had four points and Paige Leedle hit a three-pointer. Meanwhile, Swartz Creek hit just one second-quarter field goal and Linden jumped to a 16-7 halftime lead.

In the second, half the Eagles' offense took over. Led by Leedle's 10 thirdquarter points, Linden scored 16 points in the stanza. Creek was held to just seven points and the Eagles led 32-16.

Leedle led the Eagles with a gamehigh 18 points. She also had five rebounds, four steals and three assists. McLennan netted 13 points, a team-high 11 rebounds, six blocks and four steals.

The Tigers led 56-45 entering the fourth and after a short hoop by Seth Logan, Fenton led 58-45 with 5:28 left in the contest. The Tigers were in control, and all they really had to do was make free throws from that point on.

However, the Tigers made just 3-of-7 over the next four minutes while the Hornets started nailing their shots. A three-pointer by Dakari Neely cut the Tigers' lead to 61-54 with 1:34 still remaining on the clock. However, the Tigers got stronger at the line down the stretch, nailing 7-of-8 on their next four trips to the line. Connor Luck hit four during that stretch, and Justin Banura hit the final two during it, giving the Tigers a 68-59 lead with just 14.5 seconds left.
