

Fire department holds 9/11 memorial service

■ Deputy chief talks about discovering his cousin was in World Trade Center on Sept. 11, 2001

By Hannah Ball

Fenton — Twenty-one years have passed since two planes crashed into the World Trade Center towers, Flight 77 struck the Pentagon, and Flight 93 crashed into a Shanksville, Pennsylvania field instead of the U.S. Capitol. Nearly 3,000 people died in these attacks.

While the Fenton Fire Department held a public memorial service for the 20th anniversary of the attacks, the 21st anniversary service was held internally, but it was no less solemn. Firefighters placed wreaths and a mural in front of the fire trucks.

Light rain fell from the sky as Fire Chief Bob Cairnduff led more than a dozen firefighters to the memorial in front of the station at 9:58 a.m. to line up at attention. One minute later at 9:59 a.m., when the first tower collapsed 21 years ago, they

Farm to Fork is crowd pleaser

■ Second annual event in Linden impresses guests with 'Bella Notte' theme

By Bridget Koledo

Linden — The Farm to Fork dinner fundraiser continues to be a must-do night judging by the attendance at the second annual event held last Saturday, Sept. 10 just outside the Linden VFW.

A limited number of tickets were released for this event in August and it appeared patrons were not disappointed with the sold-out night.

The evening named “Bella Notte” (beautiful night in Italian) was just as stated with an Italian inspired theme throughout the tents including the tables, centerpieces and backdrops.

Chefs Jody Brunori and Mandy Murphy along with fellow staff of The Vault created a five-course meal curated from local farms and vendors. They were helped along the way by many downtown Linden business owners giving their time to make Linden events a success.

“Happening in Linden was excited to bring people to downtown and show them what we have to offer,” said Betty Ciesielski, Farm to Fork committee member. “There are so many great-going ons and the people who create this atmosphere are second to none.”

Employees from the Linden Hotel donate their time for the dinner. Photos: Bridget Koledo

Proceeds generated from the dinner ticket sales help to support other Happening in Linden family friendly events throughout the year such as the River Roast, Holiday Parade and ice-fishing tournament to name just a few.

Building Brands

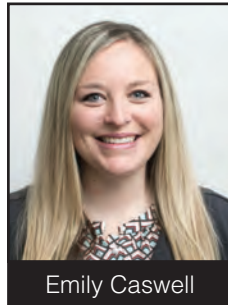

Pretend you don't have a brand manager (it's scary, I know!)

Last week, I overheard our ad director Pete Clinton talking with Publisher Wes Smith about the topic of an upcoming sales meeting. Clinton said he was going to ask our sales team members to describe how they would speak to a client or potential client about our business if they happened to be empty-handed in the meeting. Meaning, no sales materials detailing upcoming special publications, no copies of our newspapers, no sponsor packets, no View Newspaper Group pens, not even a business card.

I chimed in saying that if that really happened it would mean this company has the worst brand manager ever. I take that sort of scenario personally since it's my job to equip our team with everything they could need to tell the story of our brand.

Clinton further explained the meeting concept, which of course I understood the first time. And don't tell him I said so, but it was actually a great idea for a sales meeting because it generated an awesome conversation among our team and a great topic for this column. (A win-win).

The exercise of talking through your brand's story without any tangible branded items is something everyone should do, because — let's be honest — even the most prepared person will find themselves in that position at some point. When you do, here are some tips that emerged from our meeting that are sure to help:

Emily Caswell

• Elevator speech to the rescue: Any brand manager worth her salt has not only given her team hard copies of branded items to share but has also burned a few key words and phrases into their brain, known commonly as the elevator speech. The elevator speech should roll off the tongues of everyone associated with your brand and is what you should say to someone in a brief encounter (such as an average elevator ride) to entice them to want to know more. It's your brand's story, in a nutshell.

• Points of pride: It was fun to see what our team members focused on after the elevator speech. Clearly, they each have a point of pride within our company and that is the direction they take the conversation next. For some, it's a recent success story of a client who achieved or exceeded a goal thanks to working with our newspapers. For others — like me — it's talking about our community involvement. Every event we host has a nonprofit partner, and our giving goes well beyond that. In 2021, View Newspaper Group supported area nonprofits with more than $78,000 in cash donations. Plus, many of our team members volunteer their time with area nonprofits and churches. Giving back is a huge (and perhaps my favorite) part of our story.

Think about your points of pride when it comes to your brand. No hard copy sales sheet or branded giveaway can do as much for a brand as the passion you'll showcase when talking about what makes you proud of where you work.

SIDE NOTE: We are just weeks away from our next community event: Bottles, Brews & News. Set for Saturday, Sept. 24 in downtown Fenton, the event benefits Fenton Area Resources & Referral Network, Inc. — see Page 2 for details.

• Control the narrative: Let's say the person you're meeting while empty-handed questions why you work where you work. Our team is made up of the foremost experts in this as some people continue to say things like "Who

■ Sheriff's office holds spaghetti dinner to help family of first responder who died Sept. 5

By Sharon Stone

The Livingston County Sheriff's Office is raising funds to financially help the family of a Livingston County first responder who died Sept. 5.

Sheriff Mike Murphy said, "Livingston County suffered the unfortunate and sudden loss of one of our own first responders. As a community, we deeply mourn the loss of Cassandra Schmidt who passed away very unexpectedly."

Murphy added that Schmidt, 42, leaves behind a loving family that includes her husband, Chris, who continues to serve the Livingston County community as a firefighter, son Tristan, daughter Ciel, and her 7-year-old son, Jackson.

"Cassandra devoted her life to helping others and spent the last 14 years of her career selflessly and tirelessly serving the citizens of Livingston County,"

Cassandra Schmidt

Murphy said.

Schmidt worked as a paramedic with Livingston County EMS for 10 years and most recently served the community as an ER nurse/charge nurse at Trinity St. Joseph Mercy Livingston hospital in Howell.

To support her family during this difficult time, there will be a spaghetti dinner held Sunday, Oct. 2 at the American Legion Hall in Howell. This event will be open to the public and is our opportunity to come together as a community.

Murphy said their goal is to raise money to give back to Schmidt's family to help them financially during this most difficult transition.

"We are actively seeking donations of all levels to use for raffle prizes during this fundraising event," the sheriff said. "All proceeds will be donated directly to her family. Any donation you can offer will be greatly appreciated."

Setting bonds, types of bonds and bond conditions in criminal cases

Under both the United States and Michigan Constitutions, a criminal defendant generally has the right to bail or bond to allow him or her to be released from jail pending trial.

The judge has the responsibility to determine bail or bond and, although it may seem straightforward, there are many aspects of the process which the general public may not know about.

Accordingly, please consider the following primer on how the bail and bond process works.

Although the terms are used interchangeably, "bail" actually refers to the amount of money that the judge determines must be paid for a defendant to be released from jail, with "bond" being the document used when someone else (usually a bail bondsman) posts the money or there is another form of release.

To simplify things, I will use the term "bond."

The federal system and each state have their own bond laws.

In Michigan, to determine the amount of a bond the judge must consider the following:

- (1) The seriousness of the offense charged;
- (2) The protection of the public;
- (3) The previous criminal record and the dangerousness of the person accused;
- (4) The probability or improbability of the person accused appearing at trial.

An integral part of the bond process is for the judge to also determine the type of bond.

The three most common bond types are:

- (1) "Cash/Surety Bond" which requires the actual deposit of money with the court clerk or by a bondsman filing a bond document;
- (2) "10% Bond," which allows the defendant to pay 10% of the bond amount to the court clerk or to have a bondsman pay or post 25% of the 10%.
- (3) "Personal Recognizance Bond" which allows a defendant to simply sign the bond without posting any money and promising to come back to court.

Normally, there are also bond conditions, which a defendant must comply with depending on the charges. Examples include having no contact with the victim, no drugs or alcohol, no guns or dangerous weapons, and being put on a Global Positioning System (GPS) tether and/or an alcohol tether. There are many more possibilities.

A bond in a criminal case is a right, with duties, and is an important judicial decision for all concerned. I rest my case.

Happiness at HollyDays

■ Annual event brings families together for weekend of fun

By Hannah Ball

Holly — The eighth annual HollyDays, which took place Sept. 10-11, was an annual celebration to honor Holly families, community and history. The public was invited to enjoy the Dickens Farmer Market, parade, color run, beer tent, Holly Depot tours, on-stage performances, a pie eating contest and more.

The event is sponsored by Holly Village Parks.

The ax-wielding Carry Nation impersonator entertained the crowd with anti-alcohol signs. Unofficially, HollyDays got its start as the Carry Nation Festival years ago to celebrate the American prohibitionist who was famous for using a hatchet to demolish barrooms. The event was revamped in 2015, when the village of Holly celebrated its Sesquicentennial.

This year's tug-of-war contest between the police and fire departments at Crapo Park was different. Holly police officers were responding to a call, so supporters of both groups were invited to play against each other. Both sides won once.

Main Street Holly helped sponsor and organize the event.

"The event went very well and we had a great turnout from everyone in the community. All the events were well attended and drew different groups of people. The rain did stall the street dance but we were still able to get an hour in of that and many families showed up for that," said Nick Klemp, executive director of the Holly Downtown Development Authority.

"I can't really pick a favorite event because it is great to be around everyone from town and hang out having fun but my favorite moment was told to me by my wife — she was driving the Grand Marshals of the parade, which was Andy's Place and Battle Alley Arcade Antiques, and she said as they drove by the people watching the parade they kept yelling, 'We can't wait until you open again!' That is such a cool thing to hear and was the exact reason why we wanted them to represent the downtown and all the businesses that were impacted by the fire," he said.

'STAND DOWN'

Palmer, director of the Genesee County Veterans Department, is honored to offer this extensive first-time event for the neighboring communities. After the last few years of COVID-related challenges, "Getting the veterans in and knowing about the services available to them, is vitally important," Palmer said.

Working closely by his side is Garrett, another valuable resource at the Department of Veterans Service. "Shannon has been tireless in her quest to gather vendors, supplies, funding, and donations to make our event a success," Palmer said.

Defining success can simply be getting to the correct service. The road to services can be long and at times challenging. Asking the right question and asking it of the right agency can be a difficult task. That is what the Stand Down event is created to do — help veterans understand and navigate a system that has been traditionally difficult if you don't know where to start or turn first.

"Helping to avoid the frustration of where to begin is our job. They already fought for us, so we want to fight for them and get them the services they deserve," Garrett said. "If we need to walk with them step-by-step that is what we are willing to do."

The Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency (MVAA) will be one of those steps a veteran will make. The MVAA will be on site at Lake Callis, set up and ready to print off a military service record form called the DD-214. This form is essential to all veterans requesting service within the network of agencies that they may encounter in their life.

"Having our Veterans Affairs Agency literally on-site to save our vets the time and struggle of getting their DD-214 can be life altering. It is the form that can hold up all other services," said Garrett.

Service record forms won't be the only advantage to coming out for the event. Footprints of Michigan will be offering free tennis shoes, and vets may also get a free haircut or massage at one of the vendor tables.

Employment information for veterans returning from deployments, or simply seeking new opportunities will be available from companies at the event. Michigan Works Veteran Employment also will be available to guide those interested in new jobs or careers.

Family fun and kids' activities will be included for the day along with all the services being offered to the veterans. If you are interested in being a vendor or volunteering for the event, contact the Genesee County Veterans Department at (810) 257-3068.

Livingston County Sheriff Mike Murphy said Sunday, Sept. 11 that the woman killed was identified as Christy Ambrose of Fenton (Tyrone Township). The passenger in her car was her husband. He has been released from the hospital.

Murphy reported that on Friday Sept. 9, at approximately 6:30 p.m., deputies with the Livingston County Sheriff's Office were dispatched to the intersection of Denton Hill Road and Denton Creek Drive in Tyrone Township on the report of a two-vehicle personal injury crash.

A preliminary investigation revealed that a 2003 Chevrolet Silverado was traveling southbound on Denton Hill Road when an eastbound 2017 Chevrolet Camaro attempted to turn north onto Denton Hill Road from Denton Creek Drive in front of the pickup. As a result of the crash, both vehicles left the roadway and required heavy extrication by the city of Fenton Fire Department.

Deputies were assisted at the scene by personnel from Livingston County EMS and city of Fenton Fire Department. This incident remains under investigation by the Livingston County Sheriff's Office Traffic Safety Bureau.

Applefest time also means chili time

Two hundred gallons of 'the Padre's Chili' being prepared

By Sharon Stone

With a crisp touch of fall in the air, what better way to treat yourself than apple desserts and homemade chili.

As a longtime tradition of Applefest, "the Padre's Chili" will be available this year. First introduced by Fr. David Harvey in 1979, the homemade chili takes several volunteers to make.

Pat Lockwood, finance chair of Applefest, said the making of nearly 200 gallons of Padre's Chili for this year's Applefest is led by Harvey's predecessor chili maker John Starrs, who took over the reins in 2017.

Harvey had come back every year to make his chili, even after retiring from St. John the Evangelist Catholic church in Fenton in 2013.

THE PADRE'S CHILI

Festival Size Batch

INGREDIENTS

10 lbs. lean ground beef
10 c. diced onion
7 c. diced green pepper
1/3 c. sugar
1 bottle Worcestershire sauce
1/3 c. salt (or less)
1/4 to 1/3 c. black pepper
1 8 oz. container tomato paste
8-10 quarts fresh stewed tomatoes (the more the better)
1 No. 10 can pinto beans
1 No. 10 can chili beans, and half of another can.
1 c. of chili powder (mixture of hot and medium)
Five to six bay leaves (remove before serving)

INSTRUCTIONS

Brown meat first. Mix all other ingredients together and then add to browned meat mixture. Cook about three hours.

It's all about the apples

Fifty years of pies, crisps and auctions to generate funds for church programs

By Sharon Stone

What would Applefest be without apples? Maybe just another fall festival.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Applefest on the grounds of St. John the Evangelist Church in Fenton. This time of year coincides with the apple harvest so it is a natural combination.

Pat Lockwood, finance chair of Applefest and Miriam Sage, chair of Applefest with her husband Ryan, said the Applefest committee purchased 125 bushels of apples from Spicer Orchards.

Parishioners who would like to make apple pies can ask the committee for apples and tins. They then bake pies using their own recipes. Volunteers will also be making 1,000 pies on site at the church, which will then be available for purchase during Applefest. Lockwood said they also offer some frozen pies, which have been popular in the past.

Those who think their apple pie recipes and baking skills are the best can enter their pie in the Applefest contest, which will be held at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 18. Winning apple pies will be auctioned off to the highest bidders.

In years past, some pies have fetched several thousand dollars from competitive bidders. Proceeds benefit St. John Church and the many programs the Fenton church offers.

How much will the winning pies go for this year?

Mouth-watering apple pies are the core of Applefest in Fenton, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

Volunteers prepare apples prior to a previous Applefest in order to make approximately 1,000 apple pies for the festival. Times file photo

Local jeweler sponsors lapel pin

As a keepsake memory of the 50th anniversary of St. John Applefest

By Sharon Stone

First he fixed the iconic four-sided clock tower of the old Fenton fire station that had been broken for many years. More recently, Ronny Medawar, owner of Medawar Jewelers, is involved with another local project close to his heart.

He's sponsoring the Applefest Commemorative lapel pins that were made to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Applefest.

The memorabilia lapel pins will be available for $5. These red apple pins are a keepsake memory of St. John Applefest and 500 pins will be sold. If you are lucky enough to receive a gold pin, you will be entered into a drawing on Wednesday, Sept. 18 at 5:30 p.m., for a prize of $500.

Pat Lockwood, Applefest finance chair and Miriam Sage, Applefest chair, have known Medawar to be very involved with St. John and Applefest so they reached out to him to see if he'd sponsor their lapel pins.

Participants have a choice of a 10K run, 5K run, 5K walk, one mile run and a one-quarter mile kids fun run.

Another prize added to Applefest raffle

The public can win cash, car leases, furniture or electronics package

By Hannah Ball

Applefest is one of the largest, if not the largest, annual fundraising celebration in the Fenton area, and one of the most anticipated features is the raffles.

This year, multiple businesses once again donated prizes that lucky ticket holders will win at the event, which will be held Sept. 15-18 at St. John the Evangelist Church. One business is sweetening its deal.

Like in past years, Vic Canever Chevrolet has an item in the first prize category — a Chevrolet Equinox. They also donated a three-year lease for a 2023 Chevrolet Blazer, which will be the grand prize.

The Canever family, and Vic Canever Chevrolet, has deep ties to Applefest and St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church. Their historic involvement has not only made possible a family friendly event as a major sponsor, it has also helped improve people's lives. Winners receive cash, a three-year lease for a vehicle or one of the other prizes, and the money raised from the event goes to St. John's, which runs a food pantry and regularly donates to community causes.

Richard Canever, president of Vic Canever Chevrolet, said it was his late brother-in-law, Bill Winks, who came up with the idea of a car raffle years ago.

"I can still remember the first car, it was a red Z28 Camaro, it was a very base one, and the idea has been repeated every year since," he said.

"We only donated part of the car back then, but it was still a great money maker for St. John and that's the whole point."

His sister, Sue Winks, and Bill served as Applefest Chair on the original committee for three years straight at the beginning of Applefest. During this time, Bill was the general manager of Vic Canever Chevrolet.

"I was still in college. I know my father, Vic, was a major contributor

The third annual Applefest golf outing is held in memory of Ron Lockwood, who was a long time volunteer with Applefest.

Applefest golf outing sold out

Third annual event held Friday in memory of Ron Lockwood

By Sharon Stone

The Applefest Golf Outing in memory of Ron Lockwood was held Friday, Sept. 9 at Coyote Preserve Golf Club. This was the third outing in memory of Lockwood, who died Nov. 5, 2019 at the age of 77.

The 2020 Applefest was altered from its traditional format due to the pandemic and festival organizers scrambled to pull together fundraising activities, which included a golf outing. The Applefest Core Committee decided to hold a golf scramble at Coyote Preserve. To make the event more special, the committee decided to make it in memory of Lockwood.

Lockwood was the husband of Pat Lockwood, Fenton's mayor pro tem and a member of the Applefest committee. The Lockwoods had helped with Applefest for more than 40 years.

When Pat Lockwood learned of the committee's decision to hold the inaugural outing in 2020 in memory of her husband, she had said, "He'd be loving this. It's a very special day for us."

All event proceeds will provide funding to continue to support St. John the Evangelist Catholic Parish and all sponsors received recognition on the St. John and Applefest affiliated pages and website links.

Pat Lockwood said this year's outing sold out with 36 teams. She said they had 40 hole sponsors and six major sponsors. She added that one thing unique about this outing is that there is something special at each hole, whether it's a game, treat or beverage. She said local businesses were wonderful with supporting the outing.

In years past, they held a kids golf clinic in the morning, however, with moving the time of the shotgun start earlier in the morning, they did not hold the kids clinic this year.

"My family has supported St. John since my father bought the dealership in 1969. This year, we are donating the three year lease of a new Chevrolet, making it the first time any dealer has ever donated the entire lease," Canever said. "We are extremely happy and proud to support the great students, families and staff of St. John. It's been part of the Fenton community for as long as I can remember and has served the Fenton Community very well!"

Al Serra Subaru arranged for a Subaru Legacy to be one of the first prize raffles.

Susan Garontakos, lead community relations activities at Al Serra Auto Plaza, said they participated in the raffle this year not for the recognition, but because it complements their philanthropic efforts.

"We just believe that the St. John's fundraiser benefits the community and the people in the area. We serve them as well. We're community partners interested in making sure we have healthy businesses and community members," she said. "We try to help as many organizations as we can."

Medawar said Monday that Lockwood and Sage know he's very involved with the festival and he always wants to be part of it. "I'm involved, especially with Applefest. My kids go there," he said.

He said they brought the design to him and said the keepsake lapel pin was something they wanted to do and they wondered if he'd want to be part of it. He said he definitely wanted to be part of keepsake lapel pin and paid to have them made.

"It's all about marking the occasion," he said.

Eagles capture homecoming victory vs. Kearsley, 40-14

By David Troppens

After a tough 6-0 loss against Goodrich a week ago, the Linden varsity football team had to figure out a way to get the squad's offense some confidence.

The Eagles did just that during their homecoming game against Kearsley, earning a 40-14 victory.

"Like we talk about, it's all about trusting the process," Linden's varsity football coach Chad Williams said. "We talked about being in that time. For us, it's all about not being too high or too low. We don't let life's ups and downs impact who we are and how we prepare.

Tigers edge Flushing for road victory, 21-19

By David Troppens

Fenton varsity football coach Jeff Setzke will be the first to admit that the Tigers' Flint Metro League Stripes Division season opening game at Flushing wasn't his squad's crowning moment of all time.

But, guess what, maybe one game a season qualifies as 'perfect.' It's the games when teams have to find a way to win a road contest that help create league championship seasons, and that's what the Tigers did Friday night. They found a way to win a challenging road contest, defeating Flushing 21-19 on Flushing's home field.

"After the first two weeks, both being big games and playing well in both of them, ... sometimes kids have a tendency to let up a little bit. Flushing deserves credit. They played hard, changed some things up, and we were preparing for things on the fly we were not expecting. ... We didn't get a lot of style points but we were able to get the 'W' and move on."

Flushing scored first, on a 60-yard TD

run, making it a 6-0 lead, but the Tigers answered back when Jake Nichols scampered 67 yards for a Fenton touchdown. The Tigers converted all three extra-points in the contest, and this one made it a 7-6 Fenton lead.

The Raiders fought back to take the lead one more time on a nine-yard by Christian Tanner. The Raiders failed on another extra point attempt and led 12-7.

From there, the Tigers dominated the first half. Fenton scored on its next possession on a third-and-7 play from the Raiders' 15 when Alvord scored. Fenton led 14-12 with 4:10 left in the first half.

Fenton got the ball back again, but this time the Tigers had to start at their own 4. It mattered little. Alvord had a 30-yard run to get the Tigers out of danger, and later added a 29-yard run, putting the ball on Flushing's 2. Cameron Dean punched the ball in eventually with a two-yard TD run late in the first half. Fenton led 21-12 at the half.

Blue Devils play complete game, defeat Brandon, 30-14

By David Troppens

The Lake Fenton varsity football team didn't play that bad in its first two games of the season.

Against Gaylord, the Blue Devils led most of the game until a final TD drive late in the game ended up resulting in a 15-14 loss.

Against Swartz Creek, the Blue Devils had golden chances to score early as well, but failed to. The end result was a second loss.

The Blue Devils did something they had yet to do when they faced the Brandon Blackhawks on the road Friday night. They finished their drives with scores and finished strong. The Blue Devils scored points on six possessions earning a 30-14 Metro League Stars Division victory.

"I thought our kids were determined to finish tonight," Lake Fenton varsity football coach Marty Borski said.

"We've had some success moving the ball this year, but we haven't finished drives. Tonight, we weren't going to let that happen. The kids played their hearts out again, but we found another gear.

Both teams started by exchanging scores. Brandon scored on its first possession on a 17-yard TD pass, but the Blue Devils answered back with a 56-yard TD drive, capped by a one-yard TD pass from Carsen Lewis to Carson Haddad. After Ashton Hunter converted the first of his three extra-point kicks, the game was tied 7-all.

Brandon followed with an 80-yard scoring drive, giving the Blackhawks a 14-7 lead by the end of the first quarter. However, Lake Fenton followed with a 75-yard drive of their own. It was capped by a Lucas Storm four-yard TD run, tying the contest at 14-all.

The Tigers opened their Flint Metro League season with a decisive 25-10, 17-25, 25-15, 25-19 victory against Flushing on Thursday. They followed that performance by earning the tournament championship in the Gold Division of the Oxford Tournament.

"I am so impressed with the team," Fenton varsity volleyball team Jenna Long said. "They have amazing chemistry. They push and cheer so hard for one another.

"We have amazing leadership from our senior captains Adrie Staib and Evelyn Kursniak, and we also have great young talent who will be fun to watch in the upcoming years with freshman Eva Long, and sophomores Anna Logan and Megan Gornick. Junior Paige Baker is also impressive. She's a great blocker and is a very consistent attacker."

At Oxford, the Tigers defeated Birmingham Groves twice, Garden City and West Bloomfield before the finals. They earned their spot in the finals by beating Birmingham Groves in 25-9, 25-20 in the semifinals. In the title game the sounded a truck siren and then had one minute of silence.

“We hold our annual ceremony to honor and remember all that were lost on 9/11. Not just the first responders, but all of the victims,” Cairnduff said. “At the WTC, the Pentagon, and the field in Shanksville, Pennsylvania where Flight 93 crashed. Our 9/11 memorial has aspects to represent all three sites that were part of the attacks.”

Dep. Chief Ed Hadfield lost a family member in the attacks. His 27-year-old second cousin, Flint resident Eric Bennett, was in the first tower when the plane hit. It wasn't until four or five years later that he was actually declared deceased.

“He was on the phone with his mother when the first plane hit,” he said. “It was tough.”

He found out what happened through his second cousin's mother. Enough remains had to be gathered and identified for a death certificate to be issued, which took years.

“It was a long time before they were able to actually declare him dead and the whole legal process — he owned a home and everything — all that was really a problem because they didn't have a death certificate. There was a long drawn out process for their family,” he said.

Hadfield has been to see the national September 11 Memorial & Museum in New York City once.

“The whole event was very emotional to begin with and to find out we actually kind of have a direct relative that was a part of it made it very very tough,” he said.

The FFD requested a piece from the destroyed Twin Towers, and now a piece of steel from one of the towers is built into the memorial. The whole process of coordinating with the city of New York and receiving the piece took a few years. The city received the steel in 2011. The memorial was installed in Fenton in 2016.

“The thing is, you don't know what you're going to get. Maybe just a small piece. You may get a huge piece and then you've got to figure out what you're going to do. We built the memorial once we got the piece. It took us a couple years to design,” he said. “Fenton Memorials helped us tremendously to figure out what to do and how to display it properly. I think we did a great job of it. I really like having it.”

Hadfield said yearly memorial services only take a few minutes to conduct. They help those who remember the event relive the weight of that day, and they also help teach those who weren't alive or were too young to remember.

“We've got several people in the department who hadn't been born yet. It's important to help the young understand what happened. I remember exactly where I was, I know exactly what I was doing when the first tower got hit. Clearly I didn't know my cousin was in it at the time,” he said.

The 40-year veteran firefighter was walking through the lab at the proving grounds at General Motors when a co-worker told him a plane hit the World Trade Center. Originally, he thought it was a mistake.

When the second plane hit, he knew it wasn't an accident.

“I said, ‘we're going to go to war,’” he said. Those in fire services form a brotherhood, Hadfield said, and watching the firefighters rush into the burning Twin Towers on TV made it more emotional for him.

“When they collapsed, there was no question that there was going to be a huge number of people who died. Firefighters were in there. I knew that there was going to be firefighters dying. 343 firefighters died that day and there's been hundreds since as a result of the exposure to the asbestos and the toxic smoke and dust and everything,” he said.

More than 4,343 survivors and first responders have died since Sept. 11, 2001, according to the World Trade Center Health Program.

The events of 9/11 highlighted the lasting effects that smoke and burning materials has on firefighters and other first responders who are exposed. Hadfield, who's also an instructor for the fire academy, said this is why they emphasize the importance of keeping their gear clean and wearing their breathing apparatuses at fires.

“There are many lasting effects of 9/11,” Cairnduff said. “The victims' families deal with the tragedy every day, as do many of the responders that went to ground zero to help afterwards. Many responders are dying each year from the exposure to all of the toxins that were at the WTC site. We honor those families and the responders that are still dying as a result of 9/11.”

Decades ago, most buildings were built with mostly wood and cotton, but current building materials, such as plastic, are more hazardous when they burn. The color of smoke has changed since Hadfield first became a firefighter. It used to be a lighter brown, but now it's mostly blacker and darker smoke, which still often contains flammable substances. This can cause fireballs in the smoke.

“Now the smoke is fuel and we never talked about that 25 years ago. I've seen it happen. Just pumping out huge amounts of dark, dark smoke and all of a sudden, the smoke is full of fire,” Hadfield said.

THE MEMORIAL

The memorial has several pieces, all with symbolism. The concrete path leading to the monument is flanked with spots of tall grass — symbolizing the field in Pennsylvania where one of the planes crashed. The concrete where the monument sits is in the shape of a pentagon, for the Pentagon building, which also was attacked.

The monument is made up of two vertical pieces of granite representing the two World Trade Center towers, with images and inscriptions on either side, and includes a piece of steel from one of the towers, which the fire department was given in 2011 by the Port Authority of New York & New Jersey.

Bethany "Beth" Ann Hubbard 1953 – 2022

Bethany "Beth" Ann Hubbard was a caring daughter, wife, mother, grandmother, sister, and friend. She left this world surrounded by family on Thursday, September 8th, 2022 at age 69. Beth was born to Thomas and Joanne Seavey on July 24th, 1953. After graduating high school, she married her husband of 50 years, David Hubbard. Together, they had three children, David Jr. (Wife Jodi), Cristina Eames (husband Steven), and Jennie. Beth was also blessed with loving grandchildren, Hailey, Connor, Brooke, Molly, Dominic, and Max. At 38 years old, Beth began a nursing career that remained at the center of her life until her passing. Beth established deep community roots at Grayling Mercy Hospital and Kirtland Community College as the Director of Nursing. Beth was a fierce advocate for patient care and patient rights, and a gifted caregiver. To her great joy, daughter Cristina and granddaughter Hailey followed in her footsteps to become Registered Nurses. Beth loved spending time in the kitchen and quite simply was an amazing cook. Beth also had deep community ties to the local farm market (where some of her favorite people gathered weekly). A "Celebration of Life" is being planned in Beth's honor and the date of the event will be announced when the planning is completed. Also, in lieu of flowers, donations will be accepted for the "Bethany Ann Hubbard Memorial Scholarship". This scholarship will be established in memory of Beth to be awarded to Kirtland nursing students. Arrangements entrusted to Sorenson-Lockwood Funeral Home. www.sorensonlockwood.com reads the newspaper?" Our team talked about this question in our meeting and learned we are all skilled at taking control of that particular conversation by sharing our success. View Newspaper Group has grown from one paper to 14 since 2003 and we publish 250,000 copies per week of our community newspapers, so lots of people read our newspapers. From there, we again go to our points of pride, which for me includes that we are locally owned and the only area media company covering many of the communities we serve. No matter where you work, there is always going to be that person who questions it. Be prepared to direct the conversation without being defensive.

What story do you share about your brand when you're caught empty-handed? Email me at ecaswell@mihomepaper.com.

Emily Caswell is the brand manager at VIEW Group, the branding division of View Newspaper Group.

TEN FBI AGENTS arrived at a Linden bookstore to serve the owner a court document and take her to federal court in Detroit. A year ago, she committed a misdemeanor in Washington, DC. The U.S. DOJ convened a grand jury that expanded charges. Deep state at work. Wake up, America.
